CALIFORNIA PARTY TO INSPECT FAIR

GOVERNOR AND LEADING CITIZENS WILL ARRIVE FRIDAY TO ARRANGE FOR THEIR STATE'S PARTICIPATION IN 1905 EXPOSITION—HAVE $20,000 AVAILABLE.

A party composed of some of the most prominent citizens of California will arrive in the city Friday morning for the purpose of investigating the buildings of the Lewis and Clark fair in their present stage of construction, and with a view to making plans for California's participation in the fair next year.

An appropriation of $20,000 was allowed two years ago by the legislature of California for the purpose of having California represented at the fair. The money became available after July 1, and as soon after as possible Governor Pardee formed a party to make the trip to Portland.

The party will be composed of Governor Pardee, William F. Herrin, at the head of the Southern Pacific law department; Senator George C. Perkins, State Senator Robert T. Delvin of Sacramento, William Sproule, at the head of the traffic department of the Southern Pacific railway; Alfred Sproule, publisher of the Sacramento Union; J. O. Hayes, publisher of the San Jose Mercury; A. A. Watkins, president of the San Francisco chamber of commerce; Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president of the University of California; William Byrne, president of the Pacific Union club, and C. H. Markham, general manager of the Southern Pacific system.

The party will be welcomed to the city by a delegation of Lewis and Clark officials.

TO PERFECT ALLIANCE OF BUILDING WORKERS

(Journal Special Service.)

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 9.—To bring building contractors and employers closer together throughout the country with a view to lessening the number of strikes is the chief aim of the National Structural Trades alliance, the permanent organization of which is to be effected at a conference begun yesterday by representatives of the interested labor organizations.

For several years the idea of the alliance was agitated, but active measures were not taken to form such a body until last fall, when the National Building Trades Employers' association was formed. A committee of heads of national labor unions was formed shortly afterward, and sent out a call for a meeting at which temporary organization of the alliance was effected. It was decided to start with the national unions in the nine principal trades. These are the Bricklayers' and Masons' International union, the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas and Steamfitters, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, the Operative Plasterers' National union, the International Association of Stationary Engineers, the National Electrical Workers' union, the Brotherhood of Painters, and the International Building Laborers' union.

When the alliance is in running order it will represent a membership of 500,000 building trade workers. The organization will aim to facilitate the creating of trade agreements with the associations of employers where no such agreement exists, to bring about the arbitration of trade disputes, to do away with strikes and lockouts, and to foster business relations between unions and employers.

NEW CAPITAL FOR AUSTRALIA CHOSEN

(Journal Special Service.)

Melbourne, Aug. 9.—The Victoria house of representatives today selected Dalgety, in Bombala district, to be the federal capital. The senate had previously voted for it. Dalgety is 20 miles south of Sidney and 32 miles from a railroad station. Its population is 300.

The selection of this out of the way place for the capital of united Australasia is part of a definite plan. The reasons for the selection are precisely those which prompted the choice of Washington city and the creation of the District of Columbia by the founders of the United States government. The purpose of the federation is to secure a town most conveniently located for all the states of the federation, and to erect a capitol there. A small town was selected because of the natural rivalry which exists between the established cities of Australasia. A railroad will be built to Dalgety, and as the capital, it is predicted its population will grow from 300 to 100,000 within a year.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST CUT-RATE DRUGGISTS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Seattle, Aug. 9.—The so-called legitimate druggists of the northwest are preparing an organized campaign against the cut-rate drug stores, and to make themselves stronger are laying plans to form a strong organization. Men are now working in various parts of Oregon, Washington and Idaho to organize the drug men locally, and a little later it is planned to form the central body.

The organizers intimate they will apply more than moral suasion in forcing the outlaw drug keepers to hold up their prices along with the "legitimate" sellers.

PIMPLES

"I tried all kinds of blood remedies which failed to do me any good but I have found the right thing at last. My face was full of pimples and blackheads. After taking Cascarets they all left. I am continuing the use of them and recommending them to my friends. I feel fine when I rise in the morning. Hope to have a chance to recommend Cascarets."

NUMBER OF DEAD PLACED AT 106

MAJORITY OF THOSE KILLED IN PINON, COL., TRAIN WRECK APPARENTLY WERE DROWNED—QUICKSANDS SWALLOW UP THE CORPSES.

(Journal Special Service.)

Denver, Col., Aug. 9.—The wreck of the Missouri Pacific World's Fair Flyer, which plunged through a trestle on Dry creek, near Eden, at 8 o'clock Sunday evening, carrying with it the baggage car and two coaches crowded with passengers, is the worst in Colorado's history.

At 8 o'clock this morning 76 bodies had been recovered and identified. The total number of dead is now placed at 106. As a rule the bodies recovered show few bruises, all of the persons found apparently having met death by drowning.

