

PIONEER DAY AT GLADSTONE PARK

INCOMING TRAINS BRING HUNDREDS OF OLD-TIMERS — GRAY-TAUQUA GROUND RESEMBLES ANNUAL REUNION—NATIVE SONS AND DAUGHTERS ENJOY.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Gladstone Park, July 22.—The overcast sky this morning was somewhat of a relief to the heat of yesterday and has put the grounds in ideal condition for what, from all appearances, promises to be the greatest day of the present season.

Every train is bringing in crowds of pioneers and the grounds are beginning to look like the annual reunion. Native sons and daughters are holding an informal reception, where all pioneers are registering. Mr. George Haines, as usual, is welcoming every old-timer and providing badges with their year upon them to those who have left after the annual reunion. Mr. Haines is so well informed on these matters, the moment he spots a badgeless pioneer, neither name nor date has to be told before the mystic ribbon is attached to him.

The classes this morning were all beginning to have the air of drawing to a close and were generally doing review work. Sixty intent children were bending over their review papers between 9 and 10 o'clock, taking their final review lesson in Junior Bible class.

The review sheet prepared by the assembly normal union is being used and is wonderfully comprehensive. Diplomas will be awarded tomorrow to those who have answered over 50 per cent of the questions correctly.

The leader of the class is Master Stanley Rapp; secretary, Lena Tyce; assistants, Sylvia Lawrence and Hassel Blakely.

Reform School Band. Very unexpectedly the band from the Reform school, 18 strong, made their appearance. They are a fine manly looking set of little fellows and everybody is delighted with them and the good music they are treating people to.

English Literature. A review was given this morning of the two periods of American literature. The Colonial period, which the instructor considers properly began in 1812, and with Washington Irving whom he looks upon as the father of American literature.

Those who have been studied are: Novels, of whom Cooper stands at the head; poets, Bryant and Poe; orators, Webster and Choate.

In the second creative period New York yielded to Boston and the revolt against Puritanism began. Then came Unitarianism and Transcendentalism, of which Emerson was the head.

Then came the Cambridge school of poets, historians and anti-slavery writers. This will all pass in review as having been studied during the course, and Mark Twain taken up as a special lesson with a generous introduction of selections from his Mississippi life.

Tomorrow the course will close with a review of literature since the rebellion with a special lesson on Bret Harte.

Cooking School.

The attendance was augmented by a great number this morning and standing room was at a premium. The ever popular subject of salads was under consideration. Recipes for the following were given: Pineapple, grape-fruit, pimento, fruit and potato salads with demonstrations in the various boiled, cold and mayonnaise dressings.

Mrs. Miller has had printed recipes made on slips which has been in great demand.

This was the great day of Professor Schafer's lessons. The much disputed Whitman emigration is being discussed with some entirely new matter and information that has recently come into the possession of Professor Schafer. Many pioneers are in attendance.

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis.

To be Henry Ward Beecher's successor should be quite advertisement enough to make any one want to hear the great Brooklyn divine, Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis.

His appearance on the Chautauqua platform tonight is a great event for Oregon, and is affording an opportunity of the rarest kind.

Thousands will be to hear him for it is altogether likely that after he closes this engagement he will not be again heard in this country, for it was but a combination of fortunate circumstances that permitted his attendance at this time.

Stirring Reminders. The talk of Mr. John Lathrop, in the afternoon, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., was well attended and was a stirring reminder of one's duty, and the laxness of the public conscience in municipal affairs.

Yesterday the crowd outstripped any previous day, and those who came from Portland in the afternoon felt as if they had gotten into another climate. The grounds were kept well sprinkled and the delightful breeze made the evening perfect.

Mrs. Sanderson's readings and class drill, and Miss Johnson's singing added laurels to both these popular young women.

Baseball.

Today's game will decide who are to bear away the victorious pennant. The percentage of league games stands:

Team	Per Cent
Y. M. C. A.	500
Chenawah	500
Oregon City	500
Vancouver	500
Willamette	500

The game this afternoon will be between Vancouver and Willamette. If Vancouver wins it will tie the result; if Willamette wins they carry off the pennant. Thirty-five dollars is paid each day, $25 going to the winner and $10 to the loser.

The program for tomorrow:

Morning—8:12, classes.

Afternoon—1:30, band concert; 2, introductory address, Rev. W. C. Kantner, D. D. of Salem, Ore.; lecture, "John Ruskin's Message to the Twentieth Century," Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis; 3:30, baseball; 4, annual meeting of the stockholders; 5:30, band concert; 6, cantata, "Belshazzar," under the direction of Professor Martin E. Robinson, assisted by large chorus, and leading soloists of Oregon.

