

CALIFORNIA IS NOW OREGON'S FIRM ALLY

Visit of Governor Pardee and Party but First Step in the Union of the Entire Coast for Great Promotion Work.

The recent visit of Governor Pardee and his distinguished party from California accomplished more than the representation desired for that state at the Lewis and Clark exposition. It is freely predicted by men influential in the commercial life of both San Francisco and Portland that from this time forth a solid front will be presented by the Pacific coast states in all matters that concern their material interests, arising at home, at Washington or abroad. Mutual help and sympathy between the states, in every effort for the development and upbuilding of this coast, will be the motto governing these men, who have found by past experience that pulling apart accomplishes nothing for them while pulling together will bring great results for the whole coast.

Coast Works as One.
In California gold and wheat have ceased to be the principal productions and the energies of the people are being thrown into many other profitable channels. Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Utah have emerged from the pastoral period and are entering upon an era of varied industry. Nevada has passed the days of silver and for the first time in her history is inviting settlers to her farm lands. Every locality is putting forth some inducement to homeseekers and investors.

In the passing of the old order of things and the beginning of the new, California and Oregon have been the first two states to come together. Upon the initiative of the Portland Commercial club a conference was held in San Francisco to lay the foundation for future work for the advancement of the coast as a whole. Then followed the organization of the Oregon Development league, which, in the near future, will widen its scope and become the Pacific Coast Development league working for all the states.

All Gains by Fair.
Since the Portland visit of the California governor and his party, the people of that state will understand more fully the fact that the Lewis and Clark fair next year will bring to the notice of the world the resources, activities and growth of the trans-Rocky mountain states, and in the results that must follow not only will Oregon be benefited, but California, Washington, Idaho and other states through which the visitors come will receive almost equal benefit, and the whole Pacific seaboard will be given a marked impetus in population, commerce and agriculture. California may easily see that she will benefit most of all, and she is now preparing to participate in the fair in a spirit befitting her importance as a great Pacific coast state. Her plans are made for the erection of a state building, for which sufficient funds are already secured, and she will bring to the exposition a collective and competitive exhibit of her vast resources. Various counties of the state are also preparing exhibits, and will co-operate with the state administration in making a splendid presentation of California's horticultural, agricultural and mineral wealth.
Governor Pardee is the first of California's long line of governors to honor

Oregon with a visit, though the two states have been in the union half a century and were commercially allied when California was a Mexican province and Oregon was American territory. In the enthusiasm over the new order of things, Sacajawea, the Indian woman who guided Lewis and Clark over the Rocky mountains 100 years ago, was remembered. Her memory was honored with a toast by the brilliant party assembled at the Arlington club. She was called the Pocahontas of the Pacific, and the announcement that a statue to her would be one of the features of the centennial exposition next year was enthusiastically received.

Governor Pardee said that "without Sacajawea Lewis and Clark and all their men must have perished in the mountain fastnesses between the gates of the Rocky mountains near Helena, Mont., and the Lemhi river; in Idaho, or turned back defeated. Death or defeat to Lewis and Clark would have lost the Oregon country comprising 308,000 square miles, the United States, for Captain Gray's discovery of the Columbia river would not within itself have been sufficient upon which to base the American claim to title in this region. Sacajawea alone, of all the expedition had been over the Rocky mountain trails. She alone knew where friendly Shoshones might be found to smoke the pipe of peace. She alone of all the savages that roamed the buffalo plains 100 hundred years ago could lead the travel-tired and hungry pathfinders to the lodge of Chief Cameawit, her brother, where they might outfit for the last stage of their journey to the Pacific ocean, to raise the American flag over the country that Captain Gray had discovered. She had borne the white man's burden in the Indian country, she was the Pocahontas of the Pacific.

Schwartz's Views.
R. P. Schwartz, the head of the Harriman water lines on the Pacific coast, declared that the statue should face toward the ocean, symbolic of Oregon as the gateway to the orient. The suggestion was cordially approved by a party which included among its members Governor Pardee of California; Governor Chamberlain of Oregon; Mayor Williams of Portland; William F. Herrin, general counsel of the Southern Pacific company; C. H. Markham, general manager of the Southern Pacific; Theodore R. Wilcox, a leader in manufacturing and industrial development in the north-western states; and others prominent in the social and commercial life of the Pacific coast. No such distinguished gathering has in the history of the west, so signally honored the memory of an Indian man or woman.

President Goods of the exposition gave positive assurance that a statue to Sacajawea would be unveiled during the world's fair next year. History is silent regarding the death of the brave but lowly Sacajawea. Her husband, Toussaint Charbonneau, to whom she was sold as a slave, was last seen on the banks of the Yellowstone river, in Montana, by Charles Larpenteur, a fur trader, in March, 1855.

A Good Gas Range

Is essential in every home. If you use a Gas Range you will have no trouble with the cooking.

