

SCORNED WIFE SHOTS HUSBAND

J. P. White, Well Known Fireman, Probably Fatally Shot by Wife Who Was Jealous of His Attentions to Other Women.

J. P. WHITE AND MRS. CORA WHITE.

In St. Vincent's hospital, James P. White, ex-fireman and one of the proprietors of the sailor boarding-house, has desperately wounded the victim of the jealous rage of a frenzied wife, who was driven to desperation by his persistent attentions to Jennie Hamilton, a woman of the nether world. Cora White, who pursued her husband through the masses of the north and last night, making vain attempts to check his wanton course and, falling, assaulted him with a revolver, is also wounded as the result of an encounter with her husband earlier in the evening.

In case White's wounds result fatally the woman will be prosecuted for murder. She is now under the charge of assault with a deadly weapon, which was entered against her at the time of her arrest. The district attorney is undecided as to whether he will prosecute the woman in case her husband survives. In view of her condition, she was released from custody this morning by order of the district attorney.

Employed Her Husband.
The shooting occurred at 8:35 o'clock last night. Mrs. White, who had followed her husband, finally overtook him in front of the residence of her sister, Mrs. Ell Davis, 225 Pine street. There were a few heated words, and people who saw the affair declare that she was in a suppliant attitude, evidently imploring the man to return to her. He pushed her aside and started down the street.

The woman sprang forward and seized him by the arm. She drew from her breast a small revolver and as he turned fired into his back. He staggered forward and fell. People who had witnessed the scene rushed forward and assisted him into Mrs. Price's residence. He fell upon a lounge and his wife knelt beside him, telling him she wished it had been she who was wounded and moaning incoherently. She took the precaution, however, to conceal the revolver under a bed in a rear room. It was found there and turned over to the officers on their arrival by Mrs. Davis.

Admits Firing the Shot.
Detective Hartman, Policemen Robson, White, Isaacs and Oelsner reached the place shortly after the occurrence and found the woman. She was taken to police headquarters, while the wounded man was removed to St. Vincent's hospital. Domestic troubles are said to have been of frequent occurrence between the man and woman during the past few weeks.

Was Seized by Husband.
Yesterday Mrs. White learned that her husband was at the Arcade saloon, Sixth and Couch streets, with Jennie Hamilton. She went to the place and, it is said, attempted to shoot her rival. White succeeded in holding her until the other woman escaped, and in doing so is said to have choked and beat her. Her throat was bruised and swollen today as the result of the encounter.

White refused to tell the officers how the shooting happened, saying that it was done accidentally. At the hospital his condition is regarded as extremely critical. The bullet entered the left side of the back just above the ribs, and the course has not been determined.

Refuses to Talk.
Mrs. White spent the night in the city jail and was completely overcome. She refused to talk or discuss the affair even to her friends who crowded the jail this morning.

White is widely known throughout the city. He has figured prominently in local politics for years.

EXHIBIT WILL BE SEEN IN PORTLAND

ST. LOUIS GOVERNMENT DISPLAY WILL COME IN ENTIRETY TO OREGON — OREGON PRUNES AT WORLD'S FAIR — RECONSTRUCTION OF HOUSE OF HOO HOO.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis, July 7.—Director General Goode of the Lewis and Clark Centennial is authorized for the statement that the government will move practically its entire exhibit from St. Louis to Portland for the 1905 fair. If this proves to be the case, then Portland is assured of the most interesting display of the Louisiana Purchase exposition.

According to Mr. Goode the government will have plenty of room for the entire exhibit, and will take it in toto to Portland. It will also add several new features that will make it still more attractive.

Here at St. Louis by far the largest throngs of sightseers gather in Government building to inspect the wonderful displays of Uncle Sam. If the same attraction stands in the Lewis and Clark Centennial it will prove to be the best drawing card of the show.

Arrangements will be made whereby exposition visitors can purchase Oregon prunes. The demonstrations that take place daily in the palace of agriculture have won so many friends to the Oregon fruit that it has been found necessary to get the prunes on sale.

Visitors complain that when they go to the stores and ask for the Oregon product they receive something else that they don't want at any price. In order that they may be able to get just what they are after, Oregon dried prunes will be sold in small boxes on the grounds until the purchasers can locate stores where they can be had.

Hoo Hoo Building.
Work has been commenced on the House of Hoo Hoo and within six weeks the managers of the famous lumbermen club will have things running full blast again, as though no fire had ever occurred to wipe out their beautiful home.

