Booth-Kelly Company Prepares for Active Operations.

TO EMPLOY FULL SHIFT AT COBURG MILL MONDAY

Will Run Night and Day at Full Capacity—Activity in Its Logging Camps.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., Nov. 24.—It is reported here today that the Booth-Kelly Lumber company, several of whose mills in this county have been idle for many months, will soon resume operation on the same big scale as before the decline in the price of lumber caused stagnation in the business. The company will begin running its big Coburg mill night and day next Monday, employing 15 or 20 more men than it now does.

It is said that the new mill at Wendling, at the end of the Mohawk branch of the Southern Pacific railroad, will soon be completed and in a few months will be running at its full capacity. There is now greater activity in the company's logging camps than there has been for several months. Over 10,000,000 feet of logs are on Fall creek ready to send down to the mills as soon as the water in the river rises to a sufficient depth, and the camps up the McKenzie are also active.

The council is at present under a restraining order issued out of the circuit court, pending a hearing as to the legality of the sewer assessment proceedings. ### DID NOT WANT LICENSE RECORDED

Phil A. Hunt and Wing Lee Both Apply for Permits to Wed at Vancouver.

ANNIE SALLY IS ONE OF BLUSHING BRIDES

Chinese Groom is Sixty-six Years of Age and a Practicing Physician.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Vancouver, Wash., Nov. 24.—Tas county auditor for Clarke county had two peculiar applicants for licenses to wed yesterday. One was Phil A. Hunt and the other in the person of Wing Lee.

In the case of Phil A. Hunt, who secured a license and was shortly after wedded to Miss Florence Rights, Justice W. W. Sparks officiating. Hunt wished to keep the matter of the record and away from public knowledge. The request was somewhat unusual and at first surprised the keeper of public records that he was almost speechless for an answer. He afterward informed Hunt that it was his duty to place the license on record as soon as secured, and that the records in his office were at all times during office hours open to the public's inspection, and that if he was ashamed of the affair it would be better not to get married.

The second in line was Wing Lee. Wing Lee was not at all bashful nor desirous to keep the fact that he secured a license to marry Annie Sally from public knowledge. But the peculiarity of the applicant is that Wing Lee is a worthy Chinaman who is past 66 winters and a doctor of medicine by profession, and the bride-to-be, Annie Sally, is said to be a Swedish girl of 25. Annie Sally was not present when the application was made for the license and the questions fired by the auditor as to who Annie might be and her rights to wed almost caused the Celestial doctor to forego securing the license and bring Annie over "tomorrow." On learning that the auditor's office would be closed on the morrow, he proceeded to identify the Annie Sally; to the satisfaction of the county auditor and the license was issued.

It was reported to the county auditor a few days ago that should a Chinaman by the name of Wing Lee apply for a license to wed here in this county, he was married; that another Chinaman had stolen his wife and shipped to the Flouery Kingdom.

Wing assured the auditor that such was the case, but added that after the couple arrived in China "she died and then he died," and that was all the divorce he believed necessary.

Immediately after securing the license to marry Annie Sally, Wing Lee went to the county clerk's office and had recorded his certificate to practice medicine in the state of Washington, which was granted to him while at Walla Walla in 1902. Wing Lee graduated at the medical college in Canton, China, in 1881.

WASHINGTON PLANTING MANY FRUIT TREES

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Colfax, Wash., Nov. 24.—More than 4,000,000 fruit trees were shipped into the state of Washington and planted this year, and the outlook is that fully 4,000,000 more will be added to the orchards of the state this year, said A. E. Engelder, state horticultural commissioner, recently. He said: "I think the spring and fall planting in Whitman county alone will reach 1,000,000 trees at from 100 to 125 to the acre it will be a material increase to the fruit growing interests of the county. There were more than 400,000 trees set out in Yakima county last year, and there is little slackening up there this year, if any."

POSTMASTERS WALK-OUT COMBATED BY FRIENDS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) La Grande, Or., Nov. 24.—There is a peculiar case at La Grande, 13 miles from here, regarding the postmastership in that little town. Before the recent election, Charles A. Playle, Republican, was aspiring to office, and E. Webb is the present incumbent and is a Democrat. Before the election these two men agreed among themselves that if Parker was elected Webb would retain the office, and if Roosevelt was elected Webb should resign in favor of Playle. Webb states that he will resign in accordance with the agreement, but his friends are circulating petitions for him to hold the office, and Playle's friends are also circulating petitions.

CITY OF SEATTLE IS ON EAGLE ROCK

Well Known Alaskan Steamer May Prove a Total Loss in Northern Waters.

SCHOONER WEBFOOT IS WRECKED OFF OREGON

Crew Suffers from Exposure and Hunger—England is Still in Storm's Clutch.

(Journal Special Service.) Juneau, Alaska, Nov. 24.—News reached here last night that the steamer City of Seattle went ashore on the rocks at the mouth of Eagle river Tuesday night and that she is heavily damaged and may prove a total wreck. All of those aboard are safe and the vessel is high enough on the beach to permit of watchmen remaining aboard her.

The disaster came through unfamiliarity of the officers with the landing, which was to be made farther up, it being the first time the steamer has poked her nose into those waters. Investigation yesterday morning at low tide shows that she has a hoil in her hull beneath the boiler room. Steam is being kept up and the pumps are nearly holding their own, but if the water gains enough to extinguish the fires she will go down within a short time.

The steamer was carrying a heavy and valuable cargo, as she had not only her own, but that of the steamer Jefferson, which met with an accident here and was unable to continue her voyage to Skagway.

WEBFOOT WRECK.

Schooner Dismasted and Crew Suffers from Exposure.

Astoria, Or., Nov. 24.—In almost a sinking condition, her crew faint from the pangs of hunger, the schooner Webfoot, which sailed from Coos bay Sunday, November 12, was yesterday evening towed into this port by the tug Tootoosh and Wallula. The vessel was waterlogged, all her masts and rigging the stump of the mizzen mast, and Captain Lewis and his crew of four men had had nothing to eat for five days except a small box of apples.

The captain says that almost immediately after leaving port bad weather was encountered. The schooner carried 400,000 feet of lumber and was bound for San Francisco. She carried a crew of eight men, including the captain and two mates. Saturday a heavy sea swept over the schooner, carrying away all provisions, water and navigation instruments.

Late Monday afternoon the schooner lost her three masts, everything being swept away, leaving her helpless. Tuesday morning Mate Cromler and two seamen left in a boat to make Tootoosh bay, but as nothing has been heard from it is feared they are lost.

Captain Randall of the steamer George W. Elder spoke the waterlogged derelict after leaving the mouth of the Columbia yesterday afternoon. He placed water and provisions on the ill-fated craft and returned and reported the occurrence. Tugs were sent to her relief and after much difficulty she was towed in and beached. She will probably be a total loss.