New Clothing Store.

Mr. A. Rosenblatt, who has been successfully engaged in business in Portland for the past 15 years, has opened a new clothing store at 224-26 Morrison street. A $15,000 stock of superior quality of stylish up-to-date men's and boys' clothing will be carried. The policy of Mr. Rosenblatt is to buy the best and sell the same at a little cheaper than is usually the case where cheaper stuff is carried and sold. No misrepresentation is allowed and you can get your money back any time you are not satisfied. Call and inspect stock and see how cheap good goods can be sold.

THINKS WILLIAMS MAY TELL ALL

week. In fact, she is the only visitor he has ever consented to receive. She soon began to urge him to accept salvation and between her arguments and pondering over the religious works given him for perusal Williams soon became most pious in his demeanor.

One day last week, when he had been "advised" that "fall and free salvation" he broke down and wept like a child, wrung his hands in anguish, Mrs. Cross says, and moaned: "Oh, I am an awful guilty man. I have done some terrible things. But I have confessed it all to God. I believe he will be merciful."

"Mr. Williams, a confession to God is necessary," said Mrs. Cross, "but you should remember that no matter what you have done, God knows all about it, anyhow. What he expects of you, in order to be convinced of your penitence, is that you confess before all men."

Endures Mental Torture. Williams started to dry his tears and after a few sobs managed to control himself. He heaved several long sighs, opened his mouth once or twice as if to speak, and then hung his head without saying anything. On being again urged to make a public confession he replied:

"I know that I am not saved. I know that I must do other things. But wait. Many things may happen yet." Since his conversion Williams has appeared to be in fairly good spirits and eats and sleeps well. He is not allowed the daily papers, by order of Sheriff C. Sexton, but is permitted to have a magazine occasionally and all the religious books he wants. He will accept the latter class of literature from nobody but Mrs. Cross.

"I have been here for 14 years," said J. J. Fitzgerald, the venerable jailer, "and in that time I have never seen a man more than three miles away from the court-house once—that was about five or six years ago, when I took an insane man to Salem. In all these years I have never seen a man that appears so little concerned about the outcome of his case as does this man Williams since he took to reading religious works. He never talks about his crimes at all, and eats and sleeps well."

Complains of His Food.

Williams is not a prisoner in every sense of the word. He frequently finds fault with his meals. Sometimes the quality does not suit him and sometimes he complains of not having enough. "When he asks for more it is given him," Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis ordered a few pies but he has eaten no delicacies since that time.

Shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning he is released from his cell and allowed in the corridor. There is only one other inmate of the jail at present, Willard Udell, a 17-year-old boy, who is held on the charge of running away with a girl two years younger than himself. The two prisoners frequently draw their chairs close together and converse in low tones. Williams does not smoke, chew or gamble.

Now Wears Full Beard.

Since May 22, the day previous to the beginning of his trial, a razor has not been used on his face. He now wears a full beard and presents an appearance entirely different from his aspect during the trial, when his face was clean shaven.

There is one subject on which Mrs. Cross herself is rather reticent. She does not care to discuss Williams' conversion from a denominational standpoint. Asked if he had accepted the doctrine of the "Mission," she answered that he had "accepted Christ as his Savior."

DONNELLY IS PROMPT

messengers from Donnelly sped through the crowds beseeching the men to leave the vicinity of the plants and offer no violence or resistance to the police, who had by this time begun to appear in squads. The strikers sullenly obeyed.

Packers in Predicament.

The new strike places the packers in a worse plight than ever, for practically all the non-union men left last night fearing to face the returned strikers. The packers immediately complained to Donnelly, who said:

"The superintendent of the various plants walked in among our men and picked out a few who they felt assured were friendly to them. The rest they ignored."

At Armour's, Nicholas Goer, president of the Packing Trades council, was passed by four times. At Swift's, Foreman Murphy was ignored. The Anglo-American plant reinstated only ten men and Nelson Morris but four. It was a clear case of discrimination and violation of agreement and a bold attempt to disrupt the union. I had no recourse but to order another strike."

Donnelly this forenoon called upon President Golden to bring out the Teamsters' union and the mechanical trades will also be called out.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the officials of the butchers' union and the affiliated unions met at their downtown headquarters for a conference. This meeting will be followed at 2 o'clock by a conference between the representatives of the unions and packers in which the entire situation will be gone over. The packers this morning conferred at the yards and issued a statement that they were surprised to know that the men had been ordered out again and that it was their intention to carry out the agreement in every particular.

