TONIGHT'S AMUSEMENTS.

The Pacific Coast Norwegian Saengerfest begins next Sunday afternoon in the Grand opera-house at Seattle, and the Fortland Norwegian Singing society will take part. The local society will make what is expected to be a successful effort to bring the next year's saengerfest to Portland, Singers from Tacoma, Parkland, Everett, Ballard, Seattle and Portland will compete for the medal that was won last year by the Everett Singing society. It will be a warmly contested event, as the cup is regarded as a great prize among the singers. The Portland society has chosen the song "Brus Holt" to sing in the competition, and is said to render it with wonderful effectiveness. The Hotel Diller will be headquarters at Seattle. On Saturday a big reception and two rehearsals of the grand chorus will occupy the time of the new arrivais. Harry T. Hamlin, Carl Schwerdtfeger, Edward Cahn and Miss Emman T. Locare among the soloists who will be heard. The saengerfest will end Monday evening with a banquet at the Washington hotel.

the civil service commission, and the executive board and all the members of the fire department, together with views of the different engine houses and the horses. The book will be issued within a few weeks.

Mr. Bryan has notified Col. Irwin McMahon, secretary of the congress, that he regrets his inability to be present. He is in the east, and his engagements will keep him there until past the time for the Portland meeting. The prospects for a big meeting of the mining congress daily grow better, and it is now estimated that it will bring 1,000 napple to the city.

The band concert which was given esterday evening in Holladay Park hreatened for a time to be a failure on ecount of the behavior of the electric account of the behavior of the electric lights, which went out just as the concert was about to commence. The musicians, unable to render the pieces on the program, gave an impromptu program of old-time pieces, such as "Annie Laurie," "Last Rose of Summer" and "Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground." Then some one from a neighboring house brought a number of Chinese lanterns, which were strung around the bandstand and furnished light for the musicians until the switch was fixed and clans until the switch was fixed and then the original program was given.

F. Berchtold, the new grand master of the Oregon jurisdiction, A. O. U. W., presided at a meeting of the new extension board held in the office of Grand Recorder Newton Clark in the Commercial block yesterday afternoon. Two of the deputies that were in the field during the past year were reappointed—Ralph Feeney and Mr. Wilkins—Mr. Wilkins going first to Coos Bay, and from there to Klamath county. News of their condition was sent to the office of the company and a man was dispatched to administer soda-water to the stricken ones. That is the only treatment given in such cases, and is said to be immediately effective, one gas counteracting the other and restor-ing the victim.

said that the new steel bridge on First street scroes Marquam guich would be completed within the next three weeks. The bridge has been closed during the past three months, but when it is again thrown open for traffic it will be the finest structure of the sort in the city. Its cost was over $50,000.

Its cost was over $50,000.

Two years ago this bridge was condemned by the city engineer and ordered closed. Several thousand dollars were spent in repairing the timbers supporting it, but three months ago it was again closed to traffic. Then work on the new structure was begun. The new bridge will be of the most modern pattern, and Mr. Elliott says that it wiff last 100 years. The body of the structure is of steel, set in concrete piling. The work of putting it together was as smooth as an engineer could wish, not a single sledge hammer being used to make the parts meet during the whole time it was in course of erection, every piece fitting neatly.

Mr. Elliott says that while the first cost of the bridge may seem great to the taxpayers, they are reminded that they now have a structure across Marquam guich that will last them for a lifetime, and that their children's children may use the same. From an architectural point of view, the new bridge is a thing of beauty, and from Mr. Eiliott's standpoint a joy forever.

The Most Modern Clothing Store on the Coast.

