

"When the Harvest Days Are Over, Jessie Dear"—Then Comes the Brownsville Woolen Mill's Store's Grand Harvest Sale

LIKE A BOLT FROM THE BLUE, OR A CLAP OF THUNDER FROM A CLOUDLESS SKY, COMES THE FOLLOWING EXTRAORDINARY ANNOUNCEMENT: THE BROWNSVILLE WOOLEN MILLS ANNUAL HARVEST SALE. We have come to the conclusion that it is the part of wisdom, based on sound business policy, to throw our entire new fall and winter stocks on the market at prices so far below the actual value of such splendid qualities and superb styles in men's and boys' wearables that the retail records of this country show no parallel to the wholesale and sweeping reductions of which this advertisement tells. All pre-conceived notions of modern storekeeping will be upset by the deluge of bargains with which we propose to flood this city and state. This is a most unusual—unlooked for—the leading designers and manufacturers of this—or any other country—at prices never before named—at the commencement of a season—by any solvent mercantile concern in the union. It is not so much a question with us of how heavy the loss will be—but how quickly we can unload the clothing that we have made from the entire output of cloth from the Brownsville Woolen Mills.

The Art of Well Dressing

WAVING DEMOCRACY'S BANNER IN OREGON

State Central Committee Marshalling Its Forces and Mapping Out Plan for Rousing Campaign—Every Corner of State to Be Covered.

Oregon's state party committee of the Democratic party will marshal its forces and strike its first blow October 15. Workers will be sent throughout the state and for three weeks the hills and dales of Oregon will resound with chants for Parker and Davis.

The candidates for presidential electors will take to the stump. W. B. Dillard will go into eastern Oregon. T. H. Crawford to southern Oregon and J. A. Jeffrey to central and middle Oregon and Astoria and the Columbia river district. Many others will go into the field and local campaigners will work in every county.

Alex Sweek, chairman of the state central committee, will forsake his private office next Monday and will be found with a large corps of assistants at the Democratic headquarters in the Scott hotel directing the campaign. He is in constant communication with the Democratic forces of the east. Yesterday a letter from the national headquarters stated that a speaker of national reputation will be sent to Oregon to assist in conducting the campaign. William J. Bryan was asked to come, but he is in greater demand than any other speaker and is kept busy in Indiana, West Virginia and New York. In all probability the speaker will be Senator Bailey of Texas, whose fiery tongue has electrified the members of the United States senate in many debates.

Reports from national headquarters yesterday were to the effect that New York, West Virginia and Indiana are considered Democratic. The party is now making a hard fight in New Jersey and Connecticut. The advice also state that Illinois and Wisconsin are good fighting ground and that Montana, Colorado and Nevada are conceded to the Democrats. They hope also to carry Utah.

There will be a grand rally in this county to be held during the latter part of the campaign. The Multnomah club has taken the initiative and has appointed a committee to confer with the campaign committee of other Democratic clubs in this city for the purpose of field to the Sound cities, are declared off, and there is a new deal all around. In Pacific northwest transportation affairs.

Great Possibilities Now.

The estimate for expenditures on more than one line in the Pacific northwest for next year will contain budgets for extensive enlargement, and with the steady improvement of Portland's harbor facilities, and the deepening of the jetties that is now going on at the mouth of the Columbia, there is no limit to the possibilities of this city as a railroad terminal and a port for the largest steamships. It is not reasonable to assume that Messrs. Hill and Morgan are going to rest under the disadvantage at which they are placed by the settlement of the merger case. They are almost certain to reach out for new territory, and Portland will be the first place they will turn to. The best posted railroad men say that they will be practically forced to come into Portland territory, which every year offers stronger attractions to railway enterprise and capital.

Settlement Helps Portland.

Portland men think that this city's position has been much improved by the final settlement of the Northern Securities merger and the distribution of the lines as reported in The Journal, by which the Union Pacific or Harriman interests take the Burlington, the Gould and Rockefeller crowd get the Northern Pacific, Messrs. Hill and Morgan retain the Great Northern and the Santa Fe makes an alliance with the Harriman roads.

Ever since J. J. Hill's attempted coup organizing the Northern Securities company, by which he proposed to check the development of the Northern Pacific and the Burlington, and entrench the Great Northern as the dominant power in Pacific Northwest traffic, observant Portlanders have been on the anxious seat, for it was not believed that Mr. Hill's plans for steamship and railway exploitation embraced any considerable measure of development for Portland territory.

In the dissolution of the merger and the appearance of the Milwaukee road as an immediate factor in transcontinental business, Portland will undoubtedly be the gainer. And what is equally important, the entire Pacific northwest will have a decided advance in Pacific coast development. A glance at the railway map shows good reasons for this view of the situation.

Northwest Advantages.

Four distinct groups of capital are now interested in railway enterprises in the Pacific northwest, their control being distributed over six great transcontinental lines—the Northern Pacific and Burlington, the Union Pacific and O. R. & N., the Great Northern, the Canadian Pacific, and the rapidly building Grand Trunk Pacific. The last-named road is considered to be an important factor in the situation for the reason that no matter where its Pacific terminus may be it will provide for trackage facilities in Portland and maintain an office here. As against this array of agencies for development of the Pacific northwest, there are only the Southern Pacific, the Santa Fe and the Union Pacific lines connecting the east with San Francisco and the southwest. It is easy to predict which section will develop most rapidly during the next decade.

While there is a measure of co-operation between the Rockefeller-Gould and the Harriman groups, their interests are far from being identical, and some lively work may be expected in the

WANTS IMMIGRANTS SENT TO THE WEST

(Journal Special Service.)

Washington, Oct. 7.—One of the most important recommendations to congress in the coming session will be included in the report of the commissioner of immigration. It has long been the belief of the government that immigrants landing in the great ports of this country, particularly New York, should be encouraged to make their way west and south, instead of remaining in the larger cities.

The west he says needs immigrants to
