

MACHINE FOUND SMOOTH ROADS

Republican Program Carried Out in Entirety in State Convention—Reed's Nomination Bitterly Resented—Many Small Battles.

But for the numerous contests over district nominations, the Republican state convention of 1904 would go on record as one of the tamest ever held in Oregon. Not one respectable contest occurred during the proceedings. The promise of a spirited fight over the nomination for food and dairy commissioner was not fulfilled, for J. W. Bailey, the incumbent, won out with an ease that showed that he had never been in any serious danger from defeat. Frank A. Moore's nomination to the supreme bench was so much a matter of course that his friends had neglected even to decide who should make the nominating speech. The honors of presidential electors and delegates to the national convention were distributed with due regard to geographical considerations, and where they would do the most good.

The platform was constructed with careful regard to the danger of alienating voters by too positive declarations upon the delicate issues that will arise during the campaign, and in its omission was displayed the astuteness of its framers.

The greatest dissatisfaction was among the Multnomah delegates, some of whom resented bitterly the alleged interference of the Matthews machine in the nomination of district attorney. The nomination went to Sanderson Reed on the second ballot, and his opponents freely declared that but for the votes lined up for him by the machine he would not have won. While it is made that Reed would be knifed at the polls, and it was intimated that the threat for revenge upon the bosses might lead to a fight against some of the nominees of the county convention as well.

Both Judge Cleland and Judge Fraser were renominated, the opposition proving much less formidable than had been generally predicted.

The platform adopted follows:

The Republican party of Oregon, in convention assembled, congratulates the state and nation upon the continued ascendancy of Republican principles and policies in our national government and the unprecedented prosperity that has followed the maintenance of those principles and the enforcement of those policies.

The honor of the nation has been fearfully and sagaciously maintained at home and abroad, whether in the enforcement of law against defiant corporations, in vigorous protest against outrages on Americans in Syria, Jewish massacres in Russia and unfavorable machinations of European powers in Asia.

President Roosevelt has redeemed his pledge to carry out the policies of the party as formulated by that great statesman and revered martyr president, William McKinley.

He has shown himself the foe of corruption in public life, the ardent champion and wise friend of the army and navy, and the firm believer in equal rights before the law to employer and employee, rich or poor, black or white.

Under his energetic leadership the isthmian canal, frustrated for a time by a Democratic president, is soon to be realized and to distinguish his administration by one of the grandest engineering triumphs known to man.

We recognize the profound obligation under which Oregon rests to President Roosevelt for his active and determined effort on behalf of the Lewis and Clark centennial, and we pledge ourselves to testify the sincerity of this appreciation by a rousing majority for the Republican ticket in June and again in November.

In this connection we especially indorse the tireless labors of Senators Mitchell and Fulton and Representatives Hartmann and Williamson.

We instruct the delegates of this convention to the Republican national convention at Chicago to vote first and last for Theodore Roosevelt for president, and to use all honorable means for bringing his nomination to pass.

For the first time in years the state of Oregon is represented in both houses of congress by a strong, harmonious, united and effective delegation, inferior to none from the west.

Their efforts on behalf of the nation, their party and their state have been crowned with signal success, and we hereby express to them our confidence and esteem and pledge them our support in their further efforts to advance the interests of Oregon and the Pacific coast.

Thanks to the courage and wisdom of two Republican administrations and four Republican congresses, the money of the nation has been securely established upon the gold standard, the standard of the enlightened nations of the world.

The per capita circulation is the largest in our history, and every dollar of paper and coin is as good as gold.

We commend the measures now pending in congress, at the instance of Republican members, further amending the currency and banking laws in the direction of safety and elasticity.

We renew our allegiance to the principle of protection to American industries.

The merits of the Dingley law are attested by the unprecedented prosperity of the nation since its passage in 1897. Schedules must be changed from time to time, as new conditions arise, but when the tariff is revised it must be by the friends, and not by the foes, of American industry.

We heartily commend the fearless and determined course pursued by President Roosevelt and Attorney-General Knox toward the trusts, and we point with pride to the hostility aroused against the administration among the speculators of Wall street and corporations that defy the law.

