WEATHER REPORT.

Weather conditions and general forecast for Oregon, Washington and Idaho.—No rain of consequence has as yet fallen west of the Missouri river, but cloudiness is increasing and unsettled conditions are becoming pronounced in the Pacific states.

Yesterday was the hottest day on record in the Willamette valley this early in the season, and high temperatures prevailed generally in the north Pacific states, which caused the snow to melt rapidly and the rivers to rise. The Snake river at Lewiston rose 1.4 feet during the last 24 hours. The Willamette river is also rising at the rate of a little over a foot a day. It is expected that the Willamette river will fall before the rise in the upper Columbia reaches Vancouver.

The indications are for showers and cooler weather in western Oregon and western Washington tonight and Thursday, and partly cloudy and cooler weather in the Intermountain region.

Maximum temperature in the last 24 hours, 88; minimum temperature, 54; precipitation, .0.

CHEAPER BUTTER IS NOW A CERTAINTY.

DROP IN BUTTER IS NOW CERTAIN

RECEIPT OF CREAMERY STOCK IS VERY LARGE AND THE WARM WEATHER HURTS THE DEMAND—MANUFACTURERS SAY PRICES WILL GO LOWER.

Front Street, April 13.—The principal items of interest in the Portland wholesale markets today are:

Butter drop is sure.
Eggs are very firm.
Warm weather bad for hogs.
Veal has to be dumped.
Not enough chickens coming.
Turpentine is lower.
Salt market disturbed.
Mill feed is higher.
Potatoes continue firm.
Onions are weaker.
Sugar market very firm.
Hops are in demand.

Price of Butter Will Drop.

All present indications now point very strongly to the fact that there will be a drop in the current quotations on the better grades of creamery butter within the next few days. The receipts of cream at all the local creameries is larger than for some time previous and the warmer weather has caused a smaller demand. The fact that all of the outside butter markets are very weak and are likely to go lower soon, adds to the belief that this market cannot much longer stand the strain of the present high prices and a drop in values in this city within the next few days is considered a certainty.

Outside Butter Ready to Come.

Butter is so cheap and so plentiful and they have so much surplus stocks in the other markets that it will not be long before this territory is invaded, unless perchance the local quotations go to a level where it will be unprofitable for the outsiders to ship in. Most of the valley creameries have already cut down their highest figures to the 25 cent mark, but the Portland men still demand 30 cents for the product of the local creameries. Along Front street nothing over 25 cents has been obtained for several days and a drop in these values is now expected. The product of the local creameries is always quoted 2½ cents a pound over those of the valley institutions. Free delivery and exchange of unsold butter compel them to charge this extra figure.

Eggs Are Very Firm.

The egg market continues very firm with the receipts very much under the demand. The figures of the leading egg men in the city seem to have gone wrong somehow, for everybody expected a very large increase in the receipts with the advent of the warmer weather, but the reverse has been the case, and instead of values touching the bottom of the list they are now ruling very firm at the top. The local demand for eggs is not over great, but there is a sufficient call from the northern markets to clean up everything that comes. There is now a lull in the cold storage operations on account of the inability of the dealers to obtain sufficient stocks. Some of them are vainly offering as high as 17 cents a dozen out in the country, f. o. b., but even this inducement is not strong enough to bring the eggs in.

Chickens Are Slow in Coming.

Just why the receipts of chickens are so small at this time is not known, but dealers along Front street are a unit in saying that they have not seen such small arrivals in years. The demand at present prices is good, but beyond these figures the consumption stops.

Veal Has to Be Dumped.

There is absolutely no demand for veal at the present time and quite a number of carcasses have recently been carted away to the city crematory on account of the inability of the meat men to get rid of them before they became too strong. "I don't see why the farmers insist upon shipping their veal into the market," says a prominent commission man, "when it is now a well known fact that the stock will hardly bring the freight charges—and in some instances it will not even bring that amount." There is veal to be seen in every store along Front street and you have only to make an offer in order to get the stuff given to you.

Weather Is Bad for Hogs.

Quite a number of large, fat hogs arrived along the street this morning in a very poor condition, the dealers being unable to dispose of them at any price. The weather conditions are about as unfavorable as they could be for the shipment of dressed hogs into this market and those shippers doing it will probably be compelled to pay their own freight charges. Good hogs find sale.

Turpentine Is Lower.

The W. P. Fuller company announces a decline of 5 cents a gallon in the former quotations on turpentine.

Several cars of oranges arrived in today in good condition.

Mill Feed Is Advanced.

The Portland Flouring Mills company announced today an advance of $1 a ton in both bran and shorts quotations. The market is very strong at the new figures. The cause of the rise is the shutting down of most of the mills on account of the small demand for flour.

Salt Market Disturbed.

The salt market is in a disturbed condition although no changes appear in the quotations. The various salt interests are as far apart as ever and there are no hopes of an immediate settlement of the late troubles. Retail dealers are keeping very small stocks.

Potatoes Continue Firm.

The potato market continues its firm tone—the demand from San Francisco being very brisk, one car selling yesterday in that market at $1.75. Local dealers still fear that prices will become so high that the demand and consumption will drop off.

Merchants' Opinions on Today's Markets.

W. T. Turner & Co.—Market in fine condition on poultry and eggs; veal arrived in bad shape on account of the hot weather.

Bell & Co.—Two cars oranges arrived today.

Chatterton & Co.—Lambs very slow sale; chickens find ready sale; eggs are firm; also hogs.

Levy & Spiegl.—More strawberries arrived in from California today; 25 cents ruling price; shipments of cabbage and cauliflower arrived from California in bad shape on account of the warm weather.

G. S. Smith Co.—Veal too plentiful; eggs good demand; chickens and hogs scarce; lambs are slow.

Malarkey & Co.—Warm weather demoralized fish business; plenty of stuff in market, but there is no demand.

