JIMMY BRITT IS VICTOR OVER DANE

After Twenty Rounds of Terrific Fighting Roche Gives Californian Award.

BRITT UNABLE TO LAND A KNOCKOUT

Record Breaking Crowd Goes Wild as Referee Points Out the Winner.

San Francisco, Dec. 31.—Jimmy Britt received the decision over Battling Nelson at the end of 20 rounds of terrific fighting last night at Mechanics' Pavilion. Referee Roche made the award on points, and the great throng of spectators went wild with joy over the success of a native son, while those who backed the plucky Dane were loud in their protests against the decision. From the 12th round until the final tap of the song Britt was master of the situation, and after that he fought with greater determination. Nelson's ability to bore in on the Californian was the means by which he punished Britt, and if the Dane's long arm work had been more effective, his chances would have been greatly enhanced. As it proved, Nelson did a great deal of leading, but it was from a close range, and consequently lacked the steam that a longer blow would inflict. Britt, on the other hand, was a marvel in the use of both hands, his left keeping the Dane at a safe distance, while his right worked havoc with his opponent's head and stomach. Britt's blows were cleaner, and it was only Nelson's magnificent constitution that prevented him from being knocked out. In the latter rounds Britt battered the Dane in a determined effort to knock him out, but the stubborn Dane refused to be knocked out.

The crowd that witnessed the contest was one of the largest in the history of San Francisco fights. Sports from far and near were on hand, and Mechanics' Pavilion was completely jammed. The authorities compelled the managers to release the gallery overflow, so great was the upsurge of rush, and hundreds crowded down on the main floor.

HE MEANS SCOTT'S

Your doctor says you must take cod liver oil. Probably he means Scott's Emulsion because you cannot take the clear oil; no one can take the clear oil who needs cod liver oil. The doctor understands that and doubtless means Scott's Emulsion of cod liver oil which everybody can take because it is emulsified and prepared so that it can be very easily digested by the most sensitive stomach. Most everybody likes it.

Round 12—Britt missed a right hook for the body. Britt drove a wicked right uppercut to the jaw, but the blow was returned with great force, Nelson landing three rights to Britt's face. Britt recovered quickly, battering Nelson at will with right and left swings to the jaw. He varied it with terrific left body punches, but Nelson fought back desperately and planted two lefts to Britt's face. Britt sent two lefts and a right swing to the jaw.

Round 14—Britt sent a straight left to the face, and in a mix Nelson put left to the body. Britt sent in four consecutive left jabs to the face, and followed it with left and right swings to the jaw. Britt jabbed three lefts to the face, and they went against the ropes in a clinch. Britt again stabbed a left to the face. Nelson landed a right to the face.

Round 16—Nelson forced Britt to the ropes, but the latter covered up, and the Dane's blows fell short. Nelson kept forcing Britt about the ring, and Britt's efforts to land on the Dane were fruitless. Suddenly Britt got in his range and landed right and left swings on Nelson's jaw. Nelson went at Britt hammer and tongs, landing his right and left blows on Britt's head and jaw.

Round 19—Nelson forced Britt about the ring. Britt then hooked his left twice to the body and they went to a clinch. Britt swung left hard to the ear and then swung a left to the body. Nelson chased Britt about again, but Britt met him on all occasions with straight lefts to the face, which he varied with a hard right swing to the ear and a left hook to the body. Britt put another left hook to the body and they clinched. Nelson caught Britt napping and swung two rights and a left to the jaw, rocking Britt's head. Britt came back with right and left swings hard to the jaw.

CORRIGAN WORRIES RACING MAGNATES

His Presence in New York City Has Aroused Interest in Race Muddle.

WILL WESTERN CLUB HELP NEW ORLEANS?

Gossip of the Turf That Will Interest Those Who Like the Ponies.

New York, Dec. 31.—The presence in this city during the week of Ed Corrigan, the western racing magnate, has centered interest in the muddle in racing affairs caused by the refusal of the Western Jockey club to give dates to the new racing association at New Orleans. Mr. Corrigan is known to be a friend to the new association, and is anxious that it should be recognized. He refused to talk for publication about the question, and in fact it was impossible to get any line on the business which brought him east.

All sorts of rumors have been current as to what is going to happen in the south and west. At one time it is said on apparently good authority that there will be a fight to the finish with a circuit outside the jurisdiction of the Western Jockey club. On the other hand, the statement is made on apparently as good authority that everything will be settled satisfactorily and the clash will pass away.

Whether there is a division of dates at New Orleans and a new schedule by the Western Jockey club, to be arranged at a special meeting to be called soon, remains to be seen. One thing is regarded as certain here, however, by those who know the backers of the new track at New Orleans, and that is they will have racing, either inside or outside the Western Jockey club.

The position of the racing authorities may have an important bearing on this fight. They do not recognize the rulings of the western people, so that if an outlaw circuit is established it will not affect the standing of those who participate in it, so far as racing in the east is concerned, and the way eastern racing is conducted now, the small owner has plenty of opportunities to keep his string busy from early spring to late fall in the east.

This fact may have a powerful influence on the action of the Western Jockey club.

There may be a similar case in the east before long. The Morris, who owns the Morris Park track, where the races of the Westchester Racing association have been run, may apply for dates, now that the Westchester association has gone to Belmont Park.

It would be interesting to know whether under the racing law in this state the claims of Morris Park for dates could be legally ignored by the Jockey club, if the officers of that body contemplated turning down such an application.

If dates should be given the Morris Park track, it is probable it would be boycotted by the big men of the eastern racing world.

conceded that Mr. Whitney's mare are second to none on this side of the Atlantic in the matter of quality. Clarence H. Mackay, who, like Mr. Thomas, is a new man, has leased Lucien G. Appleby's Silver Brook stud and put Maddier at the head, with Banastar as the English stallion's chief assistant. R. H. McCarter Potter is at Pequet, in Sussex county, with Knight of the Thistle, Buck Massey, Royal Star and Flambeau. The old Ranocoso stud is at Johnstown. Andrew Albright Jr., is at Eatontown and Herman B. Duryea is near by. Over in Pennsylvania, close by, are located the studs of A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, and the Clydes and Robert Russell.

NOTES OF THE BATTLE.

It is with honest regret that The Journal is compelled to announce today that the following prediction regarding the outcome of the Britt-Nelson fight was crowded out of yesterday's Journal: "We pick Jimmy Britt to win tonight's fight. We do not think that after the 10th round is over Referee Roche can give the award to any one but Britt."

The usual howl will go up now that a Native Son won the fight. Aside from localities, it must be conceded that Jimmy Britt is one of the cleverest fighters for his weight that the world has ever seen. Nelson, too, is a great Penney's Treasurer Issues Statement of Money Made Made Out of Athletics.

(Journal Special Service.)
Philadelphia, Dec. 31.—The report of C. R. W. Packard, treasurer of the U. S. P. Athletic association, for the fiscal year ending September 1, 1934, shows a less profitable year than that of Harvard. The receipts from all sources at Harvard in its fiscal year were $118,823.25, and the expenses $75,304.55, leaving a net profit of $43,518.70, while in the same period Pennsylvania's receipts were $11,522.15, and her expenses $78,257.27 (nearly $700 more than Harvard's), leaving a net profit for the year of only $1,944.91.

Inspired by their success in the intercollegiate athletic world, the University of Pennsylvania A. A. directors decided at the association's annual meeting to construct a $50,000 training house on Franklin field. Half of the money has already been raised, and the remainder will be secured by means of a mortgage. It is expected that the new training house will be ready for occupancy by next fall. It will be used to house all of the athletic teams, and when completed will be the finest in the country.
