and the Coast Convention

Will Close Friday.

The National Grange of the Patrons Husbandry occupied the morning ession today considering a plan for skins to all of the officers. The granges contributing them were those of Macleay, Marion county; Grand Prairie, Linn county; Morning Star, Linn county; Tangent, Linn county; Sodaville, Linn county; Charity, Linn county; Band Ridge, Linn county; Oak Grove, Polk county; Mono, Polk county; Burprise, Marion county; Harmony, Linn county, and Oak Plain, Linn county.

An invitation, written by City Clerk J. E. Harris, was extended to the delegates to visit Vancouver and inspect the barracks. It was accepted unanimously, and 1 p. m. Friday was the hour selected for the departure from Portland.

PLEASED WITH TRIP.

At 6 o'clock last night the delegates and visitors to the national grange who had visited Corvallis, returned to the city. They expressed themselves as delighted with the trip and with the hospitality that was shown them.

When the party reached Corvallis they were met at the train by 400 cadets from the college, headed by the college band. Thy were escorted to the buildings, where a banquet was served in the armory. Colonel Robert J. Miller, president of the board of regents, delivered a brief address of welcome, to which Aaron Jones responded on behalf of the visitors.

"At the Trans-Mississippi congress Portland got all she went after," says Tom Richardson, who returned this morning from attendance at that meeting and a tour through the Mississippi valley to New Orleans, concluding with a trip to El Paso, Los Angeles and San Francisco. ## BURGLARS GET MONEY

Burgiars entered the Clinton Kelly school, Twenty - sixth and Poweli streets, last night and stole seven boxes that were used for contributions to the Volunteers of America. The boxes were taken outside and broken open. The burgiars secured between $3 and $4 in pennies.

Entrance was made through a window in the basement, which had been left open, evidently by some one attending the school. It is asserted that one of the pupils is implicated, but arrests are not likely to be made.

The regular Thanksgiving contributions were made today, and if the burgiars had postponed their visit for a night quite a sum would have been secured.

There are eleven boxes at the school in which the children place small sums to be given to the poor on Thanksgiv-

RECEIVE HIGH PLACES

"I found many interested listeners everywhere," he says. "There is a great desire among the people of those states to come west. Some of them say they are tired of expositions, but want to come out here and see the country. Others say they are coming to see what the Pacific northwest can do in the way of getting up an exposition. Every railroad between southern California and the British Columbia line will be crowded next year."

Mr. Richardson was honored with election to the vice-chairmanship of the Trans-Mississippi congress and to the secretaryship of the National Irrigation association. In the fight for the irrigation meeting of 1905 Boise was aided by Oklahoma with 20 votes, which proved to be Boise's most important acquisition. Both of these cities will have large delegations here next year. It is thought that the convention contest next year will lie between Los Angeles and Boise, and Ban Antonio will also be in the field.

Mr. Richardson ways there is the Holse, and San Antonio will also be in the field.

Mr. Richardson says there is the greatest interest manifested at San Francisco in the Lewis and Clark fair. The business men of that city are heart and soul in the movement, and will be well represented. He was particularly gratified with his reception at Denver, where an audience of 150 business men gathered to hear him talk about the Lewis and Clark fair and the exploitation methods pursued by the Portland Commercial club.