Obedience to the law against monopoly inflicts no hardship on any honest industry, and the action of the president in the Northern Securities merger and other cases has only served to check dangerous speculation and encourage every legitimate enterprise.

We indorse the policy enunciated by President McKinley and followed by Secretary Taft of "the Philippines for the Philippines," and we especially commend the earnest and persistent efforts made by Senator Mitchell for lower tariffs between the Philippines and the United States.

We hold that the Philippines must be retained by the United States for their own good as well as for a base of American influence in the far east, but that justice requires the least possible burdens upon their commerce with the United States, that they may be cemented to us by ties of self-interest and affection.

In the interest of Pacific development, we demand for the Philippines the same liberal and beneficent treatment that has been accorded to Hawaii and Porto Rico.

Proofs of the history and achievements of our party, and especially of the present administration, and the beneficent results that our nation is receiving therefrom, and particularly our old Oregon country, we confidently submit our cause to the patriotic citizens of our state for indorsement, and earnestly appeal to them to show their gratitude and appreciation to President Roosevelt and our Republican leaders in congress for honoring our history and aiding in the development of our matchless resources.

Presidential Electors.

Five candidates were put in the field for the four appointments as presidential electors, J. B. Hoxford of Gilliam being the new man and unsuccessful candidate when the vote was counted. The electors chosen were J. N. Hart of Polk county, A. C. Hough of Grants Pass, Grant B. Dimick of Oregon City and Judge James A. Fee of Pendleton.

The vote was: Hart, 292; Hough, 279; Dimick, 249; Fee, 222, and Hoxford, 132.

In the selection of the state central committee the only interest centered about the contest for chairman, Frank C. Baker winning the honor from Willis Dunaway, by a vote of 28 to 13. This selection was a distinct victory for the Mitchell faction, Dunaway being a Simon leader.

The state central committee chosen is as follows: Baker, J. B. Aitkin, Benton, E. R. Bryson, Clackamas, T. F. Ryan, Clatsop, John Fox; Columbia, Harry West; Coos, W. J. Butler; Crook, William Wurzweller; Curry, Delos Woodruff; Douglas, A. C. Mansueti; Gilliam, C. A. Danneman; Grant, T. J. Hannon; Harney, George W. Cleveland; Jackson, I. L. Hamilton; Josephine, J. C. MRS. WINTERS GETS DIVORCE.

The divorce suit of George A. L. Winters against Bertha E. Winters was ended this morning by Presiding Judge George granting Mrs. Winters a divorce and one-third the community property, subject to a mortgage.

The divorce was granted on the ground that the husband had abandoned her and removed all his effects to a barn in which cows had been stabled and compelled him to live there. He declared she was no housewife. Mrs. Winters filed a cross bill, alleging that Winters would leave home for months at a time without saying where he was going, and that she had to support herself.

SAYS BROWN IS A CRUEL HUSBAND

Serious allegations were made in a complaint filed by Attorney Charles J. Schnabel in the state circuit court this morning in behalf of Marie L. Brown and against Charles J. Brown, Presiding Judge George issued a restraining order which will place Brown in contempt of court and subject him to severe punishment in case he again attempts to beat his wife, as is alleged in the complaint. Mrs. Brown asks for a divorce, alimony and an attorney's fee. The complaint is accompanied by an affidavit setting forth the nature of the abuse to which she claims she has been subjected.

In this document it is charged that within the last two months Brown has been guilty of inhuman treatment of Mrs. Brown and their two-year-old child; that he has both while drunk and while sober beaten and kicked her, and threatened to knock her head off and blacken her eyes, "even though he had to do it while she was asleep."

Among the statements he is alleged to have made is "I will show you what a stinker of a man I can be. Get out of here or I will make it so hot for you that you will have to go. Why don't you go into court? I dare you to go into court. I will show you up and show you what a pull I have."

The Browns were married June 25, 1900.

STUBBS WILL BE HERE TOMORROW

The long expected arrival of J. C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Harriman lines, is officially scheduled for tomorrow night. Mr. Stubbs has notified both the O.