At the time of the accident the waters were traveling with such velocity that it is now thought that many of the bodies were swept far beyond the line of search that was established by daybreak the next morning. Quicksands, too, have probably swallowed up many bodies.

With the gradual receding of the waters the search is being carried on with increased vigor.

Fountain creek this morning has fallen to nearly its normal level and the work of recovering bodies will be easier.

A public meeting was held today for the purpose of launching a movement to organize a systematic patrol of Fountain creek and the Arkansas river, in the hope of finding more bodies.

Hundreds of men responded and the work was taken up under the direction of town officials.

The public joined in one immense funeral procession today, winding from one morgue to another in the fear of finding among the dead bodies of friends or relatives.

It is estimated that 20 or 30 more bodies than have been recovered are buried in quicksands in the river. All but six of the victims recovered so far have been identified.

The recovered bodies have been brought to Pueblo and placed in the morgue awaiting identification. Each body received is tagged and numbered.

Among the pathetic incidents connected with the disaster was the death of Dr. James R. MacGregor, of Ballard, Wash., and Miss Stella McDonald of Pueblo. Their engagement had been announced only a few days ago.

Mrs. Henry Gilbert of Oklahoma City and her husband, on their wedding tour, were sitting side by side when the crash came. He escaped unhurt. His wife is among the missing.

EARLY BIRDS CATCH TEN DOLLAR FINES

Nineteen prisoners faced Judge Hogue in the municipal court this morning, all being charged with roaming the streets after midnight, which is contrary to the city ordinances. All but seven were fined $10 by the court. They showed that they were workingmen and that they had business of a legal nature, so were released.

The police last night went out in squads and gathered up every person who could not give a good account of himself. A total of 25 was brought in, but six were later released.

GEORGE GRAHAM VEST OF MISSOURI IS DEAD

secret purpose, but to prevent countless thousands of poverty stricken women and children in the great cities of the east from freezing to death.

At the time when the speech was delivered he was the mere shadow of a man, so frail and feeble that for a time it seemed he would collapse. As his speech continued the fires of youth seemed to have descended upon him and with the old-time vigor which made him famous he brought to bear all of the orator's art. At times the scene was dramatic. He won his fight and sank feebly into his seat. His retirement from public life was not long delayed thereafter. Even then his passion for work continued, and he wrote a series of exceedingly interesting reminiscences of public life and public men for the Saturday Evening Post, many of which will doubtless be of great value from a historical viewpoint.

Senator John H. Mitchell learned with surprise and with deep regret of the death of his former colleague, Senator Vest, with whom he had served in the senate for a number of years.

"We were warm personal friends," said Senator Mitchell, "and I esteemed him most highly. He was by far the most brilliant man on the Democratic side of the senate, and for that matter I might say in the entire senate. He was a very able man, a man with a great big brain and a great big heart. When he left the senate in March of last year his departure was regretted by every senator there. I well remember a speech which he made just a few days before his term expired. He spoke upon the death of a prominent man from the south, and though his physical strength had for some time been so much impaired that he had to be supported by two attendants, his mental powers were undiminished. Every one who heard that speech admired it. It was a wonderful effort. Senator Vest was a very scholarly man and his speeches were finished and eloquent. I cannot speak too highly of him. I am sure his death will be deplored by every one who knew him, as it certainly is by me."

SAYS COMPANIONS MADE HIM DRINK

Clarence Anderson is the name of the 10-year-old lad who was arrested at a late hour yesterday afternoon, when he was too drunk to tell his name to the police. This morning, accompanied by his mother, he called at the police station and gave the names of Fred and John Fox and Terry Wilson as the boys who were with him yesterday.

"I do not know from what place the boys got the whisky we drank, but they stole it somewhere," said young Anderson. "They got a jugful of it and poured it into some flasks, from which we drank it. I never drank any liquor before, and it took but little of it to make me drunk.

"Fred Fox and Terry Wilson are big boys about 19 years old, and I heard this morning that they took the Fourth-street train and left town."

The police are working to ascertain where the boys secured the whisky, but thus far have gained no clue.

MARY ROBINSON FOUND AT CONDON

Information secured by G. H. Richardson of this city resulted in the location of Mary Robinson, the 14-year-old girl who left her home at St. Helens and for whom a reward of $100 has been offered. Sheriff White passed through the city today en route to Condon, where the girl is employed as waitress in a hotel.

The girl disappeared from her home July 28 and has eluded all efforts on the part of relatives and officers to learn her whereabouts. She left in company with another girl, who has returned to Portland. At the time of her disappearance a young man named Lope was placed under arrest, but has since been released on bonds.

