JEFFRIES WHIPS MUNROE IN EASY FASHION—THE BROWNS SUFFER DEFEAT—80 TO 1 SHOT BEATS IRVINGTON BOOKIES—LACROSSE AND TENNIS NEWS.

Edited by J. A. HOKAN

OAKLAND DEFEATS BROWNS ONCE MORE

PORTLAND'S HEROES WERE COSTLY AND COMBATED HARD TO DIFFICULTY IN WINNING OUT—HURLEY'S AND DRENNEN'S MISPLAYS WERE FATAL.

Portland, 11 Oakland, 8.
Iberg and Steelman; Buchanan and Byrne.
Dugdale's bunch started off yesterday like winners, but before they got safely away from the post the Oaks started something themselves, and assisted by the usual up-in-the-air proceedings on the part of Bill Hurley and an error by Mory Steelman, scored three runs in the third inning and were safely in the lead thereafter. Jimmy Buchanan had everything up his sleeve and after the first inning, when a single, an error by Schiavone, a sacrifice and a long fly to Kruger allowed Campbell to score, he was invincible. Ham Iberg pitched ball that would ordinarily win, but he didn't have a chance yesterday with the support accorded him.

Lohman's team is now playing great ball. The best men on the club, who have been crippled at different times during the past six weeks, are back in the game and the Oaks now present their regular lineup. Dunleavy, Kruger, Schiavone and Franke have thoroughly recovered from their injuries and are playing the game of their lives.

Buck Franke beat out an infield hit as a starter yesterday, and was caught off first by Steelman. Buck protested to strenuously and Umpire McCarthy evidently decided that Oakland could beat Portland without his services, and promptly fired the shortstop out of the game. "Doc" Moskman was then baled into the game in place of Franke, and Pete Lohman is to be congratulated for having such a brilliant all-around player as the "hand some doctor" to call upon in cases of emergency like that of yesterday. The "doc" is slated to pitch against the locals today, and it is up to "Buck" Roach to prevent the Oaks from making it four straight.

Yesterday's game was a listless affair after the third inning, except for the pitching of Buchanan, which was brilliant at all stages. Iberg also pitched well at times, but he lacked the confidence of his opponent after his support weakened.

Jimmy Byrnes led off in the third with a single to left. Buchanan sacrificed and Moskman walked. Ganley bunted and Steelman threw to Hurley who muffed the throw and failed to pick up the sphere as quickly as he might, and Byrnes dashed for the plate, making it by an eyelash. Ganley taking second and the doctor going to third. A passed ball scored Moskman and Steelman threw badly to third in the effort to catch Ganley, who scored when he pitched to the right field. Dunleavy hit for two bases, but was forced at third and Kruger flew out to Drennen.

Oakland clinched the game in the eighth when Dunleavy hit for his second wild shot. Kruger flew out to Drennen, after which Streib singled to center and Drennen allowed the ball to roll between his under-pinning and Dunleavy and Schiavone scored, Streib going to third. Devereaux struck out for the second time and the run-getting was over.

The score follows:

PORTLAND		OAKLAND
A.	R.	A.	R.
Campbell, 1b	1	3	6
Hurley, 1b	4	1	0
Beck, 3b	4	0	0

Totals	35	1	6

CORBETT AND O'BRIEN AS THEY SIGNED ARTICLES

Jim Corbett and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien will battle before the Tuxedo club, formerly the National A. C. club of Philadelphia on the night of Wednesday, September 7. This was settled this week when the rival boxers met to consider bids for their six-round battle. The Tuxedo Athletic club made an offer of 75 per cent of the gross gate receipts. J. B. Creamer, who desired to pull off the bout in the National Baseball park, offered 80 per cent of the receipts. The fighters considered the Tuxedo club offer the better, as the club has an option on Army building, which is one of the best in Philadelphia, adapted for a boxing contest.

JEFFRIES EASILY DEFEATS MUNROE

BUTTE MINER NO MATCH FOR THE CHAMPION AND SUFFERS A TERRIBLE BEATING—BURNHAM GRANEY STOPS THE CONTEST IN SECOND ROUND.

(Journal Special Service.)
San Francisco, Aug. 27.—Jim Jeffries did to Jack Munroe exactly what the public expected in last night's battle at the Mechanics pavilion, and once more the fight fans feel that they were badly bunked, and they certainly were. It is no going too far to state that the much heralded mineer from Butte didn't have one chance in a million, unless Jeffries suffered the breaking of his two arms.

