

MORE TROUBLE FOR OFFICER JOHNSON

PROSECUTOR ALEXANDER DE-CLARES HE WILL PERSIST IN CHARGES AGAINST POLICEMAN—JOHNSON SAYS VISIT TO CAFE AND DRINKS EVER BEING THERE.

If John Alexander carries out the intention he announced last night, additional charges will be preferred against Policeman Johnson today for insulting two women and attempting to drag them out of his establishment to the city prison. Mr. Alexander says that while it may not be necessary, he can produce an employee of the Meier & Frank company to testify to the truth of the charges, in addition to himself and the two women.

"After carefully considering the matter I have decided to prefer charges against this man with Chief Hunt," said Mr. Alexander. "At first, while very angry, I was inclined not to do so. In the first place I thought that on account of the trouble following Johnson's arrest and his behavior at the police station he would be taught a salutary lesson. But it seems otherwise. Not only did the man have the effrontery after practically disguising himself to come in here and tell me I did not know him and had never seen him before, but I understand he has made threats of what he will do to me in case he remains on the police force. He threatened me the night I ejected him from my place, but I regarded that as only the muzzling of a drunken man. This is different.

"Johnson came in here Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a friend. He had a long overcoat and a white hat. He was no overcoat and wore a dark slouch hat Saturday night when he insulted the women. Walking up to the bar in the afternoon he purchased a glass or two of beer and then asked me if I knew him. I told him his face could not be easily forgotten after his performance Saturday night.

"He declared I had never seen him before. I told him I would know his face in a thousand and that his voice could not soon be forgotten. Then he left here, and I understand has since threatened to carry it to the courts under the circumstances to let Chief Hunt know what he has done."

FREIGHT CAR FAMINE AFFLICTS NORTHWEST

heavy shipments have been anticipated. The salmon catch has been up to the average and hundreds of cars will be required to carry it to eastern markets. Oregon apples always form a considerable part of the eastern shipments and the crop is a good one. There is a shortage in the prunes crop and the potato crop, but any diminution in the shipments of these commodities is offset by increased shipments of other products.

Even without the extraordinary demand for Oregon wheat, there would probably be some shortage of cars at this season. With that demand, the situation has become most serious. Ordinarily west bound shipments are only about one fourth of the east bound traffic, and cars sent east are from six to eight weeks in returning. Under existing conditions, when the volume of east bound traffic so far exceeds that of the west bound, the delay is apt to be even more serious.

"The railroads are up against a proposition that they have never encountered before," said David A. Pattullo, manager of the grain department of the commission firm of Balfour, Guthrie & Co. "It is a situation in which they are unprepared and consequently a great shortage of cars has arisen.

"We don't blame the railroads, for we believe they are doing the best they can, but there certainly ought to be a sufficiency of cars when they are needed. The farmers and growers of the wheat will not lose as heavily as will those who have purchased the crops. The crop represents something like $1,500,000 and insurance on most of it will be six months or more, likely before the grain can be shipped.

"It is estimated that there are 10,000,000 bushels of wheat in Oregon and Washington that are waiting shipment. Hitherto most of the wheat has been exported by boats, but the shortage of wheat in this country has put our home market on a high plane. The port of Liverpool and consequently wheat from this section is being sent east to supply the home demand."

PARKER RECEIVES A COUNTRY DELEGATION

Esopus, Oct. 23.—A delegation of farmers and merchants from Orange and Rockland counties came by boat to Rosemont this afternoon to see Parker. The nominee shook hands with the visitors and made a short speech. State Senator Knox reiterated his charge that the trusts were the heaviest contributors to the Republican campaign funds. He said that he believed the present laws were adequate to deal with illegal combinations and if he were elected would find out they were not, he would seek the enactment of better ones.

Referring to Governor Wright's report on the Philippines, Parker questioned his motives as one partly responsible for the present unfortunate conditions. He criticized the action of the government in spending money in cable tolls on Wright's message a political business and not government business.

