

CARNIVAL OF CRIME WITHIN CITY GATES

Series of holdups, burglaries and "touch" cases for 24 hours in Portland.

John Clark's saloon, 21 Alhina avenue, held up by three men and contents of safe and cash register—$30—taken. No arrests.

Golden West saloon, Seventh and Gilman streets, robbed of $85 by burglar. No arrests.

Tourist saloon, 25 North Sixth street, entered, ransacked, but no money found. No arrests.

Hawk's saloon, Ninth and Gilman streets, entered, cash register smashed, $30 taken. No arrests.

William E. Cooley, robbed of $74 in Patterson's saloon. No arrests.

William Rulson, robbed of $20 in Paris house. No arrests.

One saloon held up and robbed of $30 by three masked men, three saloons entered and robbed by burglars, one of $50 and another of $85, and two "touch" cases are the record for crime in Portland for about 24 hours. The police were quickly apprised of all of the crimes, but no arrests have been made.

The three saloons were burglarized evidently by the same men during the early hours of the morning. The Golden West, Seventh and Gilman, suffered the loss of $85 and Hawk's saloon, Ninth and Gilman, was robbed of $30 and the cash register was ruined by an axe-trance into all of the saloons. The sight of men walking about and carrying an axe is unusual at that hour of the morning, but as one policeman is covering two square miles in the territory invaded by the criminals this time, he did not run into the men.

All of the burglaries occurred after Captain Bailey went on duty this morning, and no time was lost by him in sending out men to endeavor to effect a capture. He has no detectives working under him, however, and few patrolmen. For that reason, it is more difficult to cope with crimes during his watch.

Saturday night when the holdup of the Clark saloon, 21 Alhina avenue, was reported, Captain Moore held Detective Weiner and Humane Officer Resing at the station 30 minutes before sending them to the scene. Sergeant Hogeboom, attached to Moore's relief, was kept in the station until a reporter apprised him of the facts at 1:15 a. m. He was in the vicinity of the holdup, and thinks he might have captured the men, had Captain Moore informed him promptly. Not one of the patrolmen on the beat was notified by Captain Moore.

This morning Captain Bailey was notified of the robbery of $74 from William Cooley, in "Bob" Patterson's dive, and $20 from William Rulson in the Paris house. The former was robbed while sleeping in a drunken stupor on the floor and the latter while drunk and talking with a woman.

likely to be any more than the usual disturbances.

Fifteen states are recorded as doubtful, with an electoral vote as follows: New York 35, New Jersey 12, Connecticut 7, Delaware 3, Maryland 8, West Virginia 12, Indiana 15, Illinois 27, Wisconsin 12, North Dakota 4, Colorado 5, California 10, Utah 2, Montana 2, Idaho 2. Admitting that the Republicans are sure of 162 electoral votes and the Democrats of 154, the following possible combinations may be made:

If the Republicans should lose New York, they might also lose New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland, West Virginia, Colorado and Montana, and yet win if they carried the remaining eight doubtful states.

If the Republicans should carry New Jersey, Colorado, Illinois, Wisconsin, California, Delaware, Utah and Idaho, they could lose New York, Indiana, Connecticut, Maryland, West Virginia, Montana and North Dakota, and still win.

If the Republicans lose New York, New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia, and either Indiana or Wisconsin, they would yet have a safe majority if they carried the 10 other doubtful states.

If New York, Indiana and Wisconsin were lost by the Republicans, they would still win if they should carry Illinois, New Jersey, Colorado, Connecticut, West Virginia, North Dakota, Delaware, Utah and Idaho.

If the Democrats carry New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland and West Virginia, they would need only the votes of either Indiana or Wisconsin or the combination of Colorado, Montana and Idaho to make up the required majority.

If the Democrats should lose New Jersey, but carry New York, Connecticut, Maryland and West Virginia, they could win by receiving the votes of Illinois alone, or Indiana and Wisconsin together, or Indiana and California, or the four states—Indiana, Colorado, Montana and Idaho.

If the Democrats were to lose New York, but carry Illinois, they could win by carrying New Jersey, Indiana, Con-

The weather will undoubtedly exert an influence upon the size of the vote. Occasional showers are predicted for Portland and other parts of Oregon. In eastern Oregon fair weather is expected.

NEW JERSEY

(Journal Special Service.)

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 7.—Both Republican and Democratic managers are claiming the electoral vote of the state with the chances apparently favorable to the Republicans. The campaign has been a heated one. Speechmaking will not be ended until tonight. Stokes, Republican, is likely to be elected governor.

COLORADO

(Journal Special Service.)

Denver, Colo., Nov. 7.—While the Democrats concede the national ticket to the Republicans, they are confident of carrying the state for governor. Indications are for a heavy vote.

DELAWARE

(Journal Special Service.)

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 7.—While the Democrats claim the state, the compromise effected by the regular and union Republicans will probably give the state to Roosevelt by 5,000 majority. The Democrats will probably elect the governor.

WEST VIRGINIA

(Journal Special Service.)

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 7.—The Democrats claim the state in no longer doubtful. They assert they will elect the governor and give the Democratic national ticket a small majority.