The fight didn't last two rounds, Munroe being pounded so badly after 42 seconds of the second round had passed that Referee Graneley stopped the fight and declared Jeffries the winner. The fight was a disappointment to those who expected to see Munroe make as good a showing as he was reported to have made in Butte, when he boxed Jeffries four rounds. The Butte man was never in it in the slightest, the only wonder being that he wasn't killed in the first round, having been knocked flat on the canvas four times, the gong alone saving him. He presented a pitiable sight as his seconds rushed him to his corner, blood streaming from his mouth and nose. Jeffries walked to his corner entirely unconcerned, as though nothing had happened. The crowd quickly saw that the fight couldn't last another round, so they took their revenge on the miner by hissing him for his poor showing.

The second round opened with a rush. Jeffries forced the fighting, inflicting severe punishment, pounding his opponent's face to a pulp. The miner appeared absolutely helpless and afraid. A hard right on the tip of the jaw sent him to his knees and while in that position Referee Graneley stopped the contest.

Munroe never landed a blow on the champion and the only mark Jeffries received was a slight scratch on the arm, which he got during a clinch. Munroe presented a sorry exhibition after the fight, his best friends being scarcely able to recognize him, so badly was his face swollen and disfigured.

The Fatal Rounds.
Round 1.—Jeff stepped quickly to the center and sidled around. Jeff pawed the air with his left to draw Munroe's fire. Munroe tried with left and right for the body and was short. Jeffries hooked him in the wind with the left and they clinched. Jeff was there again with the left body punch and another clinch. Munroe missed a left for the head and they clinched again. When they parted Jeff rammed a hard left to the stomach and Munroe swung a right on the ribs. They broke away from a clinch and Jeff floored Munroe with a left on the temple. The miner was up at the count of four and was met with two left hooks on the body and a rasping left on the jaw. The miner was game, but clumsy and amateurish. He slid a light left over Jeff's shoulder, just scraping the face and Jeff beat him back to the ropes with snappy half-arm lefts on body and face. Munroe backed into a corner. As he tried to come it again Jeff dropped him with a knock-out blow to the forehead and uppercut him with a stinging right on the chin as he was falling. There were cries of foul, but the punch was perfectly fair. Munroe arose wearily and was tumbled with another crushing left. The blow closed his right eye completely. He got up and lurched toward Jeff. They were clinched when the bell rang. Munroe's face was in a bad way, and his seconds busied themselves sponging off the blood. Jeff grinned in his corner.

Round 2.—Jeff came quickly to the scratch with his left arm sticking out. He drew it back to an side and Munroe lowered his head, ducked in and clinched. Jeff pushed him away and banged him on the nose with the left, bringing blood. Munroe tried to clinch again, and Jeff nearly tore his head off with a right uppercut. Then a quick fire left on the face sent Munroe to the mat. The word "loser" was stamped all over him, but he didn't try to hug the floor. He pressed his legs and raised himself. He was covered with blood, and another smash between the eyes sent him to the boards again as he rested on his side and wriggled his legs. Graneley looked toward the miner's corner as if inviting interference. No sign came from Munroe's seconds, and meanwhile the miner reached his feet and stood there wobbling. His knees were bending and he made feeble attempts to put up his guard. Jeff looked first at the referee and then at Munroe's seconds, and then tore in again. The champion used both hands the miner's body, and foot Jack doubled in two and went back to the ropes. Jeff followed.

LONG SHOT PLAYS HAVOC WITH BOOKS

WELL ARRANGED COUP OF BADLY USED AT 80 TO 1 SUCCESSFULLY CARRIED OUT TO THE DISCOMFORT OF THE BOOKIES—STORY OF THE DAY.

The long shot bends had their inning at Irvington track yesterday afternoon, when Badly Used, an 80 to 1 shot, walked home a winner from a bunch of "skates" in the first race, and mulcted the bookmakers out of a cool $4,500 chunk of coin. There were only a few of the live ones on the winner, and they kept their tip so quiet that scarcely anybody outside of the owner, W. C. Vivell, and the man who placed the money, knew that there was anything doing. Badly Used has been a consistent under for many moons, never being able to come within a furlong of the money, but his owner believed that if he started his nag often enough, some day he might get into company as bad as he himself and prance away with first honors. In this dream Vivell was right. Badly Used, according to his appellation, was properly named. After running poorly on Thursday, he was entered again yesterday, but in a poorer class of horses. When the odds opened at 80 and there were no takers, the bookies raised them to 75. When that figure was shown on the board, a prominent betting man of this city, bet $15 on him to win. Bookmaker Jones seeing the bet made called across to the bettor and said: "If you come over to my book, I will give you 80 to 1." The wise gentleman promptly said: "I'll take you for $15 across the board," and the bet was recorded. This same man then put up sufficient to make his winnings about $4,000 in solid cash. The bookies smiled, not even giving the bet a vagrant thought until the race was on. When the barrier fell Badly Used was well used and he apt away second and was in the lead by a head at the quarter. The crowd thought that his sport was only temporary, but when he still kept his lead at the half and three-quarters by a length, and maintained it into the stretch the bookies were looks that would not wear off. Down the home stretch they came. Badly Used first and being hard pressed by Our Choice. Closer and closer Tullitt forced his mount to the long shot, but in the last stride, Stewart gave Badly Used a final thrust and his good old head shot across the wire by a nose in front of Our Choice. It was a pretty finish and the crowd's breath had gone. Imagine an 80 to 1 shot winning. Vivell and his bettor were happy as a result and the bookies were correspondingly unhappy. The judges sent for the betting sheets at once, and scanned them carefully, but said nothing. Young Pepper, in the third race, was another good thing for the talent, and almost everybody had a bet on him.

