

ALL CROPS ARE IN NEED OF RAIN

SOIL IN THE WESTERN PORTION OF STATE BADLY PARCHED AND PROSPERS FOR WHEAT, RYE AND HOPE NOT TOO GOOD—FOURTH DAY HAS A FINE TONE

Front Street, July 4.—The principal features of the Portland market today are: Wheat—In demand. Eggs have a good tone. New and old potatoes. Willamette valley crops need rain. Strawberry season coming to close. Cherries are in very large supply. Apples are very scarce. Tomatoes are firmer. Hops are in demand. Good yield and high water. California steamer a day late. Millers are buying wheat. Hay market is dull. Ties in previous firmer. Potatoes are not in demand.

All Crops in Need of Rain. The long spell of dry weather is having a very depressing effect on all crops in the western part of the state and especially in the Willamette valley. The ground in the country tributary to Portland has never been so dry for many years as it is now. Hops are especially bad. The condition of the coming hop crop is especially bad and unless the dry spell is soon terminated the crop will be much smaller than that of last year. The crop has already seen its best days and from now on it will deteriorate. There are hopes that are still predicting a yield of over 100,000 bales during the coming season, but even the worst of the bulls are getting discouraged.

Watermelons are Cheaper. There is an abundance of all sorts of cherries in the market and prices are falling all around. The supply of Royal Ann is very large, but the demand for good stock is good at the lowest prices.

Old Potatoes are Scarce. The season for strawberries is fast coming to an end and the prospect of very heavy crops are now fading their hopes. Late reports from the Hood River section show that 130 cars have been shipped on this season, about the same as last year. In the Willamette valley the crop this year is fully a half short of usual times. Today reports were very hard to obtain but the tone of uncertainty which brought better prices.

Store Battery Slightly Firmer. Store battery is slightly firmer on account of a change in the call from the south. Usual questions are ranging in the market, but are showing any change in the supply and the demand being about equal at present prices.