The girl assumed another name as soon as she left home and has used various means to disguise her identity. A few days after the story of her disappearance was published, she and the other girl were seen by Mr. Richardson on board a train leaving this city. He talked with the girls and both were very anxious to see a newspaper.

Their conversation aroused his suspicions and he notified the sheriff. In case it is found that the girl is the one wanted, she will be returned to her home at St. Helens. Mr. Richardson is traveling salesman for the John Clark Saddlery company.

The other candidates are W. I. Vawter of Jackson county and A. A. Bailey of Portland.

DESIRE COMPETITION ACROSS ISTHMUS

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the chamber of commerce, held this morning at 11:30, resolutions were introduced and unanimously adopted, at the recommendation of the transportation committee, favoring that competition be thrown open to all ocean carriers to handle the freight to be shipped across the isthmus of Darien, both between Atlantic coast ports and Colon on the Atlantic ocean and Pacific coast ports and Panama on the Pacific ocean.

A communication was read from the German Publishing company calling attention to the need of German literature for advertising Oregon. The matter was referred to Tom Richardson of the Commercial club.

KEARN'S CONDITION CRITICAL.

John Kearn, who was struck on the forehead by a rock last Friday night, is today in a very critical condition at the North Pacific sanatorium, and it is feared he will not recover. George Mulcher and Adam Baum, under arrest for the assault, are out on bonds of $1,000 each.

SHIPPERS STILL WAIT AND HOPE

MANAGEMENT OF ASIATIC STEAMSHIP COMPANY HOLDS OUT ELUSIVE HOPE THAT VESSEL MAY BE CHARTERED TO LOAD HERE FOR JAPANESE PORTS.

Advices received last night from Manager Schwerin of the Portland & Asiatic Steamship company by local officials of the line state that he hopes to close a deal for a steamer to send to this port to load flour for Japan within the next day or two. He explained that he is now in communication with the London owners of a vessel on which an option has been secured.

The representatives of the company at Portland declare that they are almost certain that a vessel will be sent here to load during the present month. If one is not sent in ample time to load in August they state that the matter might as well be dropped. The explanation is given that there will be no flour shipments made from any of the Pacific coast ports to the land of the mikado next month. After the duty on flour imports into that country goes into effect they are of the opinion that it will be the means of cutting down the shipments to almost nothing.

Although the exporters are discouraged at the unfavorable outlook, none of them have taken steps so far to engage space on the liners scheduled to sail from Puget sound. As long as there is a strong likelihood that the local company will provide transportation facilities it is said that they will wait.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce adopted the following resolutions this morning at its regular meeting:

"Whereas, The Portland & Asiatic Steamship company has seen fit to refuse all freight both from and to Japan owing to war conditions, and

"Whereas, The lines operating from the sound have continued to do business as before, with the result that a great deal of traffic which is naturally tributary to this port has been diverted, and

"Whereas, There is no commercial reason why trade should thus be embargoed, seeing the perils dreaded can be insured against at moderate rates, the fact that shippers are willing to jeopardize their cargo being sufficient proof of this, and

"Whereas, The trade to Japan is of vital importance to the shipping community at this time owing to higher duty on flour which goes into effect in Japan in the end of September,

"Resolved, That this chamber views the action of the steamship company as arbitrary, uncalled for, and extremely detrimental to the shipping interests of this port, and that a copy of these resolution be sent to the manager of said company, wherever he can be found."

BOYS' TESTIMONY CONVICTS BIEHLO

On charges of selling liquor to Clyde Norman and Joseph O'Brien, minors, and permitting them to loiter in his saloon at 350 North Fourteenth street, George Biehlo was this morning found guilty. His bartender, James Morgan, was found guilty of giving liquor to the boys. Clyde Norman was found guilty of being drunk. All of the cases were put over until tomorrow for sentence.

Biehlo and his bartender declared the boys never secured beer in the saloon, but the boys swore they did.

KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR AND KILLED

John Olsen, aged 50 years, a native of Finland, and until last night employed as porter in the Richelieu saloon, Second and Everett streets, was knocked down by a street car on the line of the Portland railway company, at Fifth and Couch streets, at 9 o'clock last night, and died in the Good Samaritan hospital an hour later. Coroner Finley will hold no inquest. The death was an accident.

It was not until a late hour today that the man who was killed was identified as Olson. There was nothing on his person to tell who he was, but today he was identified by W. D. Panig, an acquaintance.

Last night he walked in front of the car, which was bound south, and was in charge of I. L. Abernatha. The latter states that the old man did not seem to notice the car. It was not going very fast, but the motorman was unable to stop in time to save the man's life.

He is said to have been perfectly sober when the accident occurred, and it is believed by the officials that he had no intention of committing suicide.
