

FAN TAN PLAYERS TAKE REAL REST

Every Game in Chinatown Closes As Result of Big Raid.

SHERIFF IS REALLY HAPPY AFTER SEIZE

Declares Games Will Not Reopen If He Can Prevent Them.

Fan tan was not played in Chinatown last night. One of Sheriff Word's deputies made a tour of the Chinese quarter at a late hour and was unable to discover a single game in operation. The raid made yesterday afternoon by the sheriff clearly had its effect.

Eight or nine iron-bound doors were secured by the sheriff during the raid, and are now held as evidence at the county jail. Being unable to get a great deal of the gambling apparatus out of the several houses broken into, tables were broken up and carted away. Three displays of material were taken to the county jail.

The last place visited was a Chinese gambling house in Second street, between Morrison and Alder streets. The large iron-door and bolted door was broken down and carried away from there.

During the raid there were several very exciting scenes. The sightseers crowded so closely into a corridor at Lee Mee Gim's place, Second and Alder streets, that Deputy Sheriffs Downey and Parrott, whose work was being overseen by the sheriff in person, could not swing their hammers effectively and were almost suffocated. They rushed the crowd, when one large man declared Deputy Downey had reached for his revolver.

"No, I didn't," declared the official. "I reached for a club, and if you crowd back in here again you will get a sample of it in action."

The big man kept at a respectful distance after that, as did the other members of the crowd.

Sheriff Word declares that no Chinaman reported to him that his trunk was broken, open and its contents stolen by some person during the raid, but that a Chinaman came to him and told him one of his countrymen had been robbed in this manner. "I sent a deputy to investigate," said Mr. Word, "but he could learn nothing definite. I don't believe any robbery took place. If it did, I am not responsible. The crowd followed us into places where we were engaged in seeing that the law was not broken. None of my men took anything, and if these people break the law they will have to take the consequences. I can't put men on guard at every place raided after we have secured the evidence and gone away."