THE MORE COOKING YOU HAVE TO DO THE MORE YOU'LL APPRECIATE A GAS RANGE

IT'S SO EASY TO MANAGE, ECONOMICAL, QUICK OPERATION and SAVES ALL the HEAVY WORK

Another Convenience. It's the CIRCULATING GAS WATER HEATER

It is attached to the boiler in the kitchen and heats water in a few moments. It is more economical than lighting your wood or coal stove, and ever so much cleaner and quicker.

It is very simple in construction and easy to handle—when you need hot water for the bath or other purposes, you simply light the heater a few moments and you'll have plenty of hot water. Let us show you how they operate and how inexpensive they are.

LIQUOR CRAZED GIRL FIGHTS WITH POLICE

When Ruth Osborne was arrested at First and Columbia streets late yesterday afternoon, she kept two big policemen so busy that they could not hold her and they had to call in an expressman and his wagon to get her to the central station. All the time she was in the wagon she was fighting with the policemen and the expressman. She was placed in bed and soon went to sleep.
Tomorrow she will be brought before Municipal Judge Hogue to tell how it all happened. She is the daughter of a well-to-do family and is now in the hands of the police because she was found with liquor and a razor in her possession. She is 19 years of age.

RAZOR HAIR CUT IS LATEST THING

Nothing new under the sun? Guess again!
Portland has a barber who cuts hair with a razor instead of the everyday steel shears. His name is Fred Riedel and he is former of Frank T. Rogers' shop on Alder street.
By "hair-cut" in this connection, the ordinary hair-cut, not the shaved head, is meant. Where he learned it, Riedel does not say, and the proprietor, when asked the same question, replied: "Barbers are born, not made."
When Riedel attacks a head of hair with a comb and razor his system is precisely the same as with a comb and shears, except that instead of clicking together the blades of the shears, he runs the keener blade of the razor across the surface of the comb. His argument is that a cleaner hair-cut is thus accomplished, a statement that is disputed by some tonorial artists.

"Of course, it can't be done on all heads of hair," said Riedel, "but if the right man gets into my chair I can give him 50 per cent better satisfaction by using the razor than by using the shears."
Riedel has been in Portland about 14 years and because of the novel manner of its usage, his razor has drawn about him an exceptionally large custom.

EASTERN OREGON FALLS INTO LINE

Twenty-five towns will send delegations to Baker City where Development League work will be given new impetus.
The meeting called at Baker City for Friday, September 2, at which southeastern Oregon is to be shown the advantages of the Oregon Development league, is assuming large proportions and there will be delegations from 25 cities and towns. The list of speakers and representatives from Portland has grown to formidable size. It includes President H. M. Calk of the Commercial club, Theodore B. Wilcox, chairman of the executive committee of the state league; A. L. Craig, W. W. Cotton and E. E. Calvin, passenger agent, general counsel and general manager, respectively of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company; R. M. Hall, advertising agent of the same road; Tom Richardson and others. There will also be present: President E. L. Smith of the state league and J. H. Atkin of Huntington, vice-president of the state league.
The meeting is called to interest and to organize still further eastern and southeastern Oregon in the work of the state league. The various delegations attending will give reports similar to those heard at the Portland convention. There will be three sessions, at 10 o'clock a. m., 2 o'clock p. m. and 8 o'clock p. m. A large addition to the membership of the state league is expected to result from the interest that will be aroused at these meetings. The membership of the Oregon Development league to date is as follows:

Astoria chamber of commerce, Charles Higgins, secretary; Oregon City board of trade, John Loder, secretary; Irrigon Commercial club, A. Bennett, secretary; Hillsboro board of trade, F. M. Heidel, secretary; Marshfield chamber of commerce, I. S. Kaufman, corresponding secretary; Hood River Commercial club, A. D. Moe, secretary; Harrisburg Development league, J. A. Phelps, secretary; Fairview Civic Improvement club, A. W. Stone, secretary; Portland Commercial club, Tom Richardson, manager; Independence Improvement league, G. A. Harley, secretary; The Development and Athletic club, J. M. Patterson, secretary; Greater Salem Commercial club, J. G. Graham, secretary; Dallas board of trade, J. C. Hayter, secretary; Pendleton Commercial association, A. W. Nye, secretary; The Estacada Development league, J. B. Huntington, secretary; Jefferson Development and Improvement league, W. E. Schuller, secretary; Junction City Development league, G. F. Skipworth, secretary; Ione Development league, W. P. Myers, secretary; Malheur county board of trade, Valg. Or., J. W. McCulloch, secretary; Baker City Development league, H. C. Innis, secretary; Drain Commercial club, A. T. Fetter, secretary; Prineville Citizens' Business league, M. R. Elliott, secretary.

VAGS FIND CITY REAL PARADISE

DELIGHT TO BE GUESTS OF CHIEF HUNT, WHO ENTERTAINS THEM ROYALLY—NO BOOK FINE OVER WHICH TO WORRY AND FUME WHEN ARRESTED.

