BARK TAFALLA LOST WITH FIFTEEN MEN

Casualties Reported from Other Ports—Much Damage to Shipping.

All the storm warnings along the coast have been ordered down by District Forecaster Beale, who reports that the indications for good weather are better than they have been for several weeks past. This morning the wind was blowing at only the rate of 10 miles an hour off the mouth of the Columbia river.

The steamer Francis H. Legget took advantage of the calm to cross the bar from the outside, and it is believed that several other vessels which are supposed to be on the outside will enter the river today. It is very probable that the big fleet which has been harbored at Astoria will all get to sea before nightfall.

As predicted by the weather man, there was a big windstorm off the coast yesterday. He stated that it would probably reach a velocity of 75 miles an hour. In reality it got up to 75 miles, which goes to show that his prognostications were as nearly correct as it is possible to make them a half day in advance. The blow at Tacoma yesterday was 24 miles an hour, much higher than it has been at an inland port during the season.

FIFTEEN MEN LOST.
Bark Tafalla Goes Down Off the Seaside.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—According to a report brought yesterday by Captain Day of the steamer Aros Castle, the Spanish bark Tafalla, with a crew of 15 men, was lost November 15, about 120 miles west of the Seaside.

The attention of the Aros Castle was called to the Tafalla on the night of November 13, in the midst of a great storm, when distress rockets were sighted and answered. The Aros Castle ran down to the Tafalla and was signaled that the latter was making six inches of water an hour, and with the main pump broken. Such a heavy sea was running that Captain Day could not launch the small boat, but bent a hawser to the bark and attempted to steady it. Late in the afternoon of November 14, the hawser parted and the Tafalla again went adrift. The following day Captain Day stood by, but was unable to offer any assistance, as a heavy sea was still on and the Aros Castle had no time left aboard. That night the Tafalla disappeared, and it is believed that she went to the bottom with all on board. The Tafalla was of 855 tons, bound from Brunswick, Ga., to Valencia with a cargo of pitch-pine.

COMING HOME.
Northwestern Vessels Report Storm to Have Been Viciously Severe.

Seattle, Nov. 22.—The steamer Parillon arrived in Friday with a part of her port and starboard rails gone and some of her deck cargo missing. She came from Lynn canal and passed through one of the roughest storms she has experienced in her five years on the route.

The steamer Cottage City and Humboldt from Friday evening until late Saturday evening were forced to anchor in Queen Charlotte sound, as the storm was so severe that to cross the arm made it very likely they would be driven on the rocks.

WAT HAVE FOUNDERS.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 22.—Captain Cogden of the French bark Guereux, reports the sudden disappearance of a four-masted schooner or barkentine north of Cape Flattery Wednesday, presumably by foundering. The Guereux observed the vessel laboring under bare sticks, and saw her sudden disappearance, but was too far away to render any assistance. Speculation is rife as to the vessel's identity.

BARKS PICKED UP.
(Journal Special Service.)

Providence, Nov. 22.—The barks Buffalo and Burden, which went adrift Sunday night, were picked up this morning 15 miles northeast of Nauset. Their crews are safe.

THREE RUSSIAN BOATS FALL PREY TO JAPANESE

Of Four Which Sally Out with Stoesse's Dispatches but One Survives to Carry Message.

London, Nov. 22.—A dispatch from Nagasaki gives a new version of the report of a sortie of torpedo-boat destroyers from Port Arthur, which occurred at the same time the Rastoropy left. The correspondent says three boats left two days before the Rastoropy, carrying dispatches from General Stoesse.

The Japanese cruiser Kasuga sank the first destroyer after a fight lasting half an hour. All the Russian vessels were drowned excepting four, who were rescued from the sea by boats from the Kasuga.

The cruiser Matsushima sank the second destroyer 25 miles from Port Arthur, receiving herself the ineffectual blow of a torpedo.

WILL NOT MOBILIZE.
Imperial Authorities Announce Polish Reserves Will Be Sent Home.

London, Nov. 22.—The failure of Russia's efforts to mobilize the army reserve men in Poland is explained and made clear in correspondence just received from St. Petersburg. It seems that the trouble arises from a misunderstanding at Warsaw, where sanguinary encounter was provoked by the brutality of an officer. A major was drilling a newly-arrived company of reservists, and becoming thoroughly aroused, and both men abused and assaulted several of them. At last he turned on one man, whom he had specially singled out for ill-treatment, and dealt him a stinging blow across the face with his riding whip.

The man replied with a blow that sent the officer staggering. Another officer went to his assistance with drawn sword, but the temper of the men was now thoroughly aroused, and both men were felled to the ground and savagely labored with the butt ends of the soldiers' rifles. Two companies of the active army came up at the double and charged the reservists with fixed bayonets. A savage encounter followed. The reservists were finally overpowered, but not before a score of the regulars were stretched lifeless in the barrack square and fifty others wounded. Fully half the reservists were killed, together with two officers over whom the trouble arose. The surviving reservists were led out the next morning and summarily shot.

Following this affair there are similar riots at many points throughout Russia-Poland and the situation finally became such that the authorities were totally unable to deal with them in all the cities and towns men marched through the street singing Polish songs and voicing their opposition to the mobilizing of the reserves. The situation became so acute that the imperial authorities, as announced in a St. Petersburg dispatch of last week, to abandon all further attempts to mobilize the army reserve men in Poland and to send them to their homes.

ARMIES ARE RESTING.
(Journal Special Service.)

Paris, Nov. 22.—Dispatches received today indicate there has been no fighting recently between the Russians and Japanese at Shkhe river, and that only unimportant skirmishes have occurred.

New York, Nov. 22.—The principal railroad systems of the United States have jointly adopted a pass agreement for 1905 which is the most restrictive known. After the first of January passengers will be favored individuals indeed. The agreement says: "No free or reduced transportation shall be issued to the representatives of stockyard companies, street cable railway companies, representatives of foreign lines occupying positions, coal sales agents, coal agents, those engaged in other commercial business, nor representatives of refrigerator, tank-line, or other private car lines not owned and controlled by the railroad companies."
