(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Helena, Mont., Nov. 39.—Joe Jackson imbibed too freely of whisky at Williston, N. D., which caused him to be made a target for jests. This was resented by Jackson in an emphatic manner. Drawing his revolver he fired four shots at Dr. J. H. Belyea, one of which just grassed the physician's scalp.

Chief of Police Markell essayed to arrest Jackson and was shot through the hip. The crowd finally, subdued Jackson, but before his revolver could be taken from him he also shot the driver of an express wagon who ansisted in his arrest.
