BAIN IN LEWIS COUNTY.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Chehalia, July 16.—A soaking rain has fallen in this section within the past 24 hours. Much hay is down, and some of this will be damaged, but this will much more than be offset by the good that will be done potatoes, grain and other growing crops. Hay is a light yield on account of the continued dry weather and grain will be a short yield.

The grain which is harvested later will be quite late, and much of it may be caught by the fall rains before threshing can be finished. There is little wheat raised in the Chehalis valley near here any more, most of the grain being cats.
