BITTERLY ATTACKS THE STATE BAR

ATTORNEY DITCHBURN DECLARES IN COURT THAT MEMBERS OF OREGON BAR ASSOCIATION CON-DUCTED THEMSELVES BADLY IN RECENT BANQUET.

A sensation was created in the circuit court this morning by a speech of At-torney John Ditchburn, who subjected the Oregon State Bar association to a vitriolic roast. His language was scathing, the strongest statement being that at a banquet held by the association two years ago the members acted most indiscretely and told stories that would have sounded better in a saloon. "So far as the Oregon State Bar as-sociation is concerned," declared the irate lawyer, as he brought his fist down on the table with a resounding whack, "it has many good and honorable men on its list of membership. I honor the body for having such men its rolls as your honor and Rufus Mallory. And that is all I care to say in its "Two years ago the Oregon State Bar association held a banquet and engaged in scenes of debauchery, several mem-bers telling stories so flithy they would have disgraced a meeting of mac-quereaux. That banquet is enough to

The utterance of Attorney Ditchburn occurred during an argument before Presiding Judge George in the circuit court, on a demurrer interposed by the awyer to the second amended answer of Attorney Richard Nixon, in the suit brought against him to recover $50,000 damages for libel. It was held by Judge Cleland tlast week that the Oregon body, and he refused to strike out the defense of Nixon that his communication to that body was privileged. A second answer was then filed by Nixon and another demurrer interposed Ditchburn.

Judge Mallory made some comment relative to Attorney Ditchburn's declarain another court that he did not propose to submit to the alleged authority of the association. In a trice Ditchburn was on his feet, and in impassioned manner used the language described. When Mr. Ditchburn seated himself

Judge Mallory made a dignified defense of the association. While this low fare provides for passengers, it does not secure a ready means of transit across the river for teams, and the situation is made the bridge is out of the question, the waterfront streets on the east side between Morrison and Madison being out of re pair and unsuitable for the passage of loaded wagons. The traffic is being thrown chiefly onto Burnside bridge, and the result is a congestion. The committee representing the east side business men will meet Monday evening at the east side justice court and seek to devise means of alleviating this
