Lady Aley, capricious, full of as high spirit as a thoroughbred filly, lovable, daring, at the same time loyal. And yet these two have decided "to go it alone"--but the pleasure of the audience should not be spolled by dimecting the plot. "Lord and Lady Aley" was first pro-duced at the Empire theatre, New York, under the direction of Charles Frohman. It made a brilliant success and won fame for William Faversham and Miss Millward. The latter who was formerly leading lady for Sir Henry Irving made her first appearance in America as Lady Algy. The play will be staged with the same care that made it's brilliant New. York success. same care that made it a brilliant New York success. Frank King has painted new scenery for the production. The ballroom scene in the second act is one of the most gorgeous over seen on a Fortland stage. It introduces five new members of the company, Miss Edith Angus, the juvenile woman; Miss Marion Barhyte, the second ingenie; George Berrell of New York, the stage manager; W. Kenney and Mr. Grassby. The members of the company are dressed for a fancy dress ball. Mr. Baume as the Duke of Marhborough; Mr. Bioomquest as the Young Pretender; Mr. Bernard as Sir Charles Surface; Mr. Dills as Claude Duval; Miss Angus as Madame Du Barry; Miss Barhyte as Peg Woffington, and Mra Bernard as Little Bo-peep. Mr. Dills as Brabason Tudway has a mirthful character part, one of the best that be has over taken. Mn. Bernard as the Marguis of Quarm-by contributas the villiany. ductions, and he has been most laviable in expenditure in order to give his melodrama an adequate presentation. The motive of "On the Bridge at Midmight" is based upon the long and arduous search of a blind mother for he for lost child who has been stolen away from her in early life by a cruel scoundrel. Though the story has its serious purpose and is full of human interest, it is brightened by much genuine comedy and is full of thrilling situations and startling climares. The of the scenes represents the sreat river at Chicago in the mooning of a jack knite bridge in full action, opening to allow the passage of a large lake steamer in full view of the audience. One of the principal content of the principal parts, those of Germany, the humorous but brave professor, and Reddy, the bootblack, who turns out to be the long lost child, are in the hands of players of established reputation and their work is clever and intrin and tears. he produces are a revelation to those who have heard him. Stanley and Scanlon are to appear in a musical act that will certainly make a hit. An original conception in comedy by two clever vaudevillians is booked under the name of "Bold Mr. Timid." This act will be presented by Le Witt and Ashmore. Hasel Ashmore, who takes a leading part in this screaming farcical absurdity, is known to the pro-fession as the "girl with the real voice." A petite southrette, who, besides being small, is dainty, charming and attract-ive, will be presented in the person of Miss Flo Russell. An act which will make a close bid for the laureis will be the performance of La Kolas, the American Japs. To those who do not believe it is possible for Americans to rival the marvelous dexterity of oriental acrobats and jug-siers this act is cordially recommended. Will C. Hoyt will sing a new illustrat-ed ballad, and the pictures of the bio-scope next week will prove of sizes-tional interest. BAUXIFUS "GIRMONDA." collie in most instances. Where an old trained dog is used to help educate the youngster, it will do to have two to-gether, but I have found by experience that it is better to have them work adone, as the young dog will sometimes at the old one excited and bothered. The duties of the collie are practical and mean business; companionship means play and is demoralising. It is not advisable to have him run with hunting-dogs, as he is inclined to take up gith their ways and is very initative. He quickly goes wild over game when led by a hunting dog, consequently neg-lects his matural for the shepherd dog to herd or drive animals and he is not antified unless he has something to do if he does wrong do not whip him, but have patience with him, and when he understands what you want will be pleased to do it, and when he once learns to do anything he never forgets it. There are other breeds of today that could be made useful on the farm by training and put to work. The light weight buil terrier is very bidable if ed-ucated. The Scotch terrier is very useful, he only lacks size. Almost any dog can be taught something and made useful, but the collie beats them all.

den of a tiger and Gismonda swaars on the cross that she will marry any one who will save the youth. Almeric, a falcener, leaps into the den and rescues the boy at the peril of his own life. When dismonda sees that the rescue has been effected by a man of low birth she wishes to be released from her promise, Almeric refuses gold and position to re-linguish his claim and is then thrown into confinement. While there Zeccaris decides to murder him but is prevented by Gismonda, who brains the' con-spirator. Almeric is accused of this orime and does not deny it in order to save Gismonda from disgrace. Beeing his willingness to shield her, Gismonda repents and asks him publicly to marry her. And thus the play ends in a pleas-ant mood. The incidental music used in "Gis-monds" was written especially for the play by the famous composer. Verdi. "by itself is sufficient to interest all music-lovers.
