

MRS. CHADWICK HAS PRELIMINARY HEARING

Is Taken, a Prisoner, Before United States Commissioner.

MAY BE COMPELLED TO PASS NIGHT IN TOMBS

Carnegie Wires Denial of Notes—Cleveland Throws More Light on Her Dealings with Banker Newton.

(Journal Special Service.)
New York, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Chadwick left the Hotel Bristol at 3:45 o'clock this morning in charge of Marshal Henkel having been arrested last night. They drove to the federal building where she was given her preliminary hearing before Commissioner Shields. Her son accompanied her.

When she arrived at the federal building she was in a fainting condition, and leaned heavily on the arm of her son and maid. Two deputy United States marshals helped her into the elevator. She was then placed on a couch in a private office, where she soon recovered her composure.

The prisoner asked for the morning papers in which to read the account of her arrest.

Attorney Philip Carpenter, who with Attorney Powers will represent Mrs. Chadwick, asked for a half hour's delay in the proceedings, as he wished to consult his client.

After a short conference the officials decided to fix her bail at $15,000, and Attorney Carpenter left at once to arrange for her bondsman.

An arrangement was also reached for a brief formal hearing and an adjournment to December 17. Mrs. Chadwick was finally brought into court at 11 o'clock, assisted by Marshal Henkel and Attorney Carpenter.

After the hearing Mrs. Chadwick returned to the United States marshal's office, where she swooned on a couch. She will remain in the marshal's office until this evening in order to give her attorney time to find bondsman. If bail is not forthcoming by 5 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. Chadwick will have to spend the night in the Tombs.

Mrs. Chadwick and her pet mare. This photograph was taken in Cleveland, O., when she was Mrs. Hoover and was seen every afternoon driving down Euclid avenue. The animal was a prize winner and the Brunnell cart was high with red wheels and a yellow wicker basket body. After a time she drove a pair of white Arab trotters that cost $2,500 and used to pass anything on the road.

CARNEGIE DENIES.

Says Positively Never Signed Notes—Newton Transaction Shows.

(Journal Special Service.)
Cleveland, O., Dec. 8.—Prosecuting Attorney Keeler received the following message from New York today, signed Andrew Carnegie:

"I never signed such notes and have no notes out. I hope you can arrange to execute my affidavit here."

The Cleveland Press today prints a story purporting to throw light on the dealings of Mrs. Chadwick with Banker Newton, who loaned the Cleveland woman $100,000 and who has been claiming, and still claims, the debt will be paid.

It is asserted that Mrs. Chadwick's business dealings grew out of an introduction to the Boston attorney through Charles A. Eaton, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church of Cleveland, of which John Rockefeller is a leading member, and that Banker Newton, who loaned the Cleveland woman $100,000 and who has been claiming, and still claims, the debt will be paid.

Rev. Eaton makes a statement in which he says Mrs. Chadwick never attended his church, but appeared unbidden and asked his advice regarding her financial affairs.

The pastor admits he sent her to several legal firms with a suggestion that she place her affairs in their hands. Since that time he has seen nothing of the woman.

A lawyer to whom Mrs. Chadwick went was in Boston and is a relative of Eaton, through whom an introduction to Newton was obtained.

ANOTHER ANDREW CARNEGIE.

Pittsburg, Dec. 8.—Although it has been known to many since the name of Andrew Carnegie, the steel master, became connected through report with that of Mrs. Chadwick, the great fortune teller, it was not until yesterday that there were two Andrew Carnegies. The second is the son of the great philanthropist's brother, Timothy Carnegie, and has assumed a good portion of his life here, but at present is in New York. Prior to his marriage he was regarded as a wild. Officers are now trying to discover whether he has connection with the famous notes held by Mrs. Chadwick.

COUNCIL MAY NOT GET SEWER REPORT

Mayor Williams Says the Second Tanner Creek Inquiry Is for His Personal Benefit and He May Consider it Private—Investigators Finish Their Work.

Mayor Williams may not make a report to the council or to the executive board on the Tanner creek sewer. He stated today that he cannot say what he will do until his committee of experts and property owners reports to him.

"This is a committee appointed by me to satisfy myself regarding the work done in the sewer," he stated this morning. "I had reason to believe that the report of the former committee was not just, and because I was dissatisfied with it I decided to name another committee to go into the sewer and make a thorough investigation for my own satisfaction. I wanted to know just what defects there were, and what it would cost to repair the conduit before I took any action on the recommendation of the council."

"I do not know that I shall submit the report of the committee to the council. It would only be a courtesy on my part to do so, as I am under no obligation to report to the council the result of the investigation. This is my committee, appointed by myself."

SHERIFF CLOSES PORTLAND CLUB

Nate Solomon's Defiance of the Authorities in Operating a Racing Handbook, Results in Raid on Gambling House—Proprietor Arrested and Deputy Placed in Charge.

Upstairs were Nate Solomon, Pete Grant and others who receive the money and attend to the financial end of the game, while downstairs were the blackboards, form sheets, markers and the crowd of plungers, all busily engaged shortly after noon today, when Under-Sheriff Morden, with a cordon of deputies, entered the Portland club, Fifth and Alder streets, placed Solomon under arrest, closed the saloon and stationed officers at every entrance to the great gambling house, where Solomon is said to have conducted a book on racing events for the past two weeks.