It's rip, saw, bang, at The Chicago, the big store in the middle of the block, 69-71 Third street, between Oak and 69-71 Third street, between Oak and Pine. Wrecking the store is now in progress—walls coming out, old fixtures, etc., giving way to new and doubling the store space by adding all the store between the U. S. bank and the present stores. New front, 200 showcases, new tables, shelves, and installing the largeest cash and parcel carrying system west of the Rocky mountains. The Chi-cago, when completed, will have by far cago, when completed, will have by far the greatest business capacity of any ciothing house on the entire coast. The furnishing goods department will be 20 feet in height and 100 feet long. Set these shelves in a row with four feet high of stock space, as many are in Portland, it would make a department two and one-half blocks long. The glass hat cases and shelves are more than 100 feet long. The shoes shelves are 20 feet high and 50 feet long—about as much space as a half dozen ordinary as much space as a half dozen ordinary shoe stores. Every department shelf will be modern in every detail—the trim-mings will be ivory white and gold, or golden oak.

John F. Daily, a prominent real estate broker and capitalist of Madison, S. D., is in Portland, accompanied by a num-ber of business men from that locality. The party is touring and examining op-portunities offered for investments.

W. B. Glafke of the Glafke company, commission merebants, returned from a several weeks' business trip to the firm's branch at Walla Walla. Wash, this morning. Mr. Glafke says that all the crops of the Inland Empire would be bumpers and that business in that locality was never better than at present. "Yesterday," says Mr. Glafke, "it was very hot there, the thermometer showing 102 degrees in the shade, but you don't feel any warmer than in Portland when it is a great deal less."

Manager C. W. Knowles of the Imperial hotel has returned for the reaches the heart, and finds the most tender chords in human nature. Then there is a delicious little comedy part and the wonderfully bright sayings of dear old Hobbs, and the other strange friends of "my little lord." It will run at the Baker all this week, with a matine Saturday.

OPERATOR IN THE CATALLA MAY PIELDS SAYS THAT THE OIL IS OF PIRST QUALITY, ABUNDANT AND MAST TO PIPE-GOAL PIREDS ARE SOURCE OF GREAT PROFIT.

James Forbes, an operator in the Catalla Bay oil field, Alaska, is at the Perkins, on his way east. He views the future of the Catalla district with the future of the Catalia district with very hopeful eyes, and confidently expects that in the near future the greatest city in Alaska will be built there.

"There is a steady development going on in the oil and coal fields there," he said, "and as we have the finest coal in the world and the same quality of oil I do not see how anything can defeat us. There are now four flowing wells. The last one was struck only a few weeks ago, and from indications at this time it is the biggest well of the four. It is the property of the English syndicate that owns the other three wells. There are many other syndicates and individual enterprises at work, and all of them are confident of success. The shallowest gusher struck thus far was at a depth of 165 feet, and the deepest well is 1,100 feet.

"The oil, as everyone in the oil world knows, is the finest quality known. There are no pipe lines laid, but surveys for them are made and there is considerable pipe on the ground. At present there is but one storage tank built, and it is only 1,000 barrels capacity. The fact that speaks best for the district is that there is not an empty hole in the Alaskan oil field—I mean by that an abandoned well.

"The development of the coal field is showing great results. One company showing great results. One company has opened an 18-foot vein of the finest coal for a distance of 600 feet. The coal will not be marketed in this country, but will be sold to the nations, for

"MASCOTTE" AT SHIELDS'.

Manager Zinn has made his most pre-tentious effort in the fantastic produc-tion of "La Mascotte a la Newberg," now running at Shields' park. It is a clever, catchy little piece, filled with excellent specialties and affording a chance for good individual work to sev-eral members of the cast.

There are only two acts, but they are so crowded with mirth and laughter that so crowded with mirth and laughter that the audience appears really disappointed when the curtain drops. Elaine Forrest is as charmingly attractive as usual in the part of Flametta, the daughter of Frince Lorenzo. Cad Franks does some Prince Lorenzo. Cad Franks does some clever acting as Bettina, the mascot, while Horace Mann created a good impression as Pippo, the shepherd. Frances Venita Grey presents a stunning figure as Prince Freddie. Leon Erroll and William Fitchett, the comedians of the group, do good work. They were repeatedly encored.