PORTLAND STICKERS TIE VICTORIA TEAM

The Portland lacrosse team played an interesting match with the crack Victoria team at the Astoria regatta yesterday and the result was a draw, 2 to 2. The contest was a brilliant one, the Portland boys putting up a great game. The two teams arrived here last night and will play Sunday afternoon at Hawthorne park.

In the Victoria team they have two men playing that played here nine years ago, when Victoria and Vancouver were in Portland. The two men are George Snider and Art Beltry, the captain of the Victoria team. They also have another old lacrosse player who used to play in the Shamrocks of Montreal, but has given up the game now. His name is Thomas Hooper, president of the Victoria club. Stan Peelle, the famous Westminister lacrosse player, is also playing for Victoria and is one of the fastest men, having played for the Westminister boys four years ago when they went east and played the Shamrocks, Montreal and the National lacrosse teams, all of Montreal. The Westminister lacrosse club won all the games through the aid of the wonderful play of Stan Peelle. William Glaholm is another wonder from Nanaimo and very few can pass him. He is also a clever stick handler. The two oldest players that have been playing for the Victoria boys for years are Art Beltry, captain, and George Snider, and they both are hard men for anyone to pass. Victoria also has a goal keeper that has no equal and all the crack teams on the coast are after him. James Mellis, who has been treasurer of the Victoria lacrosse team for the last three or four years, will be playing again tomorrow for the Victoria boys. He is another eastern crack, having played for the Montreal.

With the Victoria team is the famous trainer who is known all over the world as a trainer and prize-fighter. He is Bob Foster, better known to the boys as "Tully." He is 63 years old and as quick on his feet as a cat or as any of the young boys.

The lineup for tomorrow's game will be as follows:
Portland: J. Braden, A. Beltry, goal, J. Stewart, Capt. McConnell, cover point, J. Oddy, Geo. Snider, 1st defence, T. Jennings, Jas. Mellis, 2d defence, J. Brown, R. Rosekamp, 3d defence, T. Haas, W. Glaholm, center, J. Wallace, D. Clarg, 3d home, S. Hague, J. Richmond, 2d home, F. Lawrence, T. Crocker, 1st home, W. Thurston, A. Stevens, outside home, M. McCance, Sam Peelle, inside home, Alex Smith, Field captain.

FAMOUS PLAYER TO REFEREE MATCH

Jack Lally, a famous lacrosse player from Ottawa, Canada, arrived here last evening for a few days' visit, and he will referee the Portland-Victoria match on Sunday afternoon at Hawthorne park. Lally was a star member of the Ottawa team eight years ago and won many honors on the field. Mr. Lally is the patron of the Lally lacrosse stick, which is used all over the world wherever lacrosse is played.

DIAMOND GLISTENINGS

"Handsome" Dan Lally, who is to join the local team tomorrow, was at one time one of the greatest outfielders in the country. He has been playing ball longer than Piggy Ward or George Van Halten and whether he has gone back or not we cannot say until he has played here awhile. Lally requested Fred Ely for a position last winter, but as the local outfield was already filled Ely could not use him.

Erve Beck is having a temporary batting slump which we hope he will soon shake off for his timely binges are missed by the local fans. Jimmy Buchanan and his side partner, Jimmy Byrnes, or Boyne, as Jack McCarthy calls it, worked together nicely yesterday. Buchanan had everything in the pitching line.

Billy Dunleavy distinguished himself by rapping out two two-sackers yesterday which helped offset his miff of Nadeau's liner in the second.

The Skel Roach is slated to put a crimp into the Oakland's winning streak this afternoon and Doc Moskman will oppose him.
