CARGO OF BITTERS AND HOT ASPHALT

CAPTAIN OF EMILIE TELLS OF QUEER PRODUCTS SHE CARRIED FROM TRINIDAD TO GERMAN PORTS—SAYS CUBA HAS BEEN BENEFITED BY AMERICA.

The cargo of the German ship Emilie will be discharged tomorrow and Captain Wilms, her commander, says that the vessel will probably be tied up to wait for a grain charter. He states that she will undoubtedly be forced to remain here until fall.

Captain Wilms has been commander of the Emilie for about a year. Prior to that time he was master of the German ship Copella, which plied between Trinidad, British West Indies and Bremen, Germany. From the islands to the "fatherland" he carried cargoes of bitters.

When there was not a sufficient quantity of the bitters to make out a full cargo the vacant space in the ship's holds was filled up with asphalt.

"There was needed no machinery with which to manufacture the asphalt," said the captain yesterday. "It boiled up from hot springs already for using, and all one had to do was to shovel it up and cart it away. Luckily there were several springs throwing up the finest asphalt that one could wish to see not far from the harbor, and it was an easy matter to load it. To prevent the asphalt from becoming paved with rock it was necessary to place the product in barrels, and this work usually required some time.

"I was nine years engaged in this trade and got so that I was pretty well acquainted with the islands. Occasionally I stopped off at Cuba. I have been there both before and after the Spanish-American war, and I must say that I never saw such a change wrought in any country as there has been in Cuba on account of that war. The last time I was there was about 18 months ago, remained at Santa Cruz and other neighboring towns almost half a year. I met a great many of the natives, and they said that Cuba is like a new country since she has been freed of Spanish rule. When Spain had full control of affairs the school teachers told me that it was impossible for them to get their salaries. Now all that trouble is passed, and they said that everything is running smoothly.

"The same improvements have been made in other lines, but I think the United States made a mistake by giving the Cubans home rule. Like their South American cousins they are likely to begin almost any day with revolutions, and then the days of their prosperity will be ended."

ATLANTIC SHIP IS REPORTED ON FIRE

(Journal Special Service.) New York, July 21.—The Cunarder Auriantia arrived in port this morning and reports passing a craft after last night about 18 miles east of Fire Island. A steamer was closely by and the Auriantia officers think the burning vessel is probably a coal or oil carrier. Inquiry in shipping circles throws no light on the identity of the craft, either as to name or from what port she is bound. The vessel afloat is the British ship Creedmore. The crew of 20 landed at Wood's Hill this afternoon. The loss to the Standard Oil company is $50,000.

WOULD CONSERVE FOREST WEALTH

Consumers of Timber Are Leaving the Old Wasteful Methods, Save the Young Trees and Plant New Groves.

There is a growing tendency among consumers of timber to take steps for its preservation, and this is more particularly noticeable among the holders of large tracts. The bureau of forestry has begun an active campaign for the protection of the forests. Adolph Aachoff, supervisor of the north division of the Cascade forest reserve, was recently in the city, and stated that an important part of his work was to look after and promote the growth of the young timber. A recent bulletin issued by the bureau of forestry says:

"The Northern Pacific Railroad company and the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, the two largest landholders in the state of Washington, have requested working plans for their lands in that state. The government has agreed to have them examined by experts this summer."

"It is admitted that there has been waste of timber in the logging camps, not only along the Columbia river, but in the Willamette valley as well. The larger timber is cut off for sawlogs, and in many instances the young growth is recklessly destroyed, or no attempt is made to preserve it so that it can be used in the future. In the south, at present the most active competitor of Oregon for the eastern lumber trade, great care is taken to preserve the young timber for use in the future.

The report comes from Oregon City that the Willamette Pulp and Paper company has set out 54,000 young cottonwood trees during the past year. This company is one of the largest consumers of timber in the state, manufacturing over 100 tons of white paper daily to say nothing of the wood pulp shipped to California points. Cottonwood, white fir, hemlock and spruce are the varieties of timber used in the manufacture of paper. The cottonwood, which is a valuable wood for paper-making, is gradually becoming a scarcity on account of the demands made on it for this purpose. It is of rapid growth, and for a number of years the Willamette Pulp and Paper company has been making active efforts to replace the depleted groves. Thousands of the young trees have been set out in various parts of the Willamette valley, and placed under the management of competent men. A young tree in from nine to 11 years after it has been transplanted, will have attained sufficient size to be cut and manufactured into paper.

PORTLAND WAS VERY HOT TOWN

Portland was the hottest city in the northwest yesterday, and very likely enjoyed that distinction again today. Today, however, was several degrees cooler than yesterday, the thermometer at the weather office registering 92.5 at 2 o'clock this afternoon. It reached 95 yesterday.

While working at the mill of the Eastern & Western Lumber company yesterday Anton Laar, a laborer, was overcome by the excessive heat and became temporarily insane. He ran wildly about the place until other laborers captured and overpowered him. He was bound with ropes and ice was applied to his head in the hope of relieving his sufferings. He was removed to the Good Samaritan hospital and is considered better today. It is believed that he will recover in the course of a few days.

Cooler weather is expected tomorrow by the local weather office though no prediction to that effect was made today. The excessively hot weather extends generally throughout the middle and western states, while the extreme eastern states are enjoying a period of comparatively cool weather.

At Fresno, Cal., it was 108 yesterday, if that's any relief to Portland people. At Red Bluff, Cal., the thermometer registered 105. At Seattle it was only 82, while Boise, Idaho, showed a temperature of 94 degrees.

POPE EXCLUDES WOMEN SINGERS

ENCYCICAL BY PIUS X MAKES PLAIN CHANT RENDERED BY MALE CHOIRS THE OFFICIAL ORDER IN ALL CATHOLIC CHURCHES—CHANGE WILL BE MADE.