The bunch of chorus ponies showed to their usual good advantage. Manager Shields produced some excellent stereopticon effects. The show is decidedly the best that has been attempted at the park this season and is drawing well.

AT THE LYBIC. If the card at the Lyric this week included only Tegge and Daniel, the show would be well worth the price of admittance. These two are about the most original and natural artists in an old line that have appeared on the local stage for a long time. The man has a good baritone voice, slightly unsteady the two provide good vocal music tan-dem. They were recalled at the close of their work. In the opening number Hoyt and Mc-In the opening number Hoyt and Mc-Donald give an acceptable mixture of comedy and music. Conkey does some fairly clever juggling, and talks all the time he is about it. Raymond G. Bald-win makes his farewell appearance in illustrated songs. The Auer's, billed as "original creators, a revelation in rags," are a novelty. "Ann's Love Story" is told by the vitascope. It is not a new story, but the climax is startling.

No deterioration is shown in the bill at the Arcade this week, every feature being up to the usual high standard maintained by that popular playhouse. The biggest hit is made by Lynne and Leonard, in an abbreviated comedy entitled "From City to Rube." The Davies duo, Roman ring performers, excel in their branch of stage endeavor and receive merited applause. Sam Hood, the blackface "coon," is both witty in speech and indicrous in action.

Among the other features are Philips and Merritt, singers and dancers; Kate Coyle, in illustrated songs, and the blo-scope, reproducing this week an attack of the Japanese fleet on Port Arthur. ARCADE'S BILL.

"LITTLE LORD PAUNTLEBOY." "Little Lord Fauntleroy," which is being adequately produced at the Baker this week, is a play that no one, from the tiniest tot who can understand the English language up to mature men and women, can afford to deny themselves the pleasure of seeing. It is a play that reaches the heart, and finds the most cality was never better than at present. "Testerday," says Mr. Glafke, "It was very hot there, the thermometer showing 102 degrees in the shade, but you don't feel any warmer than in Portland when it is a great deal less."

Manager C. W. Knowles of the Imperial hotel has returned from a two-weeks' vacation at Seaside.

N. P. Sorenson and W. F. McGregor of Astoria, who conduct the largest manufactory in Oregon for the making of salmon-packing cases, are registered at the Imperial.

Hood River people at the Imperial hotel today are J. G. Voght, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Graham and Mrs. C. Bartch.

W. T. Phy and A. B. Hibbs of Hot Lake are guesta at the Perkins.

Leslie Butler of Hood River is at the Perkins.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Ash of Hood River are guests at the Perkins.

C. H. Reeves, A. E. Reeves and C. W. Romaker of Wallace, Idaho, are at the Perkins.

There are several acts at the Bijou this week that are worth seeing for their own merits, even if the visitor only has time to view the single act. For instance, there is the firm of Post & Ashley, that heads the bill and deserves the position. Bernard Williams has card tricks that mystry, and if there is any spot where Williams can't got at least three decks of cards the audience has not discovered it. John Neff is the AT THE MIJOU

BABOON CHAUFFEUR DOES STAR STUNT

A free exhibition of Kiro looping the loop will be given in the morning after the parade on the circus lots of the Floto shows. This is done so as to dispel in the minds of all the curious, whether old or young, who may entertain any fears that Kiro, the African baboon, would not be able to perform the loop the loop feat in his cunning automobile, and to further demonstrate that all the Floto shows advertise is actually to be seen. The Denver Post says:

"Then Kiro, with many admonitions

"Then Kiro, with many admonitions from the trainer to be careful, was placed in the automobile, and the ascent of 23 feet was made. Everyone was of 23 feet was made. Everyone was breathless with excitement when, at the word "go." down came the little red car, up around the loop, and there was Kiro, the wonderful chauffeur, on his head in mid air, and carrying on a mild

"There was a roar of appliause and everybody seemed to think that if this had been the only feature of the show it alone was worth the price of admission. But, of course, it is only one of many new, original things."
