PORTLAND FIRM TO BE A LEADER

CORRAGE COMPANY BUILDS A LARGE PLANT NEAR SEATTLE AND WILL HAVE ONE OF THE LARGEST FACTORIES IN THE COUNTRY.

The Portland Corrage company of this city is constructing a big manufacturing plant at Interbay, near Seattle.

The local concern is not following a policy of expansion throughout the northwest cities, but decided to establish a factory at Seattle to handle the northwest trade with greater facility.

A force of 30 men is now employed in the construction of the Seattle factory. They will be nine buildings altogether, including the factory building, the main warehouse, the tar rooms and offices, and an immense structure 1,400 feet long to be known as the rope walk.

Already the Portland Corrage company has the largest plant on the coast and with the completion of the Seattle factory will have one of the largest plants in the United States.

WOMAN POLITICIAN TELLS OF STRUGGLE

Mrs. Hutton, Now Leader of the Feminine Democracy in Idaho, Says the Party Will Win—Her Unique Record.

Two women prominent in Idaho politics met in the lobby of the Hotel Portland yesterday, one going to Seattle, the other coming from that resort and both on the coast to attend the mining congress.

"Well, I can't say that they did," she replied, and then added emphatically, "but I got the vote of the women, that's one thing I would like to have understood."

"Dear me, I haven't seen a paper. I don't know what they have done," said Mrs. Hutton.

"You don't tell me? Well, that's too good to be true and then they devoted a moment to feminine congratulations and parted. Mrs. Ridenbaugh to spend a few days at the seaside and return to Portland when the mining convention opens, and Mrs. Hutton remaining here until the time. Her husband, A. Hutton, is a delegate and will arrive Saturday.

WAS HELD UP BY ILL-FATED RUORIK

Captain Benneche, master of the American barkentine Janich Johnson, which began receiving a cargo of lumber at the Portland mill yesterday afternoon, says that the Russian cruiser Ruorik, sunk by the Japanese squadron the other day, is one of the three vessels that held him up near Hakodate not many weeks ago.

COURTNEY MEETS SEVERE REBUFF

FOOT FARM MANAGER TURNS TWO OLD MEN OUT AND COUNTY JUDGE ORDERS THEM READMITTED—COURTNEY'S PROTEST UNHEEDED.

J. E. Courtney, superintendent of the poor farm, turned two old men out on the streets because they committed a breach of discipline at the institution. His order was countermanded by County Judge Webster Tuesday, whereupon Courtney burst into the judge's private office in a rage and endeavored to force him to retreat from the position he had taken in the matter.

Patrick Maloney and Hugh Quigley, two old inmates of the poor farm, came to the city and took several drinks before returning to the institution. Maloney has lost the fingers of both hands and is unable to work. Quigley has always done a good deal of work and never had any trouble with Courtney previously.

When they were ejected from the poor farm they applied to Judge Webster. They admitted their fault and professed repentance. He issued an order returning them to the institution.

"Look here, judge, I am hot under the collar about these two men you have returned to the farm," he said. "How can you expect me to conduct the place rightly if you are going to override all my orders? Those old fellows were drinking and deserved to be disciplined. Now they will go and do the same thing again."

Judge Webster said the old men had admitted their fault. He did not believe there would be any more trouble with them.

"What would you have them do—starve?" he queried.

"Let them starve for a while," declared Courtney, bringing his fist down heavily on his knee by way of emphasis. "That's what they need. They should be disciplined good and hard."

"Your ideas are wrong, Mr. Courtney," said the judge. "We are not running a penitentiary out there to enforce discipline, but a charitable institution. These slips on the part of the old fellows are to be regretted, but you should remember that their lives are not very bright, as it is. You know neither of them could work and would have to go back."

"It is an extremely rich country. That is proven by the fact that up to this time they have been hauling the ore 30 miles through a narrow gauge railway and then transferring it twice before it reached a smelter, and still it paid rich rewards to those who got in early. A number of men have made fortunes. I received $10,000 the first man to lease a mine from the discoverer of the Tonopah district, has built a solid block of business houses, and is worth $300,000. Cal and Wilco Bower have cleaned up half a million dollars. Shorty Kendall has made his fortune, and others have done well. James J. Hill, Jr., and young Rockefeller are there now, and having the time of their lives. Rockefeller and his wife went into a gambling house the other day and the young man played $5 on No. 17, between the 0 and 00. He lost, and after they went away he kept bemoaning his luck, and claimed he had received 'hunch' to play the No. 17. 'Well,' said young Hill, 'if you're going to cry about that all the evening, here's your money,' and he handed Rockefeller $5.

John F. McKane, who represents the Schwab interests, is spending the summer at Tonopah. After Schwab visited the place a few months ago I heard him talking of its prospects, and he spoke in the highest terms of what he had seen there, and predicted for Tonopah a great future. At present there is a vast amount of ore on the dumps and it will be some time before the camp is ready for work. Those who have worked the mines have just followed the rich veins and gone after the gold regardless of rules of mining. The result is that the owners of the subsequent leases will have to do a lot of work to get the mines in shape for further work."

"We want our Idaho politics to be run by the highest people," she said. "It is her opinion that there are more polygamous families in Idaho than there are in Utah in comparison with the population. She says the practice is spreading to the Indians on the reservation."

BOATS DELAYED BY LOW WATER

Captain Riggs, master of the Glenola, reports that navigation is carried on between here and Oregon City under adverse circumstances. While making the barge load of the three Clackamas county metropolis yesterday the vessel bumped on the bottom quite frequently, and at times it began to look as though he would be unable to complete the trip. He says the greatest difficulty experienced at the rapids near the mouth of the Clackamas river, and he believes that the new government dredge built for the upper Willamette river can be put to work there to advantage.