D. E. Meikle.—Potatoes very firm; onions are looking slightly better on account of the improved local demand.

W. S. Swank.—Market good on potatoes, but receipts are rather lively.

Everding & Farrell.—Markets dull today; eggs pretty firm; chickens slow in coming—seems to be lightest receipts for some time; veal over plentiful and condition of stocks and market bad; pork not arriving in good condition.

Davenport—Thompson Co.—The creamery butter market is weaker and looks lower.

Dryer, O'Malley & Co.—Poultry still scarce and top quotations are easily obtained; good demand for springs and fryers; potato situation all right, but feel like market will get too high and then slump.

Page & Son.—Hogs arrived in very bad shape today on account of the hot weather; eggs are firm; chickens scarce and firmer.

McKinley Mitchell.—Still a good demand for potatoes from San Francisco, but outside business is small.

Smith Bros.—Hogs are in good demand; don't seem to be enough of the stocks coming; veal plentiful, but we have experienced no trouble in disposing of them; no chickens at all in the market today; demand excellent.

STOCKS WAIT RESULT HARRIMAN-HILL SUIT

(Furnished by Overbeck, Starr & Cooke Co.)

New York, April 13.—Logan & Bryan say: Our stock market opened firm but lapsed into dullness pending the court decision in the Harriman suit. After the announcement that the decision would not be handed down until 10 a. m. tomorrow the market improved and closed at the best. The interest centered in Atchison, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper. Coal stocks were active and higher. Reading second preferred declared a dividend of 2 per cent. Toledo preferred is well bought in a quiet way and we are told will sell higher. Gossip says it looks as if Mr. Hill would win in the Harriman suit. No change in money conditions and no engagements of gold for export. We still feel the situation is sound and expect nothing but a speculative setback on which we would buy stocks.

NEW YORK SUMMARY.

New York, April 13.—Dow, Jones & Co. say: Prices for export steel stiffened by the information of the German steel trust; new orders falling off in western steel trade. Seventeen roads for the first week of April show average gross decrease of 6.33 per cent. Large block of borrowed Pennsylvania stock returned. No announcement of New York Central. Financing or terminal improvements will be made before June 1. The banks have gained from the sub-treasury since Friday $4,380,000. It is denied that United States Steel is borrowing money here through subsidiary companies. Imports of Japanese gold likely to continue for some time. First week of April Missouri Pacific shows $587,000, a decrease of $65,000.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET.

(Furnished by Overbeck, Starr & Cooke Co.)

New York, April 13.—McIntyre & Marshall say: With the extension of cotton trading into the fall and winter months the field has narrowed to such an extent on the old crop that it is quite possible professional interest alone will contest for supremacy in these options and in which event activity or important developments are not looked for. The low range reached today would look cheap enough for the staple in New York even with the great difference added as compared with the southern spot markets, but in the speculation the thing to be desired is to secure a sacrifice price when buying or a full market value when selling, neither of these extremes appear on the list at this time, although the decline may prove to have been sufficient for the time being. The weather map today is reported clear, but temperatures are very low and this condition hangs over that section of the cotton belt lying in the extreme north. We take for granted that manipulation and attempts to corner the markets will hardly transpire in view of that caution which will follow the bitter experiences of the past few months. Wide fluctuations are still to be expected and it is to the result of transactions based on this fact that operators must look to in the near future. The cotton market today:

WHEAT MARKET IS SHARPLY HIGHER

THE BULLISH NEWS WAS THE BAD CROP REPORTS—CORN MARKET WAS ABOUT 2 CENTS HIGHER—THERE WAS AN EARLY LIQUIDATION IN OATS.

(Furnished by Overbeck, Starr & Cooke Co.)

Chicago, April 13.—Logan & Bryan say: The wheat market was sharply higher. The bullish incentive was very bad on crop news from Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. There were also a good many complaints reaching into Maryland, New York and Pennsylvania, but the news from Ohio and Indiana was of a sensational character. The buying was led by houses with southwestern connections. Northwest advices were also of a bullish character. The foreign situation shows no change and the cash situation here and in the outside markets is slow. Minneapolis reported a small lot of wheat sold to go to millers 100 miles north of that city. Speculative trade showed a broadening tendency. With the probable reduced acreage in the northwest, combined with the possible late seeding and the reported deterioration in some winter wheat states, we see nothing in the situation to encourage short selling at the moment and believe on weak days wheat should be bought.

Corn Market Higher.

The corn market was about 2 cents higher. Armour was not only a buyer of May, but was also a buyer of cash corn in the pit at ⅝ cent under May. It was generally supposed he was a seller of July and September through brokers. A feature today was the turning down of two cargoes which had been loaded for Armour. The appeals committee said the corn was not good enough for No. 2. This has universally created uncertainty as to what success dryers will have in making No. 2 corn such as will stand the test out of the present quality of arrivals. We are still inclined to the opinion that it is not safe to fuss with the short side under the present conditions.

Early Liquidation in Oats.

July oats closed about 1 cent over the low price for the May. There was renewed liquidation in this option early and about the only buying was by local shorts. There appears to be good selling in September by several commission houses with western connections. Later in sympathy with the strength in the wheat and corn markets it turned strong and closed about the best price for the day. We still feel that oats are worth the money and would buy them on the weak spots.

Provisions Rule Steady.

Provisions have ruled fairly steady. There was some liquidation by outsiders but it was on a moderate scale only. There was buying in lard and ribs by a large local interest which has been operating on the bear side for some time. We understand that a fair demand has developed for meats and there is evidence of a pretty fair foreign demand for lard. While prices may drag for a time, we feel a good rally after such a severe decline may take place at any time.
