FORK RAPIDLY MEARING COMPLE-TION AND PUPILS AT PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL NOT BE INTER-PERED WITH FOR ANY GREAT

Preparations are being made at the Ladd school for moving from the portable rooms into the main building as soon as the heating and ventilating apparatus is completed. It is expected that this work will begin Friday or Saturday and will be finished by Monday or Tuesday, so that the regular recitations will be interfered with as little as possible. Everybody concerned is very anxious for the change. While the portables have been very good substitute class rooms, they are not nearly as convenient as the new rooms will be. It is also expected that work in the Brookiyn school building will be resumed Monday, for the building is nearly completed. It will be ready for reception of the pupils at an early date. Work at the high school is progressing satisfactorily. The pupils have settled into the regular routine and have almost forgotten the enforced vacation. Attendance at the Clinton Kelly school is increasing. It is expected that a greater number of pupils will attend this school this fall than ever before. Work on the Atkinson school is being rushed by every contractor. Superintendent Rigier and the principal of the school visit the building nearly every day to rush the work.

United States, as she did last night at the Columbia theatre, the remark carries some weight.

Miss Eytinge is known all over the globe as a famous actress who has spent her life on the stage, and certainly she is competent to judge of a company and of a performance. She says that the Columbia theatre, as to appointments, stage equipment and general completeness, compares favorably with the very best theatres in America, and that the Columbia stock company is the best one she knows of in this country.

No wonder the people are flocking to the Columbia. The attractions there at the low prices are considerably better than Portland has ever had before. The intensely interesting play this week (Boucicault's "The Jilt") is one of the cleverest and most entertaining plays ever put upon the stage. It is the best play the great Boucicault ever wrote. The horse-racing scene, the singing, the individual hits of every member of the company, the sparkle of the dialogue, the brisk action—the play is full to overflowing with bewitching entertainment. It runs all the week, including Saturday matinee and evening.

trayed by no less famous a player than E. M. Holland. The latter has a very strong and striking role in Captain Bedford, the detective. Clara Blandick, handsome and gifted, is Mr. Bellewis leading woman. Stanton Elliott, Frank McCormick, Hattle Russell, Olive Wyndham and Beverly Sitgresves are well fitted with important parts.

THE SIGN OF THE POUR." The forthcoming engagement of "The Sign of the Four," which appears at the Baker theatre for one week, starting with the matinee next Sunday, is manifesting considerable interest. The dramatist has revised the story and has made more out of it than a mere detective adventure. He has written in a love story and has introduced some charming comedy. As a play, "The Sign of the Four" rushes along with a closely knit plot, not only untangling the skela of criminal clews, but also rolling up a double skein of love affairs. Doing this, thrilling stage pictures shift rapidly. The characters are picturesque.

If one has a fondness for dectective stories, he can do no better than go and surrender his entire admiration for Sherlock Holmes. The spectator learns not only to marvel at the cunning of the not only to marvel at the cunning of the character, but to worship him as a mag-netic hero. True S. James assumes the character of Sherlock Holmes.

Tonight will be an event of great importance at the Baker theatrs, where the City Press club will have their annual benefit. It is seldom that a star like Melbourne MacDowell can be induced to give benefit performances. The news gatherers have been very energetic among their friends, and the result is that a crowded house will reward their efforts. Mr. MacDowell will close his engagement of five weeks with the Baturday matines. There will be no performance on Saturday night, as he will leave for Spokane on his northwest tour.

To go to the Bijou this week means a hearty good laugh for the average man and woman. A good laugh is worth a lot in gold. Hagen and Hagen have the most ludicrous little German turn in town. It's new and novel, too. For the Irish, and most other nationalities, Ward and Ward present a comedy skit that is chock full of meriment. Four other acts, each sensational or amusing, complete the bill. To every child who attends the Saturday matinee will be given a box of candy. BIJOU MERRYMAKERS.

"A Romance of Coon Hollow," which comes to Cordray's theatre next Sunday for a half week's engagement, is a popular southern comedy drama. It has funny scenes galore. Some of the strongest heart interest ever put into a play. The characters are quaint but true to the atmosphere in which they are placed. There is a fine sextet troupe of pickantinnie singers and dancers that furnish the excellent specialties of "Coon Hollow."

PRETTY PARM TARD SCENE. The second act of "The Hills of California," now running at Cordray's theatre, though only a picture of a simple little farm home scene, is one of the features of the play on account of its homely surroundings, quaint and lovable characters. Frank Bacon and his excellent company are giving the patrons more than good value this week. The play runs until Saturday night, with the usual Saturday matines.

Harry Paulton's clever farce-bomedy.
"Niobe" (all smiles), wherein Cathrine Countiss appears as a statue that comes to life and descends from its pedestal, will be the bill for next week, beginning Sunday matinee, October 2, at the Columbia theatre. It is founded on the story of Pygmalion and Galatea.

BREAKS HIS NECK

Charles W. Rosenau, aged 52, was instantly killed on the Oregon Railway & Navigation company's docks at Albina by failing from a trestie onto a pile of rocks, 20 feet below, breaking his neck. The accident occurred at 3:30 this morning. Rosenau was helping unload a freight car and had gone around it to open the far door. The board walk between two tresties, upon which the man doing this work usually stands, was out of repair and some planks had been taken up, which made it difficult for Rosenau to obtain a safe footing. While prying the car door, in some way the man lost his balance and fell into the open space between the tresties. Death man lost his balance and fell into the open space between the tresties. Death was instantaneous.

Rosenau has been in the employ of the company as a laborer for 15 years. He lived at No. 307 Falling street, was a widower and leaves nine children, three of whom are under age. The body was removed to the Finley undertakiestablishment. Deputy Coroner A. L. Finley decided that no inquest was neccessary.

BUFFALO ALDERMEN HELD FOR BOODLING

(Journal Special Service.)

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Seven of the present and former aldermen were arraigned before Justice Kenefick at 10 o'clock this morning, charged with bribery. They are Henry Moest, J. Thomas, Harry Orrin, E. Pittice, present aldermen, and Edward C. Beiser, Louis G. Roedels, Henry G. Schneider and John G. Busch, former aldermen.

All pleaded not guilty and ball was fixed at $1.500 in each case. The courtroom was crowded, and all the indicted men were represented by counsel. All are Republicane and claim they are innocent and that the action is part of a plot to aid the Democrats in the state and national election. It is reported this morning, however, that two aldermen made confessions before the grand jury and are immune from prosecution.

Chairman Peasley of the Washington state commission to the Lewis and Clark exposition arrived in the city this morning, and after a short visit with President Goode started for the fair grounds. He carefully inspected the work going on and expressed himself as well pleased with the progress made. Washington, he says, has lost none of her enthusiasm and will aim to make the exhibit of that state the greatest of all.