No rock pile is in operation yet, and it is said that City Attorney McNary and Chief of Police Hunt are responsible for it. Although the charter specifically calls for employment of the prisoners by the chief, only four of them have been worked as "trusties" around the central station.
Municipal Judge Hogue and Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald recently gave interviews to The Journal, stating their desire for the re-establishment of the rock pile, as they declared it to be the best method of ridding the city of "hoboes" and vagrants. Mayor Williams is also on record as favoring it.
Chief of Police Hunt and City Attorney McNary, however, are positively opposed to the rock pile. Chief Hunt, it is claimed, because his predecessor originated it, and McNary because he is a supporter of the chief and his methods.
Chief Hunt did not start the rock pile formerly until long agitation forced him to do so, and City Attorney McNary lent no influence toward its operation, and said nothing when the chief later abolished it. Since that time the city has been overrun with every type of vagrant, and the police have arrested on an average of 10 each day on various charges of the vagrancy order. Each morning in the central station, the chief releases nearly all of them, because, he states, there is not sufficient room for them in the jail.
Judge Hogue declares that the vagrants would not be here if the chief and his attorney would do their duty and run the rock pile, as required by law, instead of violating the charter by permitting prisoners to wax fat in the city jail, eating three good meals a day and doing nothing but lie on their cots.

DOG EATERS FOR 1905 CENTENNIAL

MANILA MAN MAY BEING COLONY OF SAVAGE ISLANDERS TO THE EXPOSITION—SAYS CONDITIONS IN THE PHILIPPINES ARE GROWING BETTER.

S. E. De Rackin of Manila is in the city from St. Louis, where he has spent four months at the Louisiana purchase exposition. He is the publisher of two papers in the islands, one at Manila and the other in Moro province, and for two years Mr. De Rackin was staff correspondent of a New York paper in Porto Rico and established the first American newspaper at that place. From there he went to the Philippines.
"Newspapers are very similar in the islands to those of the states," he said. "There are a great many Americans and other English speaking people who want the news. Our telegraph tolls are 50 cents per word and even that price is a great reduction from what has prevailed until recently."
He called upon D. C. Freeman, secretary to President Goods of the Lewis and Clark corporation, on reaching the city and discussed the advisability of bringing to the 1905 fair a village of "dog eaters" that inhabit the provinces of Ponto Bontoc. They are the only inhabitants of the islands that have steadfastly refused the influences of Christianity. Under the Spanish rule of the islands soldiers were frequently sent into the province and at the point of bayonets compelled them to erect churches. As soon as the soldiers departed, however, the buildings were razed to the ground.
"One feature of American control that gives encouragement is the rapid growth of the schools. There are now 6,000 American schools in the islands and over a thousand American teachers. The Filipinos are very anxious to learn and the English language is rapidly supplanting the Spanish in general use. It will be the official language beginning in 1908."
"Two of our greatest products, sugar and tobacco, are practically barred from the market by an almost prohibitive tariff. Hemp is the great source of revenue now. The islands are in good condition generally and are greatly improving."

ACCUSE RACE TOUT OF STEALING A BET

Detectives Day and Wainer late yesterday afternoon placed Oliver Harrington under arrest at the Irvington race track on a warrant issued out of the municipal court on complaint of Ray Briggs. The charge is larceny from the person. The defendant is in the city jail.

Briggs, who is a prominent mining man from the new gold fields of southern Oregon and one of the discoverers of the rich ores there, says that he and his brother William were robbed by Harrington, who is said to be a tout, and follows the races.
Briggs alleges that he and his brother went to the races Friday and desired to place some money, but hardly knew which horse to bet on. They chanced to meet the tout, they state, who said that for $5 he would "put them wise." They say they produced a $10 gold piece, which, they say, he grabbed and dashed away in the crowd.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL GREET SHAW

The Commercial club is sending out nearly 1,200 invitations to the prominent citizens of Portland who are asked to attend an informal reception next Tuesday evening in honor of the secretary of the United States treasury, Leslie M. Shaw of Iowa. The function will be held at the Commercial club parlors from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock, and will be entirely informal.
"This reception is given on behalf of the industrial and commercial interests of Portland, and has no connection of bearing upon Mr. Shaw's political misadventure here," said President H. M. Calk of the Commercial club. "Politics is strictly tabooed in this organization, and its motive in giving the reception is to honor the secretary of the treasury and make him acquainted with our citizens."
Why He Called.
Miss Bragg—Mr. Hanson called to see me last Tuesday evening.
Miss Snappe—Yes, I told him you wouldn't be home that evening.

MASTER PLUMBERS WILL FIGHT STRIKE

Master plumbers of the city are preparing to organize for the purpose of fighting the strike that was inaugurated two weeks ago by the journeymen plumbers. The journeymen went on strike because of the refusal of proprietors to discharge all but one apprentice.
There are a dozen journeymen on strike and fears were entertained for a time that other branches of the trade would be affected. Up to this time, however, they are the only ones to go on strike.
A meeting will probably be held Tuesday, when the master plumbers' organization will be perfected.
