TWENTY THOUSAND ACRES REDEMEED

A Land Project Organized in the Nick of Time Which Will Greatly Add to Crook's Taxable Wealth.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.):

Pineville, Or., Aug. 18.—Twenty lection, and it is expected that when thousand more acres of Crook county's thirsty soil are to feel in the near future the productive influence of the waters of laterals are completed. which will be taken from Squaw creek to irrigate this tract of land, which lies in the vicinity of Sisters.

The selection, which embraces portions of three different townships, namely, townships 13, 14 and 15 south of ranges 19, 11 and 12, and upon which surveyors have been working for the past month, was completed the first of the week, and a special messenger detailed to carry the maps and filings to the state land board at Salem. The Initer move was made necessary owing to the fact that the provisions of the Carey act, as they apply to the arid

Carey not, as they apply to the arid lands in this state, expire on August 18, and it was not deemed advisable to incur the risk of losing out on the project through a miscarriage of the mail. The messenger left here Monday and reached Salem yesterday, one day before the law became void. It is expected that the lands embraced in the fillings will be withdrawn from entry agmetime next week.

The territory included in the appro-riation made by the Squaw Creek Irrigration made by the Squaw Creek Iffi-gration company is a level, open tract and is covered with sage brush and some juniper. The extreme eastern portion of the selections adjoins the northwest-ern portion of the Columbia Southern Irrigation company's segregation, so that a continuous stretch of land over 36 miles in length will be under irrigation when the new company's work is completed.

As soon as the maps and filings receive the approval of the state land board active construction work will begin on the canal lines.

The water to be used in reclaiming the arid tract will be taken from a main canal drawing its supply from Squaw creek and will be carried through two main lateral dilches aggregating 25

There is some waste territory in the district embraced, but this was necessarily included in order to secure the sarily included in order to secure the good land surrounding. But little difficulty, however, will be encountered in the unstinted use of water.

The appropriation is the last which will be made in this state under the provisions of the Carcy act, unless that measure should again be placed in force on the statutes at some later date.

There are quite a number of settlers already in the district, whose lands are surrounded by the appropriation, and these people will profit materially by the reclaiming of the arid district in the immediate vicinity. The unoccupied land when water is once on it will not stand vacant for a very considerable length of time, as inquiries are already being made regarding the time of disbeing made regarding the time of dis-position and terms of sale. One of the members of the company stated today that if the contracts were signed they could dispose of 10,000 acres inside of a fortnight. The fact, too, that the sefurnish abundant evidence of its productiveness, and that it adjoins the Columbia Southern's segregation, of which nearly 18,000 acres, out of their total appropriation of 27,000 acres, have been sold, makes the district one of the most desirable of the irrigated sections in the county.

The district has been widely advertised by the Deschutes Irrigation & Power company and the Columbia Southern people and it is expected that a great influx of settlers will greet the opening of the first tracts either this fall or early in the spring. furnish abundant evidence of its pro-

This main canal was constructed several years ago and already carries an abundance of water to cover the entire segregation. It also partly covers the new company's selection.

This final appropriate total or over the country companies for reclamation to purposes in Crook county. In other words, about one-twentieth part of the area of the county will soon be under process of irrigation, a fact that will make the district one of the richest in the state once the soil is turned and the state once the soil is turn

DANGEROUS ROLE IN BRIDGE.

Policeman Hoseley, for the twentieth time in the past six weeks, this morning reported a defect in the Madison street bridge at First and Hawthorne. He says several people have been injured there by being thrown from their wagons while driving past, and that despite the fact that it has been reported many times by him, the place is still allowed to go unrepaired. This morning two men were hurt there. There is a hole in the planking that catche the wheels and overturns the vehicles.