"I cannot tell just when a change from the present form of music will be made at the cathedral," said Rev. Hugh H. McDevitt, when asked concerning the encyclical by Pope Pius X commanding that the Gregorian or plain chant in its integrity and purity be restored in all Catholic churches. "But you may say," he added, "that the archbishop's intention is to carry the instruction into effect as soon as possible."

Father McDevitt intimated that it might be but a few weeks when the only music that may be heard in the Catholic service will be rendered by choirs of men and boys, stationed inside the church. The change may, however, be slow and gradual, if more time is required for training and putting into actual church service the male choirs. The plain chant, while simple in musical composition, is extremely difficult to render effectively.

"We have a musical commission, the duty of which is to work out the question of music in our churches," said Father McDevitt, "but we may not necessarily await its action before introducing the Gregorian chant in the cathedral."

When the Pope's first decree reached this country the women choir singers had a hard half hour. Would Gregorian chant debar them from church service? Literal enforcement of the encyclicals is comparatively easy on the continent, where women in church choirs, so common here, are practically unknown. There are no women in the choir of Italy. Outside of one or more Paris churches they are unheard of in France. In the provinces congregational singing prevails.

With the exclusion of all women from the choirs of upper Canada, followed by Bishop McDonnell's dismissal of women from the choirs of three Brooklyn churches, excitement among the women choir singers of New York reached white heat, until May 1 witnessed the renewal of contracts with the soloists of St. Patrick's cathedral, St. Francis Xavier and other leading metropolitan churches that support high-salaried singers.

"I cannot see in our present condition how the churches can dispense with women voices," said Secretary Keen of the New York diocese. "The church is and will continue to be dependent upon them until better trained boys' and men's voices are obtainable, which will be some time."

Father McDevitt, when shown the foregoing statement in a New York paper, said that Secretary Keen had voiced his view of the subject. At the present time music in the Portland cathedral is furnished by a mixed choir in which are many women, and the Sunday musical program regularly includes solo by the best obtainable talent. Mrs. Walter Reed, acknowledged one of Oregon's best contraltos, and Miss Catharine Lawler, hardly less prominent as a soprano, are the principal soloists. The substitution of the plain chant here will be a very marked change from the accustomed musical program.

The enforcement of the pope's decrees necessitates in each diocese of the American church the appointment of a music commission, whose duty it shall be not only to restore Gregorian chant in its purity, but to determine what figured music, ancient or modern, shall be admitted to divine service.

This music commission has always been a feature of church administration in the old world. In this country Cincinnati has the distinction of maintaining for the last five years a music commission. It was appointed by Archbishop Elder, and its Index Expurgatoria is well known to church musicians.

Arrangements are now completed for the opening in July of a summer school for instruction in plain chant in the Benedictine monastery at Conception, Mo. Henceforth that will be the center of the movement west of the Missouri river. In September six Benedictine monks will accompany M. Cateaux to this country to continue instruction throughout the west.

Women Are Excluded. "As to the woman question," said the priest, "if the decree of Pope Pius X is interpreted to mean that the choir shall be stationed inside the church that settles it. Women always have and always will be barred from the sanctuary of the Catholic church. The Creator has divinely planned, in his wisdom, a place for all, and woman in her place is indispensable. Since time immemorial, church singing has been by men, usually invested with the order of canon."

The pontifical commission appointed by the pope to carry out the letter of his encyclical on church music is now preparing an edition of plain chant to be known as the Vatican edition. This commission is under the obligation of sworn secrecy, but in regard to the compilation of the texts and the progress of the publication, and the same obligation extends to all other persons outside the commission who are called to give their services to this end.

SAYS SUIT WAS CAUSED BY SPITE

A constable from Justice Reid's court attached a horse belonging to Richard Hobin this afternoon and in the trial that followed Hobin declared that it was done through spite because he refused to marry Miss Belle Bighton. It is said that he borrowed $97 from the woman June 27 and agreed to pay monthly installments. He failed to do so, it is said, and the horse, which he purchased with the money, was taken. In court he said the woman started the proceedings against him simply because he would not marry her.

LOHMAN HAS CAUGHT HIS LAST BALL GAME

Word comes from the southland that Pete Lohman, the veteran catcher and manager, has probably caught his last game of baseball.

It was last Friday that Lohman pulled off his mask and tossed aside his protector after working an inning. His arm, which has checked its course of thousands of base runners, failed him again, and Lohman could hardly get the ball back to the pitcher, let alone second base. When he was in his prime Lohman could throw out a line to the center fielder, and no catcher in any of the major leagues had it on him. For the past few years his trusty wing has been gradually failing, though at times he has shown phases of his old form behind the plate. About two months ago, while walking along the streets of Oakland, his arm was seized with a sort of cramp and doubled up like a jack-knife. For a time he thought it was paralyzed and he would never be able to use it again in any capacity, but after an electrical treatment he got it back to its normal condition. Lohman had a period of rest Lohman began light work, but at no time did his arm feel as strong as before that "cramp."

To a friend Saturday Pete confided that he doubted if he ever worked again. At any rate, he is now looking for another catcher to help Byrne out, but he will search years, and many of them, before he will find one who will fill his shoes. For a long time Lohman has enjoyed the enviable reputation of being one of the very ablest catchers in the country, and nowhere was he more appreciated than right here on the coast. In addition to having a wonderful arm and an eagle eye, Lohman had brains, which he was continually using, and when he was playing the fans always had more confidence in his team. Many of the local fans will read his with regret, for Lohman was a favorite here and endeared himself to a host of fans by his able generalship, of which there is no question of the fact that he was the ablest catcher, and his brains are concerned, that ever played on this coast. Lohman will continue, in the management of the Oakland club.
