Shipped More Wheat in December Than Any Other Port on Pacific Coast.

NEARLY HALF MILLION BUSHELS GO FROM CITY

All Sound Points Combined Did Not Ship as Much of the Cereal.

According to a statement prepared by the merchants, more wheat was shipped from Portland during the month of December than from any other port on the Pacific coast. It is estimated that 117,228 bushels of wheat were shipped from this port within the past 30 days...

Compared with the corresponding period of 1903, the shipments of wheat and flour for the month are much lighter. In December, 1903, there were sent from the Columbia river 158,352 bushels of wheat and 185,823 barrels of flour.

FRIGHTENED PEACE FLED FROM THEATRE

For a Moment at the Great Good Will Conference War Was Imminent.

TOO MUCH ENGLISH WAS SAID TO BE APPARENT

Resolutions Commend the Administration for Its Efforts to Negotiate Arbitration.

One thousand participants in a "peace" meeting at the Marquam Grand yesterday afternoon were suddenly interrupted from their original purpose to an argument which ran its course through a red-hot exchange of words.

It was all about politics. It became known that at the meeting Dr. Wise would present a resolution commending Roosevelt and Hay for their efforts toward universal peace.

M. S. O'Shea precipitated the disturbance after hearing the resolution presented by Dr. Wise, which was as follows: Resolution Adopted.

"This mass meeting of the citizens of Portland, Or., January 1, 1905, wishes to place on record its approval of the policy which we believe in peace on other lands on behalf of the arbitration of national differences and disputes through reference to an international tribunal.

"When he had finished, a man in the audience suggested that the "other side" be heard.

"There is no other side; this is a peace meeting," were the cries which were heard from all parts of the theatre.

Among the speakers were Dr. R. J. Wilson, chairman; Rev. Father James Black, who represented Archbishop Christie; Dr. E. P. Hill, of the First Presbyterian church; Dr. T. L. Elliot, pastor emeritus of the First Unitarian church; Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., university; Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, C. E. S.

NOT MEDICINE

Wood, and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of Temple Beth Israel.

Governor Chamberlain sent his regrets, stating that the meeting had his commendation.

"And from all I can tell of conditions here in Portland," added Dr. Hill, "it might be just as well for us to resolve this meeting into a vigilance committee."

"None of us is a believer in peace at any price," said Dr. Elliot, "yet there is no peace where one should be happier to stand on New Year's day than on a peace platform. Peace at any price is ignoble, but war that could be averted by amicable settlement would be a terrible evil and would hurl us back into barbarism."

"The blood of a nation determines its history, and the history of a nation determines its blood. You can study a nation just the same as you would study a herd of cattle. It has been said that if you take the blood of an honest man and place it in the veins of a politician you might make a nation of him."

"The speaker concluded by drawing interesting parallels between British and American history, always speculating on the benefits to the nation of her young men. Had not the killed and strongest of them been killed in battle?"

"Up to the time of the reading of the resolutions the audience and the various speakers, all of whom, particularly Dr. Hill's depiction of how peace was endangered in the duties of a Christian performance, and ought to be preserved by liberty-loving people as one of those rare outbursts of oratory that could only emanate from a heart that had the courage of its convictions and a soul filled with righteousness."

"I do not know; the viva voce vote to table the resolution showed a strong following, the different standing votes were responded to under circumstances so confusing that a great many did not know what they were voting for, at least that is my view of the matter. Personally, I believe what Lord Russell said before the arbitration court in our Venezuelan matter, in effect under present conditions, 'any nation that contemplates the arbitration of international disputes is unjust, there was no power on earth to enforce them, and this is true today.'"
