

100,000 ACRES OF IDAHO LAND OPEN

IDAHO COUNTY'S RICH AREAS NOW READY FOR PUBLIC ENTRY AND SETTLEMENT—OTHER AREAS WILL BE OPENED WITHIN SHORT TIME.

(Journal Special Service.)
Boise, Idaho, Oct. 20.—One hundred thousand acres of public lands in southern Idaho were opened for public entry by the state land board. The land is on the south side of the Snake river, in Cassia county, and embraces some of the richest and most productive lands in the state. The water for irrigating the lands is derived from the Snake river and is provided in a sufficient abundance to cover the entire tract in one foot of water a month, which is nearly twice as much as will be needed.

all along the way into laterals that reach every part of the vast tract.
The entire area of lands under the canal is 371,000 acres. Forty thousand acres have been opened and taken up by settlers. Owing to the demand for the lands opened up today it is probable that the state board will decide upon an early date for opening the remainder of the tract irrigated by the canal.
The irrigation scheme is the largest ever carried to successful conclusion in America. The cost of the dam and canals amounted to 3,500,000. The climate is very mild in winter and is adapted to the raising of all kinds of grain, vegetables and fruits that may be raised in the northern states.
The cost of the land under this canal is 50 cents an acre to the state and 25 cents an acre for the perpetual water right. The payments may be made as follows: Twenty-five cents an acre to the state on making application and 25 cents an acre for the first two seasons. The second payment of 25 cents an acre to the state may be made at any time within three years upon taking title to the land. The subsequent payments for the water right are the same as commonly paid for annual rentals in other districts, namely $2 per acre at the end of the second season and each following year to the eighth year when there will be two annual payments of $4 each and a final payment of $4. Improved lands in the irrigated districts of Idaho, in the Payette, Boise and Snake river valleys are selling for from $100 to $250 an acre, although they were agricultural deserts five or six years ago.
The only clearing required on the land is the removal of the sagebrush which can be easily done for $2 to $3 per acre with a cutter that is drawn along about two inches below the surface of the soil. The land may then be irrigated, plowed and sown to alfalfa, a quick, money crop.

LOUISIGNOT GUILTY OF HORSE STEALING

Edmund Louisignot appeared before Presiding Judge George in the circuit court this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny by bailment. He is accused of stealing a horse, buggy and harness belonging to Frazier & McLean, valued at $225. After selling them near Hillsboro, he is alleged, he went to Astoria, where he was arrested by request of Sheriff Word and returned to Portland.
He made a plea of leniency, informing the court that it is his first offense, and that he has a wife and dependent family. District Attorney Moser informed the court that Louisignot is suspected of stealing two other horses, and that it is believed a prior conviction rests against him. Pending investigation, sentence was postponed by the court until tomorrow afternoon.

SPOKANE PROMOTER VISITS PORTLAND

Charles Sweeney, the Spokane capitalist who recently purchased the Dekum block and Washington streets, and the Dekum home, at Twelfth and Morrison streets, arrived in Portland this afternoon from New York, where he had been on business connected with the building of the big hotel, which he has under consideration for Portland.
Mr. Sweeney said that nothing definite concerning this new hotel could be said at present, as he had not had time since arriving in the city to look over the situation or give the matter any direct attention, but expected to do so before leaving. The plans concerning the new hotel were not ready for publication. Mr. Sweeney expects to remain here for a few days on this business.

"NOT GUILTY," IS TO BE GAMBLERS' PLEA

In the circuit court this morning Presiding Judge George overruled the demurrers to informations charging Eugene Blasler, August Erickson, Fred Fritz, Peter Grant and A. Shapiro with gambling.
Action at this time was taken by the court on motion of Deputy District Attorney Moser. Following the decision of the court, Attorney S. C. Spencer entered a plea of not guilty for all the defendants.
The trial of these cases has not been set, but will take place during the November term of court, for which jurors are to be impaneled this afternoon. Previous cases against these and other defendants have been set down for the November term already, the first being the trial of Peter Grant, set for November 7.

FAIR NAMES ARE NOT EXCLUSIVE

In a legal opinion given by their attorneys, the Lewis and Clark fair officials have been advised that they cannot prevent the use of the words "Lewis and Clark" or the figures "1905" by merchants and other people in general. The attorneys hold that there is no law in Oregon to protect such a trade label, and the only interest which the fair corporation has in the words and figures is in holding an exposition. They could prevent any other concern from attempting to hold a fair under that name or their symbols. If copyrighted they would be exclusive, otherwise the name and figures are common property and may be appropriated by any person who desires to use them.

POLICEMEN BALK AT NEW "SHIELD" ORDER

Rebellion has broken out in the ranks of the policemen because of a rumor to the effect that shields have been ordered, and that they are to replace the stars now worn by patrolmen.
Some new police paraphernalia is to be ordered, among the items being clubs and belts, and it is said, the shields. The clubs and belts have not caused much gossip, but the shields have raised a storm of protest. The Salvation Army, the Pinkerton agents and many others wear shields such as are to be ordered for the police, and it is upon this ground, largely, that objection is made.
