MRS. ABRAHAM'S TROUBLES ENDED

Pioneer Woman of Portland Passes Away From Paralysis at Early Hour-Suffered Hardships of Early Days and Dies Poor.

Mrs. Jane Abraham, aged 75, died at her home at 35 East Seventh street at 3 elock this morning, after an illness of three weeks. Her body was removed to Finley's undertaking shop this foremon, Mrs. Abraham was a native of Ohio. She and her husband, James Abraham, came to Oregon in 1852, and settled on the east side, where Mr. Alraham died in 1892, leaving an estate valued at 1300.00.

During the last year old friends of Mrs. Abraham assert that she had been in better health than for many years past. About three weeks ago her mind, which had not been strong, gave way and partial paralysis resulted, probably the result of brain hemorrhage. One week ago last Saturday she was removed to the Mount Tabor nurvous maniforium, but was returned to ber cottage after four days, where she was cared for by a nurse, Mrs. Harton. She stradually grew weaker, and her death had been expected for several days.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Abraham, but died a number of years ago. She left a nephew in Portland, Premont Abraham, and another nephew.

J. A. Rughes, lives at Newberg, Yamhill county. H. K. Sargent, guardian of Mrs. Abraham field in the cottage at 50 East Seventh street in which she had a life interest it had been her home for 31 years. Adjoining is a large residence which the guardian says brings in a fental of 525 a month when occupied. She also had a life interest in the latter property. The income from this proporty was her only wource of support.

When Mr. Abrahama died, February 7, When Mr. Abrahama died, February 7, when Mr. Abrahama in the arrangements will be amounced later.

CHICAGO RACES TO BE MINUS BETTING

The lone left the Alder street dock shortly after noon on Saturday last, and proceeded to the wharf of the Portland Flouring Mills, where several tons of cargo were taken aboard. About 3 o'clock p. m. Captain Hosford signaled the engineer to go ahead. The lines were cast off, and the steamer started for her passage down the river.

When the boat reached the middle of the river smoke was discovered coming from the deck at the foot of the pilot house. Within a minute after the smoke horse race betting within the city limits and especially at Washington park track which opens the season Saturday next with a derby day.

GAMBLERS FIGHT OVER DIVISION

Holding four canvas sacks containing $1,000 under his arm, Ben Taylor presented a revolver at the breast of A. Shapiro, one of the proprietors of the Maze cafe, located on Third avenue, near Yamhill street, yesterday afternoon and backed out of the place. Closely followed by Shapiro, who called him a coward and dared him to shoot, he threw the money into an adjoining saloon and ran to Jack Blazier's saloon, on First street near Madison, pursued by a crowd. He was taken back to the Maze and afterward arressed on a charge of attempting to kill. He was released on bond.

Taylor has for some time had the management of the gamoling rooms conducted in connection with the Maze. Recently he and Shapiro & Lake, the proprietors, had a disagreement and it was decided to discharge Taylor and hire Clarence Blasier. The latter was given the position. When it came to a division of the money on hand trouble resulted. Four sacks, containing $250 each, were taken from the safe and laid.

on a desk.
Suddenly Taylor grabbed the money and placing a revolver at Shapiro's breast warned him not to follow, and backed from the room.

"This was nothing but a drunken row," said Mr. Shapiro, and did not amount to anything."

DR. E. P. HILL WILL BE GREETED TONIGH

Inasmuch as the examination had only just been held and the man had been unable to take the examination, and that the commissioners had never acted as examiners, I saw no reason why Mr. Hubbard in the Raleigh building. He was a member of the Kansas volunteers and fought in that regiment during the as examiners, I saw no reason why Mr. Stowe'l, as secretary, could not give Adams an examination at that time, Adams an examination at that time, using, of course, the same questions used on the previous Saturday for other applicants. The papers would naturally come before the commission later, but having simply a number on them. Adams' papers would not have been distinguished from those of the other applicants. Under these considerations I called Stowell on the telephone and asked if he would give the man the examination. He replied that he thought not, as the date of the examination had passed, and as it was a matter of no mopassed, and as it was a matter of no moment to me, and as we were to have another examination for the same positions later, I told Adams he would have to

"Relative to the weight of this same party, Adams told me that he thought he was over weight and I instructed him, if he thought that, to have the doctor reweigh him and advise the commission that an error had been made in the first report of the man's weight. Mr. Stowell adheres firmly to his original statement of the facts in the case. As to Mr. Courteneys assertion that he was removed because he was not "methodical" and not "persevering in his work." Mr. Stowell said: "At the meeting last Friday, after I had refused to resign, I insisted that the commissioners should give some specific reason for removing me. Mr. Willis at first said generally that I had not been "satisfactory." When I tried to pin him satisfactory. When I tried to pin him down to a more specific statement, he replied: 'Well the truth is, Mr. Stowell that while you have no doubt done your duty as you conception of your duties here does not agree with ours.'"

For two weeks the man and woman have been separated. She has been living with Andrew Bush, a cook. McComb has been working as an oiler in a machine shop at Bridal Vell, Or.

Last night he returned and sent for his wife and read a letter in which he said that he had determined to commit suicide, owing to the unfaithfulness of his wife. He had no sooner read the letter than he drew a revolver. She tried to snatch it from him. In the scuffle the wespon was discharged twice, one ball entering McComb's body.