Out on the lawn a big sign has been put up:
"Eight more lives have we,
"In 30 days our home again you'll see,
"House of Hoo Hoo."

A gang of 60 workmen is doing the reconstruction, all of them working overtime and getting in the neighborhood of $4.40 a day for the services of each man employed.

FRUIT ON SUMMIT OF BLUE MOUNTAINS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
La Grande, Or., July 7.—George Peabler, who resides about seven miles west of Mescham on the summit of the Blue mountains, has an excellent fruit prospect this year. His farm is located at an elevation of about 2,600 feet above sea level and yet his peaches, plums, cherries, apples and apricots will all grow very good yields without damage from frost.

He has 200 acres under cultivation, most of this being sown to timothy and grain hay, and his hay crop is better than for a number of years. Timothy is a native product of high elevations, all the flats in the Blue mountains having been seeded by campera, bear luxuriant growths of this hay without cultivation or irrigation.

Very fine flavored strawberries have also been raised in this vicinity in large quantities, and the mountains at this point are dotted with fine looking little farms.

RETIRING TREASURER COMMITS SUICIDE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Heppner, Or., July 7.—On the day that he was to turn over his books and county funds to his successor in office, retiring County Treasurer M. Lichtenhal, one of the most prominent citizens of this county, took his life at this place yesterday by shooting himself with a revolver.

It is thought that he was demented at the time of the deed, as he had opened his place of business as usual in the morning and several citizens who had conversed with him state that they had noticed nothing unusual in his look or appearance.

He had served as county treasurer of Morrow county for three successive terms and was generally well liked. Although his books and accounts are thought to be straight, an investigation will now be made before the incoming treasurer assumes control of the office.

Mr. Lichtenhal was also treasurer of the I. O. O. F.

ST. JOHNS TO CELEBRATE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
St. Johns, Or., July 7.—Wednesday, July 12 is the day set aside by the city council and the Ladies' Improvement club for a general jollification of the progress of St. Johns. All business houses will be closed and everybody will lend a hand to make this a day to be remembered in St. Johns.

St. Johns park is being put in readiness for the crowd that is expected from Portland, tables and seats being supplied for those that bring their luncheons.

Speakers will address the people and the St. Johns brass band of 13 pieces will furnish the music.

DEY WHATERS STOPS WORK

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Kalama, Wash., July 7.—On account of the extreme dry weather for the past 80 days the ground is so hard that work on the public roads in this district had to be suspended July 4, as far as the earthwork is concerned. It is not possible to use the plow and scraper to any advantage, and the pick and shovel was tried, but that was too expensive.

This condition is very unfortunate, as a great amount of work was planned for the summer, so as to test the working of the new road law, which so far seems to be very unpopular.

YOUNG UNIVERSALISTS

(Journal Special Service.)
Providence, R. I., July 6.—The fifteenth annual convention of the National Young People's Christian union of the Universalist church, which was formally opened here last evening with a welcome rally, got down to business in earnest this morning. The attendance was considerably increased by the arrival of numerous belated delegates from the west.

WHEELWRIGHT MAY BE FAIR'S HEAD

VICE-PRESIDENT I. N. FLEISCHNER MAY NOT ACCEPT FRANCH VOTED BY PRESIDENT SCOTT AND W. D. WHEELWRIGHT IS NAMED FOR THE OFFICE.

In view of a report that I. N. Fleischner may not accept the office of president of the Lewis and Clark exposition, to succeed Harvey W. Scott, resigned, the name of W. D. Wheelwright has been brought forward and his friends are of the belief that he will receive the honor.

Mr. Wheelwright, it is stated, is in no sense a candidate for the office, and while his friends have agreed to bring forth his name, the matter is not in the nature of a campaign for Mr. Wheelwright. He has many friends among the commercial interests of the city, and these are the ones who have quietly brought him forward.

For many years Mr. Wheelwright has been a resident of Portland and he is regarded as one of its most progressive citizens. He is a leading member of the Arlington club. In the business world he occupies a prominent position in the local lumber trade.

CIRCUS LEMONADE PROVES DANGEROUS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Tacoma, Wash., July 7.—Queen Pauline and her maids of honor of the Rose carnival, who attended the ball game yesterday as guests of the club, were taken severely ill last night, as a result of drinking circus lemonade believed to contain citric acid.

Several of the party fainted before reaching home and all of them were in a high fever all night.
Cy Townsend, the San Francisco first baseman, drank two glasses of the liquid and suffered severe cramps all night. A doctor was called in this morning. Fitzgerald and other players are also sick. The club is investigating.