GRANTED WITH ORDERS.

(Journal Special Service.) Kansas City, July 22.—Practically all of the 4,000 members of the meat cutters struck again at noon today. Cheers greeted the order to resume the strike.

The vast majority of strikers did not get back their old places this morning when they applied for work, but were told there was no place open for them.

WALK OUT QUIETLY.

(Journal Special Service.) St. Paul, July 22.—No disorder characterized the second walk-out of the packing house employees this morning. Every union man obeyed the summons.

2,000 RESPOND AT OMAHA.

(Journal Special Service.) Omaha, July 22.—Two thousand men responded to the strike order and walked out at noon. There was no disorder.

Conducting Special Sale.

On another page of this issue will be found an advertisement of special interest to the people of Portland. Woodard, Clarke & Co., the enterprising druggists, are conducting a sale which covers several of their most popular lines and it will be well worth the time of every reader of this paper, not only to carefully scrutinize the advertisement, but to call at their store and take advantage of the opportunity thus offered.

RUN GAUNTLET OF RUSSIAN CRUISERS

PORTLAND-ARAGONIA COMPANY WILL KEEP FLOUR TO JAPAN DESPITE RUSSIA'S ATTITUDE—ARAGONIA WILL CARRY BIG CARGO OF CONTRABAND SUPPLIES.

Flour will be carried to Japan on the steamship Aragonia, which will sail for the far east on July 28. The management of the Portland-Aragon Company has advised the local office to this effect. The question was brought up for consideration by Captain Schmidt, commander of the Aragonia, who filed a protest against any contraband goods being put aboard the steamer. He took such a course to protect the interests of the Hamburg-American line, his owners, in the event that the cargo should be seized by the Russians and the vessel confiscated.

After being notified of the situation the management of the Portland-Aragon company agreed to make good any loss which the Hamburg-American line may sustain on account of the war situation. This agreement having been entered into, unrestricted shipments of Pacific coast products will continue to be made from Portland to Japan.

It is said that the company is not assuming any greater risk than are the other lines which are operating from Puget sound and San Francisco. Every steamer which has sailed from those ports of late has had four shipments on board consigned to Japanese firms. But there is a slight difference in the instances cited. While the Puget sound and San Francisco firms own their vessels the local concern has its chartered. Should they be confiscated, however, the loss would be about the same in each case.

At yet none of the steamers from the Pacific coast have been molested and they have been carrying freight of various kinds, which have been designated as contraband of war by the Russian government.

A SMUGGLER'S HARD LUCK.

Chinese Sailor Brings in Much Silk but Man Not Trusted Choate Him.

Seized with a desire to become a capitalist, one of the Chinese sailors on the steamship Arabia entered into a little financial game a short time ago which almost proved his ruin.

From China he brought a lot of silk goods valued at some $50 or so, which he managed to keep out of view of customs house officers. Not being permitted to leave the steamer himself he was at a loss for several days to know how to dispose of his little stock of merchandise.

Finally, so the story goes, he got acquainted with an ex-steamship man who was assisting in unloading the cargo from the vessel. Sizing up his new-found Caucasian friend to be a poor, although honest man who would not be averse to turning an honest penny he decided to take him into his confidence.

"Me got muchee silk," he said. "You sell him and make heap mon. Keep half and bling last to me. Baber?"

The white man understood and quickly closed a deal to become salesman. With the goods tucked away under his blouse he escaped by the vigilant customs officers and made his way up to a well-known retreat, where he soon sold the entire consignment. But his Chinese friend never saw him again. He had too much money to return to the dock and handle any more freight.

"Beefies," he explained to one of his associates, "that Chinaman should be taught a lesson. He had no business to smuggle all the silk into this country. Had he paid a duty on the various articles which he turned over to me it would be a different thing. But he is simply a smuggler and worthy of no further consideration from me."

TO RESCUE THE SPENCER.

Boat Will Be Taken Off the Sand Bar Next Week and Repaired.

A contract has been let to A. D. Moodie of this city to remove the steamer Spencer from the sand bar, where she was stranded a short time ago opposite Lyle, Wash. Material has already been forwarded up there and on Monday Mr. Moodie will begin the work of getting the steamer off into deep water. He will take a crew of eight men with him. It is believed that the steamer will again be ready to go back on her run to The Dalles a week from next Monday.

Captain Spencer says that he is satisfied that the contractor will be able to launch the steamer in four days' time. His intention is to raise her by means of jackscrews and place timbers under her. Between these and the steamer rollers will be placed and an attempt made to move her down to deep water.

