WORKING NOW FOR PUBLIC'S BENEFIT

Morrison Street Bridge Will Be Opened to Car Traffic for Christmas Trade.

MANY CAUSES GIVEN BY CONTRACTORS FOR DELAY

Handsome Waiting Rooms Will Be Welcome Feature of the New Structure.

"We are trying to get the draw span of the Morrison street bridge closed in time to accommodate the Christmas ers," said Frank M. Butler, manager of the Pacific Construction company. The company is a few weeks behind but ligh water last spring and a number of additions and changes of plans are good causes for the delay. We are doing a careful job. The work has been carried forward to the present stage without killing a man, or even seriously injuring careful job. The work has been carried forward to the present stage without killing a man, or even seriously injuring any one."

Mr. Butler expects to have the bridge ready for street car traffic a day or two before Christmas, and by the first of the year to have it open for pedestrians and teams. All of the machinery for operating the draw span is now hera. It consists of gears, wire and three 30-horse electric motors—one for controlling the draw, another for the gates, the third in reserve. The machinery is being placed as feast as it is unloaded. Driving of piling for the east approach will be completed today, and the flooring is now being placed. The two east spans are practically done. Block pavement is being put down, and the sidewalks and railings are already completed. The long protection pier that reaches up and down stream under the draw span is completed.

After the bridge is opened work will continue for some time. The temporary

After the bridge is opened work will continue for some time. The temporary controller house will be replaced with a permanent structure, and waiting rooms for public use will be built at each end of the draw span.

"These waiting rooms will be a feature of the Morrison street bridge," says Mr. Butler. "They will be provided with toilet rooms, and other conveniences, and will have a seating capacity sufficient to care for the large crowds that often are obliged to wait at the draw span in very stormy weather."

given by friends. She was completely paralyzed. A physician was hastily summoned, and it was only by prompt and heroic action that her life was saved. As soon as possible she was taken to her home, 129 Fourteenth street. It is said that linemen were working on Front street yesterday morning and in some way a telephone wire became crossed with several other heavily charged lines.

CITY EMPLOYES WANT ADDITIONAL WAGES

In the action brought by the employes of the Portland water board to collect wages from the city in addition to what was paid them, a motion to make the reply to the plaintiffs more definite and certain was argued before Judge George yesterday. The employes claim that under the new charter they cannot be paid less than $2 a day for eight hours work, but that the city attempted to settle with them at about $60 a month for 12 hours each day. The action is brought to secure the balance due.

According to the argument the out-brought to secure the balance due.

According to the argument the outcome will depend upon the construction of the new charter and the clause printed at the top of the payroll in small print saying that the employe had received the sum set opposite his name in full of the amount due him, H. K. Sargent, attorney for the employes, stated to the court that the men did not know that clause was there when they signed the payroll.

THE GRAND PRIZE WINNER AT THE ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION

All that has ever been claimed, written or said of the virtues of the Hunter Whiskey has been fully confirmed and indorsed by the International Jury of Awards at the St. Louis Exposition, and in addition to the Gold Medal awarded, a certificate for the highest order of merit in all the elements of a perfect whiskey singles it out exclusively as the winner of the Grand Prize, and makes it conspicuously honored in the highest degree.

Against an army of competitors its superior quality and superb flavor won these distinctions from a committee of experts, who have thus stamped the seal of approbation on this perfect product of the still, and given it the right to its title, the World Winner Whiskey. This it will maintain by an undeviating purpose to give the article to the public atts uniform standard of purity and excellence.

Its success has been founded on true cellence.

Its success has been founded on true business principles, to gain the confidence of the public by giving it what it demands in the perfection of production, which cannot disappoint, and this will be the standard for the future.

Mr. Bates' work was for his own in-terests primarily, but he was given space for interviews about the exposi-tion by all the prominent papers where-ever he went. He found the business situation brightening materially every-where. The iron and steel industry is bristling with prosperity. Manufacturbristling with prosperity. Manufacturing concerns for mining and milling machinery were crowded with orders. A heavy business is being done now, and a better one is assured for the coming year. All of which, the Portland man predicts, will redound to the advantage of mining and all northwest industries

POLICE NET OUT FOR THE UNDESIRABLES

Rag, Tag and Bobtail of the City's Population to Be Arrested Wherever Found.

Police Captain Bailey threw a bomb shell-into the ranks of the undesirable persons who infest the city when he instructed the patrolmen on the second persons who infest the city when he instructed the patroimen on the second relief to arrest them.

"In this city there are a large number of men who do not work," said the captain. "Some of them live off the earnings of fallen women. The list includes men suspected of many minor offenses.

"Never 'pass up a man' you know to be living off the earnings of a woman. You officers know these men, and where they hang out.' I charge you to arrest them whenever you may meet them."

It is said the order of Captain Balley is the logical sequence to the institution of a rockpile by the mayor and city engineer. If the executive board forces Chief of Police Hunt to abolish his "kangareo court," such characters as come under Captain Balley's order will find life in Portland thorny.

The order came as a complete surprise to the policemen. Chief Hunt has always refused to have the persons mentioned arrested. He made it plain, however, a few days ago that he intended holding Captain Balley responsible for the conduct of the office during his watch, and it is evident the captain has taken the chief at his word.

Special attention of officers was directed to Variler's liquor house, at Second and Davis streets, opposite "Liverpool Liz's" dive.
