

FIVE SAW BARS AND ESCAPE FROM JAIL

Rockpile Prisoners Take French Leave of the County Prison—Tools Smuggled to Them Outside Jail It Is Thought.

THOSE WHO ESCAPED.

Frank Bodwell, alias John Smith—Age 30 years, height 5 feet 5 inches, weight 135 to 140 pounds, dark complexion, two rows front teeth missing.

James Turner—Age 35 or 40 years, height 5 feet 3 inches, weight 160 pounds, light complexion, sandy mustache, clear down the right side of face.

Mike Foley—Age 35 or 40 years, height 5 feet 3 inches, weight 150 pounds, dark hair and mustache, dark gray eyes, front on right forehead.

Frank Matthews—About 35 years old, height 5 feet 10 inches, weight 150 pounds, red mustache, light hair, right hand crippled.

Frank Hogan—Age about 45 years, height 5 feet 8 inches, weight 150 pounds, gray hair and mustache, left thumb amputated.

Five short term prisoners saved through the bars of their cell and the corridor of the county jail at the county jail last night and gained their liberty. Indications are that the saws with which they obtained their freedom were secured while the fugitives were at work on the rock pile. Sheriff Word asserts that there are a number of suspicious circumstances in connection with this break not usually attending such affairs.

The break was not discovered until 6 o'clock this morning when Julius von Priel, a convict, went into Corridor No. 3 to give the prisoners their breakfast. He found cell No. 3 unfastened and a glance showed him that one of the bars had been sawed in two. He immediately informed Jailer Grafton and Deputy Sheriff Deagan of his discovery. An investigation showed that the five prisoners kept in the cell had gone, the method of their escape being plain. The escaped men are:

Mike Foley, serving a year for larceny, whose sentence would have expired next September 15; Frank Matthews, one year for larceny, with the names of his charges; Frank Bodwell, alias John Smith, a year for larceny, who would have been released next July 15; James Hogan, a year for larceny, date of expiration of sentence next March 6;

James Turner, eight months for larceny, who would have been released next March 15.

Must Have Taken Hours.

The prisoners got out of their cell by sawing a bar in two, sliding one piece upward, extending a hand through the aperture and lifting the bar fastening the door and climbing on top of a table, sawing two bars out of each of two windows, one window fitting into each side of a thick brick wall.

Crawling through the opening thus made, they obtained access to a corridor extending from the rear of the jail into the main corridor. Reaching through the bars of an iron door at the end of the corridor, they saw a brass lock off and found themselves at liberty.

Corridor No. 3 is located in the rear of the jail structure and can not be seen from the main corridor. The sound of sawing could not be heard in the jailer's apartment. It is improbable that any of the other prisoners would have become aware of the escape, as the fact that not only is the corridor well located for a break, but that the bars were so soft the prisoners sawed only part way through them and easily broke them at the joints.

"There is no doubt in my mind but that these saws were obtained by the men while at work on the rock pile," said Sheriff Word. "I do not believe that with the strict watch which has been kept and for other reasons saws could have been carried into the prison in any other manner. There are a number of suspicious circumstances in connection with this and the previous break not usually attending such affairs."

Eight Watchmen Didn't Hear.

The guards on the rockpile are James Johnson and W. Briggs. They were appointed by the board of county commissioners. Night Watchman Lee did not hear the noise made by sawing the lock in the outer gate of the corridor leading into the central court. Lee failed also to detect the last escape previous to this in time to render any service. He is no special night watchman of the jail, but of the courtyards.

Sheriff Word will ask the county commissioners for a full night watchman, to be stationed in the broad corridor, in the rear of the structure, or to keep watch in the rear of the building. With such a person keeping vigil neither of the two recent breaks could have been so easily accomplished.

The authorities at all near-by towns have been telephoned descriptions of the escaped men and telegrams have been sent to San Francisco, Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, Walla Walla and other cities. The descriptions of the men are as follows:

SHERIFF'S DEPUTY STEEL IN CHARGE OF WARWICK POOLROOM—PROSECUTING ATTORNEY AND DEPUTY SHERIFF ADVISERS OF NEARLY WARM ARGUMENT.

Sheriff Word is still master of the situation so far as the operation of poolrooms is concerned. The Warwick poolroom exchange remains closed and in charge of Deputy Sheriff Fairport. It will not be reopened unless Sheriff Word loses in court proceedings which he anticipates will be instituted.

An agent of the Portland General Electric company called up the sheriff by phone this morning and said he had been instructed by Manager M. G. Nease of the Warwick to inquire as to whether or not the sheriff would assume responsibility for electric light bills.

"The sheriff says he assumes no responsibility for anything," replied Deputy Sheriff Hollingsworth. "Any order to continue or shut off the lights of the Warwick must come from Manager Nease."

Pending their disposition by habeas corpus proceedings, instituted yesterday by Attorney W. M. Geary and Judge Wray at the prisoners were released last evening on their own recognizance by Presiding Judge George of the circuit court. Argument was begun yesterday afternoon by Attorney Geary on behalf of the arrested men, and by Attorney H. E. McGinn, representing the sheriff. The debate was heated, and adjourned. Attorney McGinn attempted to explain his position, somewhat acrimoniously.

