CONTROL THE MINING INDUSTRY

ROCKEFELLER SAID TO BE PLANNING MOST GIGANTIC CORPORATION EVER ATTEMPTED—$2,500,000,000 TO BE THE CAPITAL—ALASKA NOT EXEMPTED.

(Journal Special Service.) New York, June 12.—Through the negotiations between P. August Heinze of Butte, Mont., and John D. Rockefeller, the financiers of Wall street are led to believe that the Standard Oil magnate is forming an immense combination that will secure control of practically all the important mining interests of the United States, and it is predicted that such an announcement will within a short time be made. It is estimated by conservative men, familiar with mining values, that the corporation will have a capital of at least $2,500,000,000, thus making it the greatest single stock enterprise the world has ever known.

Rockefeller already has the controlling interest in the Park City, Utah mines, all the largest producers of Idaho, and the New Mexican lead mines. For years Rockefeller has been absorbing stock in some of the best mines of Colorado, investing untold millions, and Senator Clark has assisted his control by working with him, thus throwing a considerable portion of the Montana Amalgamated Copper company's votes and the great Val Verde of Arizona into a position to be passed into the pool.

The latest Nevada and California owners have also been approached as have holders of stock in the Homestake of South Dakota. Added to this already formidable movement is the fact that Rockefeller has gathered in through his representatives a great holding in the copper fields above Valdez, Alaska. In this latter field Heinze already has a considerable property, and it is but natural to suppose that in disposing of this holding he will follow into the general amalgamation.

It is not predicted that any but actual producers will be taken in, the combination being in a position to either create out the smaller owners whenever the latter bring their mines to a paying basis, or buy them in after the mines have proved of value.

RACE TRACK MEN AND GAMBLERS DISAGREE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, June 12.—The Georgetown gamblers are at war with the managers of the King County Hacing association, for the association demands that the Georgetown resorts suspend while the racing season lasts. The gamblers, who have just established themselves in the southern suburbs, do not take kindly to the idea of retiring now, after overcoming the objections of the Georgetown officials.

The race-track men declared they would force the suspension of Georgetown racing, and the gamblers threatened to stop everything, even betting, at the track, but evidently the race-track men got in their work first, for a deputy sheriff and some assistants raided the suburban resorts Saturday, to find them all deserted. The raid has "tipped off" some place along the line, and both prosecuting Attorney Scott and Sheriff Cuddehe are anxious to deny it was through their offices.

A compromise, which probably reached allowing control of gambling to continue at Georgetown, and giving the race-track itself the monopoly of the pool-selling business. Though the fact that gambling was in progress at Georgetown was generally known and Sheriff Cuddehe had said he would not interfere, it is incorporated towns he did not act until the gamblers quarreled among themselves.

COEUR D'ALENE MILL TO BEGIN OPERATION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, June 12.—"The Coeur d'Alene Lumber company's mill at this place will be started up again in a few days." So says J. T. Carroll, manager of the company. The labor trouble which came up the latter part of April has been settled through the efforts of Mayor Scallion, who took the petition around among the business men and laborers and then presented it to Mr. Carroll.

The petition recommends that work be resumed and that work be given to the mill, but all differences be settled. The petition was signed by 425 men of the town.

Mr. Carroll states that work at the mill will be begun as soon as possible. A contract has been let to complete the mill, and the machinery is being installed. The main part of the building is completed now and as soon as the rest of the plant is in readiness, work will begin. About 50 of the union men signed the petition and they will be given the first work.

INSTANTLY KILLED BY RAILWAY TRAIN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Albany, June 12.—A deplorable accident, attended by a fatality, marked the ending of the day here, following the baseball game, yesterday. Jasper V. Custer, a laborer employed at the Albany brewery, was run over and killed in the yards of the Corvallis & Eastern railroad this morning at 1 o'clock, by one of the returning excursion trains as the engine drew up in front of the passenger station.

A few minutes before 1 o'clock the train pulled into the Albany station and Custer, arising from his seat, gathered up his paraphernalia and started out of the front coach, and just before the train came to a stop, stepped to the platform, lost his footing and rolled under the train and was cut through the body, dying instantly.

His fishing paraphernalia was in his hands and it is supposed the some of this caught on the hand rail of the coach as he alighted, throwing him under the wheels.

