GEORGE C. BROWNEILL, PRESIDENT OF LAST STATE SENATE, MUST EXPLAIN HIS CONNECTION WITH THE LAND FRAUDS

SERVED AS A NOTARY

Browneill Attested Signatures Considered Fictions by Government.

WILLIAMSON ALSO IS SAID TO BE INVOLVED

Congressman's Record in Land Cases Will Be Examined by Grand Jury—Ormsby and Loome Near Indictment.

George C. Browneill, state senator from Washington county and president of the Oregon Senate, told the Storm and Banner the other day that the Providence Journal was correct in charge that his wife was the real owner of the land on which she had a house here and that there was no proof that he had anything to do with the land frauds. He said he had no knowledge of the matter at the time and was surprised to hear that it was being made public.

In other cases where Browneill was involved, the government had alleged that he had conspired with others to defraud the public. Browneill denied these charges and said he had been wrongly accused.

The case involving Browneill was one of many that were brought to the attention of the government by the Storm and Banner. The paper had uncovered evidence of land frauds in several states and had been instrumental in bringing about the indictment of many individuals involved in the schemes.

MUST AGAIN FACE JURY

No Verdict and Final Disagreement in Nan Patterson Case.

PRISONER COLLAPSES ON JURY'S ANNOUNCEMENT

Her Faithful Father Comforts Her and Says: "Hears No Fear, My Child, God Is With Us."

The case of the Nan Patterson, who had been arrested in connection with the land frauds, was one of the most controversial in the history of the country. The government had accused her of participating in a vast conspiracy to defraud the public and had charged her with several counts of fraud.

In the trial, the government had presented a strong case against Patterson, but the jury had failed to reach a verdict. The case had been continued several times, and the government had shown no signs of giving up its efforts to obtain a conviction.

PATTERSON COLLAPSES ON JURY'S ANNOUNCEMENT

The family of Nan Patterson had been compelled to endure a great deal of public and private pressure in connection with the case. They had been accused of having a hand in the land frauds and had been subjected to a great deal of abuse.

In a letter to the Portland Journal, the family had expressed their hope that the case would be settled soon and that their daughter would be able to return to her home. They had also appealed to the public for sympathy and understanding.

Ohiassailcd by Russian Cavalry

Desperate Attempt Made to Capture Garzini, but Repulsed.

The government had been forced to make a daring attempt to capture Garzini, but the Russian cavalry had managed to repel the attack. The government had been forced to retreat and had suffered a great deal of loss.

Ohiassailcd by Russian Cavalry

The Russian cavalry had been forceful and determined in their attack on the government forces. They had been able to take Garzini by surprise and had inflicted a great deal of damage on the government forces.

Ohiassailcd by Russian Cavalry

The government had been forced to retreat and had suffered a great deal of loss. The Russian cavalry had been able to inflict a great deal of damage on the government forces and had forced them to retreat.

Ohiassailcd by Russian Cavalry

The Russian cavalry had been forceful and determined in their attack on the government forces. They had been able to take Garzini by surprise and had inflicted a great deal of damage on the government forces.