Attorney Geary declared the men arrested had violated no law and were being held without complaint being filed against them. Attorney McGinn asserted that the law had been violated and declared in emphatic language that it was the duty of District Attorney Manning to file informations against them without delay.

Mr. Manning then arose and explained that he had seen in the papers that black-jack, poker and other games were being played at the Warwick, but he learned this to be untrue. If the evidence submitted were strong enough, he added, he would file informations before leaving the courthouse.

"Sheriff Word is not responsible for statements accredited to him in certain of the papers," said Mr. McGinn. "He has never told anybody that gambling other than the selling of pools was going on at the Warwick. It is your duty to prosecute these proceedings."

Mr. Manning intimated that he would not do so until he had examined the evidence which Attorney McGinn declared that he had seen. Attorney McGinn declared that the public prosecutor was through with the affair he might have to do so. A postponement of further argument until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon was granted by Judge Geary. Afterward Attorney McGinn and District Attorney Manning held a conference in Judge Geary's chamber, which is said to have been of a rather heated nature.

Sheriff Word announces that if the district attorney refuses to file informations in the circuit court and the men arrested are discharged following the habeas corpus proceedings, he will file informations in the justice court. "I do care about the operators," said the sheriff. "It is the closing down of poolroom gambling that I am after. The Warwick will remain closed as long as I can keep it closed. Damage suits have no terrors for me."

"You are on record now; that is one important fact we wanted to accomplish."

The final step of Attorney Henry E. McGinn at District Attorney Manning marked the conclusion of proceedings in habeas corpus before Presiding Judge George of the circuit court this afternoon, resulting in the release of the men arrested when the Warwick Tart exchange was raided yesterday by Sheriff Word's deputies.

When the defendant appeared in court, Attorney McGinn informed Judge Geary that no answer had been filed to the habeas corpus proceedings by the district attorney, Attorney Geary thereupon moved that the defendants be discharged from custody. Judge Geary so ordered.

Mr. Manning, who failed to appear and had been summoned by telephone rose to explain his stand. He said no evidence had been given him or complaint against the defendants. He said Attorney McGinn declared that the law of the city had spoken for itself and that Mr. Manning had turned John Bain of the Municipal Reform association down when he went before him to lay an information. This was denied by Mr. Manning. Attorney McGinn then made the remark which closed the court proceedings.

Jasper Fuller, a veteran Indian fighter, was this afternoon sworn in as a deputy sheriff by Sheriff Word, given a rifle and placed on duty at the Warwick club, on Fourth street, near Alder. He was instructed to hold the poolroom at all hazards. Another armed deputy will reinforce Fuller tonight.

NORTHERN PACIFIC BRINGING THEM HERE TO SHOW THEM MEMORANDA OF LAW AND CLAIMS AND IMPROVE UPON THEIR DUTY TO "BOOST."

Through the efforts of A. M. Cleland, general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific at St. Paul, and A. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent of this city, a train load of passengers and immigration agents will visit this city this month for the purpose of seeing the country that is traversed by their road and acquainting themselves with conditions preparatory to the great rush of business that is expected during the Lewis and Clark fair. They will arrive in Portland November 15.

Efforts have been in progress by Mr. Charlton for several months to arrange for the western excursion. It is the intention of those who will make the trip to gain more than a superficial knowledge of this country. They have of course read of it in pamphlets and all kind of literature that has been distributed by the various railroads. It is believed, however, that a personal trip of inspection will be of more benefit than anything that could be published. After the trip they will be prepared to lend their assistance to the fair and to this section of the country in telling prospective immigrants of its resources.

Mr. Cleland will personally conduct the excursion. He will be accompanied by C. W. Mott of St. Paul, chief of the immigration department. The immigration agents, it is believed, will be of immense assistance to the fair.

Senator's Governor Chamberlain acted on the advice of Mr. Charlton and appointed 300 of the Northern Pacific passenger and immigration agents as special commissioners to the fair.

Mr. Charlton will likely make the trip as far east as Helena in order to meet the excursionists and escort them to this city. They will spend several days in Portland and will make separate trips through the Willamette valley and up the Columbia. Besides visiting this city they will also stop at Butte, Spokane, Walla Walla, Kennewick, Yakima, Ellensburg, Seattle, Tacoma, Victoria, Vancouver, Everett and Pasco. They will also visit other smaller cities in Oregon and Washington.

The complete personnel of the party has not been arranged, but it will include the following: District Passenger Agents C. E. Foster, Boston; W. C. Mason, Buffalo; J. C. Thompson, Chicago; J. J. Ferry, Cincinnati; B. D. Rockwell, Des Moines; W. H. Whitaker, Detroit; C. P. O'Donnell, Indianapolis; Charles C. Trout, Milwaukee; F. W. Funnell, Philadelphia; C. E. Brisson, Pittsburg; D. B. Gardner, St. Louis; and Harry W. Street, St. Paul; General Agent of the Passenger Department C. A. Matthews, Chicago; Traveling Agent J. L. Daugherty, Chicago; Traveling Freight and Passenger Agent D. L. Robb, Cincinnati; Traveling Immigration Agent H. B. Brynning, Kansas City; District Freight and Passenger Agent W. H. Hardisty, Montreal; General Agent Passenger Department W. F. Mereshon, New York; Traveling Immigration Agent G. C. Morrison, Omaha; and Contracting Freight Agent W. M. Burk, St. Paul.