PORT ARTHUR IS IN DIRE STRAITS

Arthur. He succeeded in surmounting the crossboom, but when he was preparing to discharge his torpedo against the side of a battleship a searchlight swept round and fixed upon him. The forts then opened fire and exploded the torpedo and the officer was blown to pieces. Admiral Togo, it is said, has declined to sanction any similar daring enterprises.

PRESIDENT TURNS DEAF EAR TO TYNER

Washington, Oct. 23.—The president this afternoon sent a reply to the letter received this morning from General Tyner. The president says that he is unable to right any wrong in the matter because he considers no wrong has been done Tyner. He says "the question of your guilt on a criminal charge on which you were tried having been passed upon by a jury, the president acquiesces in its finding, but the evidence seems to be overwhelming that you were guilty, either of moral obliquity in the performance, or of the grossest inefficiency."

ALLANTON AND CALCHAS RELEASED

Vladivostok, Oct. 23.—The British steamers Allanton and Calchas have been released. A deposit of $300,000 was made in the case of the Calchas, whose trial comes up on appeal at St. Petersburg shortly.

SELF-PROPELLED CAR

From Harper's Weekly. In England the self-propelled railway car is coming into extensive use. Essentially no branches of the car and traffic is so small as not to warrant the operation of steam locomotives or the application of electricity. Recently one of the largest electrical manufacturing firms in America has ordered in England an oil engine for this purpose, which will be used with a dynamo to generate current for ordinary car motors. The advantage of such an installation is that there is no loss of fuel when the car is not in motion and that the motor can be put into operation at an instant's notice.

SALEM MARKSMEN MAKE HIGH SCORE

SALEM MARKSMEN MAKE HIGH SCORE. (Journal Special Service.) The first three companies up in this part of the contest, D. of The Dalles; M. of Portland; and M. of Salem, were permitted to shoot on the 250 range a second time, the latter score being counted. Major Baker noticed when two men went up at the same time and were firing together, the latter firing with each other materially. Team captains held that their men were not doing nearly so good work under these conditions, and after the three companies had shot their men to shoot on the 200 a second time. In this second shoot Salem pushed its aggregate score up from 439 to 467. If the last shoot is to hold, Company H of the capital city wins.

lists. We protested that, as sailor men, we had no right to vote in Chicago— or elsewhere, for that matter.

"I'll fix that," said the Chicagoan, after learning how long we had been quartered in the Windy City. As good as his word, he enrolled us on the voting lists, and then we began to take notice.

I found that we were paired. Two of the officers announced their intention to vote for General Hancock. The third declared himself a supporter of Garfield and I was in the same boat.

"It occurred to me, as I explained to my brother officers, that under the circumstances our votes, evenly divided, might as well not be cast, having no effect on the result. I proposed to cast the four ballots in a bunch, regardless of our alleged political proclivities, the testing of a coin to determine how our suffrages should be exercised.

"All hands agreed. I flipped a dollar, 'Twas to be—head, Garfield; tail, Hancock. Head it was, and the four naval votes were cast for the Garfield electors. Since then I have never voted.

"Why do naval officers take little or no interest in politics? Because, after graduating from Annapolis, and at an age when other young men are in touch with political affairs and forming alliances with one or the other great parties, the naval officer is at sea, probably far from his country, hearing little and caring less about political strife at home, and if he continues in the navy the game of politics possesses no interest for him.

"I remember that on one occasion, when I was a bureau chief here, a distinguished secretary of the navy, now deceased, asked me the politics of a officer of the bureau. I promptly told him the naval officers had no partisan politics and expressed the opinion—which I have never changed—that if a naval officer seeks preferment because of his political affiliation, he is very apt to prove a shyster."

Getting in Line. From the Chicago News. Mrs. DeStyler—"Good morning, doctor. So glad I met you. I was going to call at your office this afternoon." Dr. Upson—"Indeed! Anything wrong?" Mrs. DeStyler—"Not at present, thank you. I merely wanted to know what the reasonable ailments were for the fall and winter. I always like to keep up with the procession, you know."

It Was Not Mutual. "My boy, I forgive you for running away with my daughter." The Groom—"But I can never forgive you for letting me."
