DUGDALE'S BROWNIES GET PAINTED WHITE

OSCAR GRAHAM WAVES THE MITCHELL WARD AND THE PORTLAND BATTERS ARE GIVEN THEIR QUINCE-IBERG WAS BUMPED ALONG DURING GOOD TIMES.

(Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, June 3.—Portland dropped yesterday's game through the inability of the Browns to hit Oscar Graham when a hit would mean runs. Iberg, on the other hand, was touched up in good shape. Only three Portlanders were able to solve Graham's delivery, McCredie, Beck and Murphy, the first two securing two hits apiece and the latter getting a solitary single. Drennan was in the game, although the popular center fielder is not in good health. Drennan's eye was good, however, and he got three free tickets to first. The score was:

HUNT CLUB RIDERS READY FOR MEET

ANNUAL AFFAIR OF PORTLAND'S RIDING CLUB WILL ATTRACT THOUSANDS TO IRVINGTON RACE TRACK—ENTRIES INCLUDE SEVERAL NOTED HORSES.

The Portland Hunt club's annual field day will be held tomorrow afternoon at Irvington race track and the event promises to be the most interesting affair ever undertaken by that popular institution. Preparations have been made to accommodate 10,000 spectators and the officials of the club expect fully that number present when the flag drops for the first race at 2 o'clock. Irvington race track was never in finer condition. The track has been rolled and sprinkled and is very fast and dustless. The grandstand has been renovated and painted, making it an attractive place to spend several hours. In fixing up the grounds, tracks, stables and stands, the Multnomah Fair association has spared neither labor nor money and it is safe to state that there is no finer track, including location and accessibility, any place in the country. The training that has been done for the 11 events on the program would compare favorably with the efforts made by trainers and jockeys in preparation for the biggest handicaps. The rivalry between the members is just keen enough to warrant every rider doing his utmost to win. Another feature of the meeting will be the fine class of horses that will compete. Unusual interest is being manifested in the half-mile match trot between Mrs. Downing, H. C. Bowers, Dr. Coughlan and Frank Robertson. Mr. Bowers spends several hours each day at the track rounding into form, and it is being whispered about that "Pop" is in such fine condition that he is quietly speculating upon the amount of lead that he will be compelled to carry to come up to the requisite 155 pounds required by the club. Mr. Robertson has been doing his training in the cool gray dawn of the morning and says that it is the only time for a real up-to-date jockey to be on his mount. Mr. Robertson is an early riser, and as soon as "yon gray clouds that fret the dawn" appear, giving evidences of approaching day, he may be seen saddling and bridling his steed for at least a three hours' tryout. Trains in Hard Places. Dr. Coughlan says nothing about his training. His modesty prevails over his enthusiasm, but he, too, has been as busy as a bee, getting into form for the event. The doctor seeks quiet places for his riding, and he is as rough and as difficult as the Rockies, so much the better for him. His favorite place for hard riding is out the east side road to Clackamas creek. From there he follows the trail to the fish hatcheries. This is certainly hard training, and few people appreciate the time consumed in the danger encountered in training in this fashion. While the men have been doing all sorts of stunts, Mrs. Downing has not been slow in getting in trim for the race. Mrs. Downing rides every day, and rides hard. She is master of her mount and knows all the little tricks in riding. Her favorite place for training is at Irvington and there she may be seen every afternoon speeding around the course. The one-mile match trotting race, between Mr. Chase on Harry Marvin and Walter Sullivan on the Rockies, is the most interesting of the match races. "Monkey" is said to be the fastest road horse in Portland and has yet to be beaten in the tests on the White House road. Marvin is also a speedy one and will run "Monkey" a great race. Many expect the race to be run in 2:30. One of the chief and most novel features of the day will be the pushball game between the teams captained by Metzger and Brown. Metzger's team is composed of Judge Tanner, Frank Robertson and J. C. Muehe, while Captain Brown will be assisted by E. R. Eldridge, A. M. Cronan and Colonel Jubeta. This game of pushball will give the riders an opportunity to display their horsemanship. Another event that will attract interest is the tandem trot of one mile. The horses in this race are well matched and it is difficult to see any advantage at this time. In the mile run O'Brien, on Marengo, will stand a good chance to win, but his

LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY MACHINERY

Kris Trana, an offer in the employ of the Bridal Veil Lumber company, at Bridal Veil, was crushed to death yesterday morning, while filling a shaft under the main floor. Trana went under the floor to oil the shaft, and when he did not return, Foreman M. S. Dickson went to see what was the trouble. He found Trana lying dead beside the shaft, where the offer had been caught in the machinery, and his lifeless form was fearfully mangled and both his legs were broken. The dead man leaves a father and mother residing in Eagle Bend, Minn.

PENINSULA SITE MAY BE APPROVED
J. W. Roberts of San Francisco, superintendent of building construction for the government on the Pacific coast, is at the Hotel Portland, having been sent here by direction of Supervising Architect Taylor of Washington, to confer with officials of the Lewis and Clark fair, regarding the site of the proposed government buildings on the exposition grounds.

The location was the cause of an adverse report sent to the government, a report which claimed that the peninsula is overgrown during part of the year, and was not a suitable location for government buildings. Mr. Roberts visited the site of the buildings yesterday, but will not make public his decision before reporting to Washington.

FINDS $240 AND RETURNS TO OWNER

While seeing the sights of Portland last Friday night, C. S. Reynolds, of Mountaineer, Washington county, dropped a pocketbook containing $240 in bills and indorsed checks. He thought he lost the money on First street and reported the matter. Efforts to find the missing purse were futile. Shortly after midnight of the same night, M. L. Hochfeld, who has a cigar store at 182 Fourth street, was preparing to close the place. He wanted to expecorate, and remembering the ordinance prohibiting such acts on the sidewalk, went to the curb. Lying in the gutter immediately in front of him was a small bundle, which on investigation proved to be a pocketbook containing $240. The book contained Reynolds' card, and the money was returned to its owner.

HE HAD IT.

The ordinance limits the speed of automobiles driven within the city limits to eight miles an hour. Hereafter it will be unlawful for a local merchant to sell persons under the age of 18 years on pistols and caps for the same. The ordinance introduced by Mr. Merrill regarding the throwing of confetti, or using feather face dusters was passed; also one licensing the selling of these adjuncts to French carnival.
