Wrestling is again getting a slight foothold in this country, especially in New York and in the far west. It had a great run in England, but the people there have tired a little of it, and prefer the boxing game. Just now Jenkins, Carkeek and others have taken up their abode in San Francisco, with the hope of booming things there. At present Frank Gotch of Iowa is the holder of the catch-as-catch-can championship of America, having defeated Tom Jenkins for the title. Jenkins claims the match was not won legitimately by Gotch, but as the referee awarded him the verdict the title goes to the Iowa man. Harvey Parker has been the recognized 140-pound champion, but his defeat by Alex Swanson, a New York man, of that title. George Hackenschmitt, the Russian, is the world's champion, having met and defeated all comers in London, including Jenkins. The record of big events for the year is as follows:

At London, January 11—Jack Carkeek, the American wrestler, achieved many honors in the international tournament. In the final round he threw Chappel, the Swiss expert, and won the tournament.

At Buffalo, January 15—Walter Willoughby of that city won the middle-weight wrestling championship from Ed Atherton. Willoughby won the first fall in 20 minutes and the second in 10 minutes.

At Bellingham, Wash., January 18—Champion Tom Jenkins was defeated by Frank Gotch of Iowa in one of the hardest fought wrestling matches in the history of wrestling. At the end of his first bout Jenkins was carried to the hospital and restoratives had to be administered. In the second bout, seeing that he was sure to lose, Jenkins deliberately fouled Gotch by placing a strange hold on him, and when the Iowa boy got away from him Jenkins slipped a vicious blow at Gotch, but failed to land it. Gotch weighed 190 pounds and Jenkins 210.

At London, January 20—In a Greco-Roman wrestling match, for the championship of the world and a purse of $10,000, George Hackenschmitt, a Russian, defeated Ahmi Madrali, a Turk. Madrali's arm was dislocated in the first bout. Hackenschmitt weighed 230 pounds and Madrali 214.

At Buffalo, March 1—Tom Jenkins failed to throw Jim Farr twice in one hour. He secured one fall in 20 minutes.

At Iowa Falls, March 10—Frank Gotch, the champion heavyweight wrestler, in a handicap match, defeated Chris Eason, the strongest man on the Pacific coast.

At New York, March 11—Tom Jenkins defeated John Piening in a mixed style match.

Baltimore, March 15—Shad Link won the title of heavyweight catch-as-catch-can wrestler of the south by defeating George Burlingame. Link won two out of three falls.

At Chicago, March 22—John J. Rooney, the "grinder," sent Peter J. Vlasar, the Boer wrestler, down to defeat.

At St. Paul, Minn., March 24—Clarence Bouldin, Cuban, defeated Max Lutzberg two in three falls.

Baltimore, April 15—Gus Schoenlein defeated Harvey Parker in two straight falls.

At Seattle, Wash., May 13—John Berg defeated Tom Davies and won the championship of the Pacific coast. Davies was rendered almost unconscious, but wrestled to the end of the bout.

At Vancouver, B. C., June 15—Dan McLeod defeated Chief Tom Feathers in two straight matches.

At London, England, June 10—George Hackenschmitt defeated Tom McInerney.

At Buffalo, June 27—Frank Gotch defeated Jim Farr in two straight falls.

At London, England, July 2—George Hackenschmitt defeated Tom Jenkins of America in two straight falls, mixed style. It was for the championship of the world.

At Vancouver, B. C., August 6—Frank Gotch defeated Dan E. McLeod in a catch-as-catch-can match, taking two of three falls.

At Vancouver, B. C., August 5—Frank Gotch defeated Dan McLeod in two straight heats, catch-as-catch-can.

At Davenport, Ia., October 25—Farmer Burns won from Grippman Rooney of Chicago in two of three falls.

BUTTE MINERS WANT BASEBALL TEAM

Indications Point Towards a Change in the Northwest League.

A SIX CLUB LEAGUE MAY BE ORGANIZED

McCloskey Will Have Helena Again, But Wilmot May Resign.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Butte, Mont., Jan. 9.—From present indications it is believed that 1906 will be a banner baseball year for Butte. The big mining camp is ordinarily a good ball town, and there is no reason why the club from here, under popular management should not become a winner. Local enthusiasm and interest in the main things needed, but very often not found, are here in abundance.

The burning question is whether the present Pacific Northwest league will continue or whether it will be enlarged and whether Butte will enter a newly projected league. In the latter case it is probable that a new franchise would be procured and the Butte club would enter and start the season upon an altogether different footing. The plan in favor just now is to have a six-club league taking in Butte, Spokane, Boise, Salt Lake, Helena and either Great Falls or Ogden, with the chances in favor of the latter. Butte, Spokane and Salt Lake are three as good baseball towns as any minor league could desire. Ogden is another place where there is money and a fondness for the game. In fact, Ogden fans are still " sore" because Boise got the league membership away from them last year because the Idaho town offered a little more of the filthy lucre. Besides, Boise had the valuable services of McCloskey, which won it the pennant. It looks as though McCloskey would get hold of Helena this year.

It is in the year of 1906 that the league must become firmly established, if at all. Matters in Butte will come to a focus very soon. It is possible that Manager Walter Wilmot, who holds the franchise for the local club, will step back and that some one else will become the manager here. The fact, however, that he has reserved 25 players does not look that way. He is much interested in securing better rates from the railroad. It is pointed out that they have agreed upon a 1-cent rate to the Portland exposition, and the question is asked why they should not be thus liberal with the ball league and its members. This matter will be taken up within a few days.

There is some excellent material among the fifteen men whom Mr. Wilmot has reserved. They are Dewling, Hoon, Vashinder, Sporer, Rosch, Bandell and Howell, pitchers; Spencer and Swindells, catchers; Huber, second base; Runkle, shortstop; McHais, right field; Shafer, first base, and Kane, third base.

How the Cue Men of Multnomah Are Shooting in the Competition.

FOOTBALL PLAYER RESENTS CRITICISM

Approves of article labeled "Sporting Comment" in the Sunday Oregonian.

Although there were no races for the America's cup during the season of 1904, international yachting was not entirely neglected. Commodore Plant's fine Herreshoff schooner Ingomar, representing the New York Yacht club, went to foreign waters and captured a locker full of cups in England and Germany. She won most of the races in which she participated, despite ridiculous handicaps in some instances.

The races on this side of the Atlantic for the Cape May and Brenton's Reef cups—both of which were won by the three-masted schooner Atlantic—were international events, because the cups have been held in England, and are within the reach of yachts of any nation in the world.

There was no racing for the Canada's cup, now held by the Rochester Yacht club, but the Royal Canadian Yacht club has challenged for a series of races in 1906.

The Seawanhaka cup, now held by the St. Lawrence Yacht club of Montreal, was sailed for at Montreal early in August between the White Bear, representing the St. Paul Yacht club of that name, and the Noorna, representing the Canadian club. White Bear won the first and fourth races of the series under conditions which gave encouragement that she would take the fifth and deciding contest. But the Noorna beat her in the last race, after an exciting contest, in which the White Bear at one time looked like a winner. The margin at the finish was only 18 seconds.