LOCAL OPTION TO BE COUNTY ISSUE

Local optionists are becoming active in anticipation of the November elections. A petition for a vote on whether the county shall be without intoxicants for consumption by everybody "having the price" until a year from next June has been filed with County Clerk. The petition contains about 350 names.

WHAT DID THE WOGGLE BUG SAY

The September sales of world's fair tickets promise to be a record-breaker. The Canadian Pacific is now making reservations, and those intending to visit the fair at this time should make early preparations.

It would be well to keep in mind the fact that the journey via this route can be made with comfort—it being cool and free from dust and heat.

TONOPAH DISTRICT HAS RICH MINES

NEWS COMES THAT DESPITE POOR TRANSPORTATION AND HARSH AND DEVELOPMENT, MANY FORTUNES ARE BEING MADE THEREIN OUTLET TO SODAVILLE.

The Tonopah mining district in Nevada has, according to latest accounts, been worked regardless of the rules of mining, by the men who leased the big pay streaks, and although Tonopah's new railroad to Sodaville, connecting with the C. & C. railway, was completed Monday with the driving of the golden spike, it will be some time before there is any considerable work for miners in the district. A Portland man who returned from Tonopah said:

"It is an extremely rich country. That is proven by the fact that up to this time they have been hauling the ore 30 miles through a narrow gauge railway and then transferring it twice before it reached a smelter, and still it paid rich rewards to those who got in early. For several days officers who are stationed in that neighborhood and who are engaged in business at Fifth and Morrison streets have been endeavoring to ascertain the cause of the disagreeable odors that have permeated that section of the city. Until today all efforts were futile.

The stench was found to arise from the presence of a small black bug that had invaded that part of the city. Before the discovery of the bug, houses and cellars had been searched and the entire neighborhood ransacked to learn the cause of the unpleasant odor.

TRIES TO DEFRAUD BY BOGUS RECEIPTS

Charged with obtaining $700 by false pretenses from a Portland business man named Irving, a warrant of arrest was served on George Lamont yesterday by Sheriff Taylor of Umatilla county and Deputy Sheriff Gruss.

PLEADS GUILTY TO ESCAPE DARK PEN

"Being assured of a lighter sentence if I pled guilty, I will go that rather than plead not guilty," declared John Miller, alias John F. Wagner, when taken into the circuit court before Presiding Judge George.

He was charged with obtaining money by false pretenses from Mrs. Hannah Segerholm, a lodging house keeper, drawing a check for $55 on the First National bank when he had no money there.

The court asked several questions, and was informed by Deputy District Attorney Adams that Miller is accused of a similar offense but pleaded guilty with the understanding that it would not be pressed against him. He was sentenced to serve a year in the penitentiary, and left the room, shaking his head in disapproval.

MAYOR IS PLEASED WITH NEW PAVING

"There is an immense amount of good substantial street improvement going on in the city," remarked Mayor Williams yesterday afternoon after he had returned from his inspection of the street improvements with Whitney L. Boise and City Engineer Elliott. "I was greatly surprised to note with what rapidity the work is being done."

"The first street bridge over Marquam gulch is a fine structure. Work is progressing on it and it will soon be ready for travel. It is a much better bridge than I expected to find."

"With the completion of the improvements now being made our streets will be in fairly good condition and by next spring we hope to have them much better. We anticipate having everything in ship-shape in time for the Lewis and Clark exposition next summer."

ALBINA FERRY TO SOON BE AT WORK

MAKESHAVE OF JUDGE WEBSTER WILL BE PLACED IN COMMISSION IN FOUR OR FIVE WEEKS TO RELIEVE CONGESTED TRAFFIC IN LOWER KARBOR.

Another ferry boat will soon be in commission between lower Albina and west Portland. It is believed that everything will be in readiness for the craft to go on the run next month.

F. A. Ballin, the architect, has been instructed to draw up the plans and specifications for the landing slips. Plans will then be called for and a contract for their construction will be let to the lowest bidder. It is the intention to rush matters and get the new line in running order as quickly as possible.

For a time it was feared that the boat would have to lie idle for several months on account of the inability of those having the matter in charge to secure landing slips for boats. This difficulty was finally overcome by property being purchased where the old mill formerly stood belonging to J. A. Martin, on this side of the river, and at the foot of Randolph street, on the east side. When the uncertainty of securing sites was manifest, an agitation was started to have the vessel placed in operation alongside of the Morrison street bridge.

The engines of the vessel will be given a trial tomorrow, but the official test will probably not take place until Saturday. At that time it is stated that she will be taken quite a distance up the river.

When the Lionel Webster, the name by which the boat has been christened, is in commission, the residents in the lower part of the city will be provided with excellent facilities for getting across the river. There will be two areas close together in that neighborhood. On every trip the present ferryboat is crowded with teams and foot passengers. The team traffic is particularly large.

TRoublesome Bug INVADES PORTLAND

The bug was discovered by J. M. Fisher, on Fifth street between Morrison and Yamhill, and was taken before an authority on biology. The genus of the insect had not been determined by the scientists, and it is believed that it is new to this vicinity.

SOUND LOGGERS ARE UNITED AND HAPPY

One of the largest loggers on the Columbia says that logs are bringing a much better price on the sound than they have for some time. The output was curtailed there. He further stated that lumber is selling higher at sound points, as the millmen curtailed their output of the rads in various sections of the country were short on stock.