WISCONSIN

(Journal Special Service.)

Milwaukee, Nov. 7.—The Democrats and the LaFollette Republicans both claim the state. The opinion is general that the legislature, which is to elect a United States senator, will be a deadlock.

WYOMING

(Journal Special Service.)

Cheyenne, Nov. 7.—The indications are that Roosevelt will carry Wyoming by 4,000 and the state Republican ticket will carry by over 1,500 to 2,000. Monday, Republican, for congress, by 2,000. The legislature will be overwhelmingly Republican. Cheyenne will get the state capitol.

JUDGE GEORGE CALLS THE GRAND JURORS

may return true bills if you are convinced that the evidence is sufficient.

"You should summon all witnesses who can testify in court for the prosecution. As regards the defense it is not obligatory on you to summon any witnesses whatever, but it is advisable to do so if you have reason to think any of them can give a reasonable account for the commission of a deed which will render conviction impossible.

"Five jurors are necessary in order to bring in an indictment. Your deliberations should be conducted with the greatest secrecy possible, in order that nothing may be known prematurely, so that the ends of justice will be handicapped."

After appointing F. M. Johnson foreman, Judge George instructed the jury to retire to the regular room set apart for such body on the first floor of the courthouse. The members filed out in charge of Bailiff Robert Galloway, and accompanied by District Attorney John Manning.

As soon as they entered the jury-room G. H. Thomas arose and stated that the jury would hold a conference in strict secrecy regarding the nature of its future and to decide on a plan of action. District Attorney Manning thereupon arose and left the room. The jury was in session for about 38 minutes and then adjourned until 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Owing to the personal of the jury and for a number of reasons it is believed that the present conditions governing gambling will receive serious consideration at an early stage of its deliberations.

That special significance attaches to the calling of a grand jury at this time is manifest. According to the codes, a grand jury may be called at any time the presiding judge of the circuit deems conditions require such action. No regular time is set by the statutes. In the past the usual time has been shortly before the expiration of a presiding judge's term of office as the executive head of the court. In calling a grand jury at this time, it is known that Judge George's action has the approval of the other three members of the circuit court.

In addition to considering the gambling situation it is deemed probable that alleged laxity on the part of the police branch of the municipal government will also be given attention. Until the jury is discharged all criminal indictments will be brought in by it. At other times the district attorney sits as a grand jury and an information filed by him has the force of a true bill returned by the jury.

Change of Business

E. U. Will of Albany, Or., has purchased the stock and good will of the Manufacturers' Piano Co., and will add a fine stock of sheet music and small instruments. We have the agency for Cecilian Self-Playing Piano and Piano Player; also Decker & Son pianos. We will add several other leading pianos for the approval of the musical people of Oregon and Washington. Mr. W. T. Shanahan will continue with us as manager of the piano department for the present. We offer the public rock-bottom prices, absolutely fair dealing and courteous treatment. Have been 25 years in the piano business; we are satisfied with smaller profits than the older established dealers in Portland. This is our first inducement to the public to call on us. E. U. ## JEST WITH JOHN BULL

"Sunday night the Russian sharpshooters harassed the enemy along the whole line. There was no engagement Saturday."

In view of recent Japanese successes as reported from the outside there is now no hope that Port Arthur will hold out except, strangely enough, in army circles. Some of the officers' assertions seem fatuous.

One high in command asserts that Stoesel will not only succeed in holding Port Arthur until succor arrives through the Baltic fleet, but predicts that he will also hold the Golden Hill fortress.

Viceroy Alexieff arrived here Friday. It is a possibility that he may be transferred as viceroy to the Caucasus on account of the gravity of the situation there.

LONDON SAYS "HOW!"

(Journal Special Service.)

London, Nov. 7.—England stands amazed and without understanding of what is apparently a breach of faith on the part of Russia in the case of Major Clado, who is, according to St. Petersburg dispatches, one of the four officers detached from Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet at Vigo, and who is responsible for the Dogger Bay affair. It is asserted by St. Petersburg correspondents that Clado was merely Rojestvensky's guest and that the trick is in the Russian capital, considered a smart piece of deception.

The officials at the foreign office say they have received nothing official in the case, but intimate that inquiries will be made to ascertain the truth of the report and that on it will depend Great Britain's action.

RUSSIAN SNOW BARRIERS.

(Journal Special Service.)

Tokio, Nov. 7.—The imperial headquarters today issued a statement charging the Russian defenders of Port Arthur with misfeasance and killing the wounded. A number of cases are cited, among which is that of a Japanese hospital orderly, who was wounded and left on the field. The Russians took his badge and then killed him. A wounded Japanese private lay six days in the snow, and while the Russians were constantly near. The Russians bayoneted or shot his wounded comrades and then robbed them.

ALL BUT GALLOWAY.

(Journal Special Service.)

Rome, Nov. 7.—Tokio correspondent of the newspaper, Giornale Di Roma, wires that Port Arthur is regarded as taken in the Japanese capture. The Russians still hold four forts, but the town itself is open to the Japanese on the northeast. The Japanese will not enter the town at present because it is still under fire from the Lion's mountain forts. All the remaining forts will hold out toward the Golden Hill fortress.
