AT THE THEATRES

"THE BEAUTIFUL COLUMBIAN." To jump into popularity in three days in the fortunate lot of the Columbia theatre. To receive the apt title "The Beautiful Columbian" from the patrons is an indication that the theatre company of Portland appreciate the efforts of Managers Welch, not only to give them a cozy, comfortable theatre, but also to provide sumptuous decorations that delight the eye, so that the play and the theatre are both harmonious. To see "Captain Lettarblair" at the Columbia is to witness a delightful comedy by a brilliant writer, performed by a company of the first rank and staged by a past master of that difficult art. Manager Welch has built a beautiful theatre. Marguerite Merrington has written a delightful play. Stage Director Bernard has entrusted his company with rare talent. The Columbia Stock company, headed by Miss Counties and Mr. Baume, have brought out its delectable comedy and more intense dramatic situations. But it is for a grateful public to place upon the theatre and the company the stamp of its approval. Capacity houses every night tell the story.

"DR. JERKYL AND MR. HYDE." James Keane is nightly repeating his success at Cordray's theatre in the interpretation of the difficult double role of "Dr. Jerkyl and Mr. Hyde." It requires genius of the highest order to successfully portray two characters each so entirely different from the other. Mr. Keane makes the change from the good and benevolent Dr. Jerkyl to the evil and brutal Mr. Hyde in the space of a second in full view of the audience. It arouses the utmost enthusiasm on the part of the audience. The same play will be given for the remainder of the week with the Saturday matinee.

MUSICAL ACTS IN FRONT. Musical acts of much merit dominate the bill at the Arcade theatre this week. Petronelle D'Arville, a violinist of real genius, plays some new and some of the ever-trying kind, and has a large part in making the whole show the undeniable success that it is. Lloyd Spencer sings a most amusing and ridiculous parody on "Hiawatha," while Stainie and Hyde are the stars in a sketch entitled "The Author and the Housemaid." The program once more demonstrates the Arcade's high regard for merit and novelty.

"LA TOGA" AT THE BAKER. Bardou's Mantini, intensely interesting drama, "La Toga," is being presented by Melbourne MacDowell, supported by Charlotte Deane and a most excellent company at the Baker all this week. It has been a long time since that great Bardou play has been seen in Portland, and never before at popular prices. The production is complete and the scenery and settings perfect. There will be the usual Saturday matinee.

"GILMOR" WHICH WILL OPEN SUNDAY afternoon at the Baker, will begin the third week of Melbourne MacDowell in the great Bardou repertoire. This magnificent drama has been counted as being the most pretentious and elaborate of all the Bardou productions, and requires an immense number of people on the stage, together with heavy effects and gorgeous scenery. It will run all next week.

STARS' CLEVER BELL. Three tortuous, tilting trippers, the Keloy Sisters, get a goodly share of the applause this week at the Star theatre, near the city hall. The sisters are dancing and singing soubrettes whose rapid changes of wardrobe, pretty stunts and charming songs make their act a hit from start to finish. Rene Smith is a black-face comedian who succeeds in convulsing his audience, and the whole program is entertaining in every spot of it.

GREYER PERSONAL. H. C. Wortman, of Olds, Wortman & King, leaves today for southern Oregon on a hunting and fishing trip. W. C. Beacrest, general agent of the New York Central in Portland, departed this afternoon for a visit of several days on business to Vancouver, B. C. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mrs. Cox of La Grande is a guest of the Perkins today. C. Allen of Castle Rock, Wash., was a morning arrival at the Belvedere. Mrs. Cox of La Grande is a guest of the Perkins today. A party of tourists from Arkansas is registered at the Perkins today. The party is composed of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Conner, Miss Lillian Conner, Mrs. C. C. Conner, Mrs. C. C. Conner and Mrs. T. C. Cryer and Miss Lillian Cryer of Little Rock. E. B. Elliott of Chehalis is stopping at the Imperial. Mrs. W. Woodcock of Walla Walla is the guest today of the Imperial. DATES ARE SET FOR IMPORTANT CASES
SEPTENNARY COURT SESSION WILL BRING MANY CRIMINAL CASES TO TRIAL IN CIVIL SECTION
LATE IS LONG ONE AND SEVERAL CASES ARE ALREADY SET.

Monday was a busy day in the circuit court. Department No. 1 was crowded all forenoon with lawyers, handling ex parte matters and arranging with Presiding Judge Olson as to the dates on which civil cases should be placed on the trial calendar. The court announced that the jury would probably be called back on October 17.

Deputy District Attorney Mosser and Adams were present to have dates set for various criminal cases. The case of Tom Smith, on appeal from the lower court, was passed. Mr. Adams said he had been informed that Charles Morrison, a young man charged with larceny, had been paroled by one of the circuit judges. Judge George concluded to take no action relative to Morrison until the date of his case has been definitely established. Other cases were set for trial as follows:
G. W. Morek, charged with larceny from a dwelling, September 17; Harry Thomas, same offense, September 14; Charles Mosher and Fred Wilson, burglary, September 15; Edmund Creffield, statutory offense, September 16; Kinji Ohama, criminal libel, September 19; Nudelman, Wallace and Rykus, larceny, September 23.

Two days were allowed for the Ohama libel case, the district attorney's representatives saying they believe only one day will be required in which to try any of the other charges. Creffield is the only man who will not be represented by an attorney. He says the Lord will defend him.
Some of the more important civil cases were announced for a hearing. Many of them will be heard by Juries. All the equity cases are to be heard by the court. The suit of residents of Mt. Tabor for the removal of the institutions of the Sanitarium company on the grounds that they constitute a private nuisance will be heard by the court October 10, Attorney Platt saying a week will probably be required to dispose of the case.

Other important civil suits were set for hearings on the following dates: John Ditchburn vs. Richard Nixon, action for damages, September 12, the day court opens; J. T. Goss vs. the Northern Pacific Railway company, action for damages, September 15; Alvin Knapp vs. the Oregon Water Power & Railway company, damage suit, September 20.
The suit of Minnie Van Houten for a divorce from David G. Van Houten, the slayer of Albert Young, will be heard September 23.

Columbia Theatre
Every audience is delighted with the Columbia Theatre.
Columbia Theatre was comfortably filled Tuesday night, and, as at the three previous performances, the audience went away delighted.
In no other city in the United States can the public get such a handsome theatre, such solid comfort, hear such good music and witness a $2 show at such low prices.
People who have witnessed Mr. E. H. Sothorn's production of "Captain Lettarblair" are unanimous in their opinion that the Columbia production is equal if not superior to that of America's foremost star.
The setting of the last act has caused more general comment than any stage picture seen in Portland for years. The high standard of plays will be kept up the entire season.
The stage director, "Will" Bernard, who so flawlessly produced "Captain Lettarblair," assures us that his production of "Lord and Lady Algy," the coming week, will be just as perfect in detail as the present attraction.
Mr. Welch has just received manuscripts and parts for his repertoire for the first 10 weeks.
Among the plays selected and which will be produced in that time are the following New York successes, and Portland may consider itself very fortunate in having an opportunity to witness such plays as "Lord and Lady Algy," "Mrs. Jack," Blanche Bates' production of "Under Two Flags," "The Magistrate," "The Masked Ball," "The Only Way," "The Fatal Card," "The Bells of Huzelmers," "The Wilderness," "An American Citizen" and "Lovers Lane."