The raid was thoroughly unexpected. The place was crowded with sports. At a blackboard a marker was posting the entries and odds on San Francisco and Los Angeles races. Solomon, Grant and others were in the office of the club on the second floor. In the ken room on the same floor were those who are said to have received the money when bets were made, made entry of the transaction on a note book and given no slip or other evidence to him who bet.

A crowd of loungers was in the saloon, 150 Fifth street, where Pat Powers presided in a white apron. Almond-eyed messengers were busy cleaning up the place and responding to bell calls. The place was a scene of activity and industry.

Simultaneously deputy sheriffs entered from the Fifth and Alder street entrances. Morden went at once to the office while other deputies guarded the doors, prohibiting those who were in from emerging from the building and others from entering. Solomon was told to consider himself under arrest for conducting a book-making establishment.

"If I'm under arrest that's all there is to it," he replied, "but I have not sold tickets on a race nor accepted money in that way."

He was taken at once to the court house, where his bail was fixed. He was accompanied by Larry Sullivan and others, who declared their intention of providing bonds as soon as the amount was fixed by the court.

No other arrests have been made up to this time, though it is stated that the markers and all attaches and employees of the place will be taken into custody.

Pat Powers, in charge of the saloon, protested vigorously against the closing of his place. He declared that the doors opening from the saloon into the room where the game is said to have been running could be closed by the officers,

ALMOST A PANIC ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE

Lawson's Assault Batters Down Amalgamated and Pacific Mail, Others Suffering by the Raid.

"Sell Your Last Share," the Plunger's Advice That Starts a Terrific Onslaught on Standard Oil Holdings—Brokers Go Wild.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
New York, Dec. 8.—After a very severe chastising of the Amalgamated forces by Lawson, the wealth of the Standard Oil was put into the fight and some remarkable gains in prices were made. The scenes of wild excitement occurred this morning and at times the situation bordered on a panic. The trading reached an enormous volume, the sales for the day amounting to 2,580,100 shares.

Lawson's prophecy of Tuesday was fulfilled and Amalgamated led in the downward crash. The first bulletin today advised the holders of Amalgamated to sell "your last share." He continued: "Roosevelt is just beginning his work. It is Tobacco today. When it gets to insurance and trust companies business will begin." He concluded: "Sell Sugar and the entire list for the time being." He also advised the sale of Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Atchison.

The following list shows the principal losses of the day:

	Close	Close	Loss
	Wednes.	Today.
Amalgamated	141 1/2	141 1/2	$2.75
Sugar	63 1/2	61 1/2	2.00
Brooklyn	20 1/2	20 1/2	1.00
C. & O.	48 1/2	48 1/2	2.00
Colorado F.	48 1/2	48 1/2	2.25
Louisville	14 1/2	14 1/2	1.00
Pacific Mail	48 1/2	48 1/2	4.25
Tennessee C.	71 1/2	69 1/2	2.00
Steel	29 1/2	29 1/2	1.50

The battle today was entirely in the hands of the Lawson forces until near the close, when every available man and every cent that could be possibly mustered into the fight was used in the effort to defeat the doughty Bostonian.

The Amalgamated forces took a new course of revenge today, for the continued attacks of Lawson and Pacific Mail went scurrying before their mighty influences. As a result of the fight Pacific Mail, which is usually one of the most inactive stocks on the lists, suddenly attracted all the attention, and at the close the price of Lawson had cut its price from 43 1/2 to 38, a slump of $4.25 for the day.

Lost an Opportunity.

At one period of the session the Lawson men had Amalgamated down another $9, but being assured that the crowd would continue to sell without their aid, the minutes whose fallow were left desolate, for had they stayed with the bearing operations, it would have been well nigh impossible for Amalgamated to have made the subsequent recoveries that it did.

Amalgamated opened from 67 to 65, showing a loss of from $1 to $1.50 a share. Then there was a small bullish feeling and quickly the price went to 68 flat. This is where Lawson began his work today. He sold and sold Amalgamated until the price made a sudden downward jump to 59 1/2, the lowest point of the day and practically $9 lower than the closing of Wednesday. By degrees the Standard Oil crowd moved the price up to 55 1/2. Here it met with spirited opposition and went back to 53 1/2. Then there was another upward spurt and 55 1/2 was reached. The closing was 1/2 point under this.

Threatens Receivership.

Last night Lawson made the announcement that he would apply for a receiver for the Amalgamated Copper company, but on what grounds he did not state. He said he would substantiate every statement he had issued against the most Rockefeller trust, and added that he was placing advertisements in Europe and America for publication tomorrow, that will bring a crisis in the stock market. "I am delighted," he said, "because I have caught the 'frenzied financiers' off their guard in their manipulation of Copper and Steel stocks."

Lawson's enemies are putting out many ugly reports. One was that he has been paid by the Bucketshop league to break the market. Another is that he would probably be arrested for threatening a receivership for Amalgamated Copper.

But Lawson is master of the day. Even his enemies admit that.