"It will be a small job," says Captain Spencer. "The steamer has been but slightly damaged. After putting new hog chains on her she can be strained up in a very short time. All the repair work that is necessary to be done can be made where the steamer is now lying. After she is launched she will be brought to Portland under her own steam. After lying here a day or two to have the boilers washed the vessel will be in shape to resume her run up the Columbia. I think I will be safe in stating that she will be in commission once more in one week from Monday."

LELANAW CHARTERED.

Big Steamship Will Carry Grain and Feed to the South.

Taylor, Young & Co. have chartered the American steamship Lelanaw to load a full cargo of grain and feed at Portland for San Francisco and San Pedro. The steamer sailed from Seattle yesterday morning at 11 o'clock and is expected to reach here sometime tomorrow.

The Lelanaw returned to Puget sound a few days ago from St. Michaels, where she took a cargo of coal. The vessel is owned by J. Jerome and her home port is at San Francisco. She was formerly the British steamship Earnwell and was built at Newcastle-on-Tyne in 1886. The steamer's dimensions are: Length 280.5 feet, beam 42.3 feet, and width 22 feet. She has a carrying capacity of 3,500 tons. Upon her arrival there will be four big steamers in port. The others are the Tottenham, the Pleiades and the Aragonia.

Flour and wheat will make up the major portion of the Lelanaw's cargo. Despite the fact that the report has been made frequently of late that all the old crop grain has been shipped out of the country, wheat is being sent down the coast every week.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT.

Tonight the steamer Despatch will sail for San Pedro with 600,000 feet of lumber. The Aberdeen of the same line will go down as far as Rainier, where she will take on a shipment of poles in addition to her lumber cargo of 400,000 feet, which was loaded at the local mills.

The steamer Altona of the Oregon City Transportation company's fleet is at the Portland shipyards, having her hull rebuilt. It is expected that she will be ready to resume her run in about two weeks.

In about two days more the steamer Henderson of the Shaver line will be in shape to have her new oil plant tested, which has just been installed.

Having finished discharging her cargo the German ship Emilie has been moved to Columbia dock No. 2, where she will tie up to wait for a charter.

The barkentine Lelanaw moved this morning to the Inman-Poulsen mill, where she will receive a lumber cargo for China. She will carry about 1,400,000 feet.

ARDECRAIG COMING.

Word has been received locally that the British ship Ardecraig has been chartered to load coal at Newcastle, Australia, for Portland. She will begin loading at once and is expected to reach here by the time that the new wheat crop begins to move. The Ardecraig is well known at this port. She carried a grain cargo from here last season for the United Kingdom.

MARINE NOTES.

Astoria, July 22.—Condition of the bar at 8 a. m., smooth; wind, west; weather, cloudy.

Outside at 11 a. m., schooner Inca, from Honolulu.

Seattle, July 21.—Sailed at 5 p. m., steamer Lelanaw, for Portland.

FERRET THAT LIENS MUSIC.

From the Kansas City Journal. Warren Sholey, a young son of Dr. O. C. Sholey of Independence, is the possessor of a full grown ferret, a present from some place out in Kansas. The animal has the appearance of an elongated white rat with a kitten's tail, and is not only thoroughly domesticated, but is about the most entertaining house pet imaginable.

It plays with a string like a kitten and is very fond of music, dancing in a kargaroo sort of fashion when its young master whistles a lively tune. It seems especially fond of a rather owned by Master Sholey, and never seems quite so well satisfied as when resting its long, pinkish body across the strings with its claws. In addition to being a rare pet, the ferret is sure death to rats and mice, and is mentioned chickens. It is said to be able to kill any dog that attacks it, its method of protecting itself being to fasten its needle-like teeth in the dog's throat and then to cling there until it has sucked away the animal's life blood.

Master Sholey's pet, however, seems friendly enough to his big shepherd dog, the two playing together in perfect comradeship.

RINGS—ONLY AT NIGHT.
From the New York Sun.

"Women are not wearing rings as they did several years ago," said a well known gem expert, when asked if rings are no longer stylish. "They buy more rings than ever before, but they use them only for full dress."

"Why, as recently as five years ago, the sex had a craze for 'making pawnshop displays on their hands, and wore rings morning, noon and night, anywhere and everywhere. Even women in the deepest mourning did not discard their rings."

"But it is not so now. The matron is content with wearing her wedding ring, even putting aside her engagement ring, while her single sister, if she wears even one ring, usually adopt a plain dull gold set ring adorned with her coat of arms or somebody else's.

"Rings are brought out with the stars, but it is now considered quite vulgar to burden the hands with them in the daylight."