Custer was about 40 years old and leaves a wife and one daughter, both small. He grew up here and was held in high esteem by the people of this city. He was a member of the Foresters of America and the Knights of the Maccabees, carrying insurance in the last named order. An inquest will probably be held this afternoon.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON EXERCISES

REV. W. S. GILBERT OF PORTLAND DELIVERS BACCALAUREATE SERMON IN VILLARD HALL TO LARGO AND ATTENTIVE AUDIENCE—A MASTERFUL ADDRESS.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., June 12.—Commencement exercises at the University of Oregon began yesterday when the baccalaureate sermon was delivered in Villard hall at 11 a. m. by Rev. W. S. Gilbert, of Portland. The address was a masterful one, and listened to attentively by the large audience present.

Rev. Gilbert's address in part was as follows: "The world will be led by college men. What are the signs in college thought at the present time? The attitude of the world's student body today toward religion is one of the decidedly hopeful omens of our time. Sometimes men hastily say that 'school men and schools are moving away from religion.' The fact is just the opposite. John R. Mott, who better than any other man is in position to know, says that 'the colleges and universities constitute the most Christian communities in the United States and Canada. While not more than one in twelve of young men as a whole are Christians, yet in educational institutions one in two are Christians.'"

"Twenty-five years ago 23 per cent of students were Christians. In 1902, 52 per cent of students were members of evangelical churches. 'The growth of Christian associations of men and of women in colleges is significant. In 1877 there were only 28 such associations with 1,300 members; in 1901 there were 681 for men alone with 418,000 members, embracing 1,200 student centers and about 200,000 men students. 'In the past sixteen years there have been 1,953 student volunteers from the colleges sent to the mission fields. That there were in 1900 more than 5,000 students in colleges enrolled under this pledge. 'I am willing and desirous of permitting men to become a foreign missionary, is a very significant fact marking a clear trend in college thought today.'"

"The general attitude of the nations of the world and of the nations of the world also reveals a remarkable trend toward the religious. Nations are crystallizations of the world's thought. 'The trend of thought is unmistakable. The man who thinks will recognize his resultant duty.'"

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY EXERCISES. Rev. E. L. House of Portland Delivers Baccalaureate Sermon. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pacific University, June 12.—The fifty-sixth commencement of Pacific University is in full progress, and it promises to be the most noteworthy in the history of the institution. While the graduating class is not large, the unusual prominence in collegiate circles, and the fact that the school has been brought this year, and the great interest manifested by the alumni and friends of the university, will make this commencement unusually important.

One of the special features of the week will be the music. Under the efficient directorship of Professor and Mrs. Chapman, the conservatory has made a wonderful advance. The recital given Friday evening by Miss Wilma Waggener, a graduate this year from the conservatory, was especially good. Miss Waggener showed unusual talent in her performance. Saturday evening the regular annual concert of the conservatory took place. The work done by the pupils in college circles, very gratifying, and bears tribute to exceptional talent and ability of the conservatory instructors.

Rev. E. L. House, D. D., of Portland, preached the baccalaureate sermon Sunday morning in the Congregational church. Rev. Mr. House has always been very popular in Forest Grove and his sermon this morning was a masterpiece of thought. His presentation was direct and earnest, and the large audience listened attentively to his every word. He said in part: "This is an age of intellect and heart. This age has shown the greatest advancement of any age, and is the time of intellectual progress. The age of agnosticism is gone, and students are going out into active life with more faith in God than had the students of earlier days. The intellectual phase of life looks to God from the standpoint of the mind; and is expressed by all people as 'Oh God!'"

"But there is another phase of religion; that which appeals to the heart. This side of God receives the support of the heart, and requires a closer and more intimate relationship with God. Such a life finds expression in the words 'My God' as opposed to the more intellectual, but less heartfelt, ejaculation of 'Oh God.' The age is now come where the world is to be ruled by the intellectual and spiritual masters. 'As students we should seek to obtain the saving grace of God, and add to it intellectual strength, that we may perform the duties that devolve upon students and leaders.'"

Rev. House then gave the graduating class a parting thought: "That they should remember the duty owed to themselves, to their alma mater, and to the world," and he closed by saying that their life and progress will be watched by the world.

BACCALAUREATE AT O. A. G.

Rev. Hepps of Salem Delivers Address of Good Advice at Corvallis. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Corvallis, Or., June 12.—The armory was filled yesterday forenoon, the event being the baccalaureate sermon of commencement week. The speaker was Rev. Hepps of Salem, and his address was a masterful, full of good advice and helpful suggestions to the body of graduates to whom his remarks were addressed in closing. The weather was ideal and the attendance at the armory unusually large in consequence.
