

BURGLARS LAUGH AT PLAIN CLOTHES MEN

Chief of Police Hunt Has Lot of Amateurs. Searching for Clever Criminals.

THREE PLACES WERE ROBBED SUNDAY NIGHT

No Arrests Have Been Made, But Police Have Description of the Articles Stolen.

During the last few days Chief of Police Hunt and a number of men to his detective department. Patrolmen have been assigned to plain clothes duty. By this method, it was figured, the reign of crime in the city would be speedily broken and slipped sooner or later. As three more burglaries were reported at police headquarters last night, Donnerberger & Rademacher, plumbers, engaged in business at 44 Fourth street, reporting that the lead pipe to be used in plumbing operations at Dover and Vaughn streets was stolen yesterday evening. The pipe was worth about $35.

The night watchman at the Standard box factory informed the police that two men in a skiff stole a log from the company's boom Saturday night. It is believed this explains the loss of a large number of logs in the few weeks. The men rowed down river. For the third time in a month the store of J. A. Milton, at 268 Gilsan street, was broken into last night. Tools were stolen, along with other articles, the first time. Last night the thieves secured three saws, a square and a few other instruments used by carpenters. Word was received from E. B. Woods, city marshal at The Dalles, by the police yesterday, that a man arrested there on a charge of burglary had made his escape. His description was given and the police were asked to try to locate him at the authorities at The Dalles are reasonably certain the fugitive is in this city. His name is not known, even to Chief of Police Woods.

Considerable dissatisfaction exists in the department over the manner in which the chief has selected the "plain clothes men." Instead of assigning men to detective duty who have been on beats for some time, he has chosen thoroughly and are familiar with the habits and devices of criminals, he has bestowed his favors on recent accretions to the force.

UNCLE SAM REQUESTS RETURN OF LENA'S CREW

Will Formally Demand That Parole Breakers Be Sent Back.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—It is practically certain that Russia does not volunteer to send back to this country the three officers of the Russian cruiser Lena, who broke the parole they had been given by the United States government, by leaving San Francisco and going back to St. Petersburg, the United States government will make a formal and strongly worded request that the men be returned.

Not only in the United States government responsible to Japan to a certain extent for keeping the crew of the Lena within the United States, but the departure of the three officers constitutes such a breach of international honor that Russia, in addition to being asked to return the parole-breakers, will probably receive a hint that she should otherwise make amends.

Mr. Jones will hold two services each day this week, one at 2:30 p. m., the other at 7:30 p. m.

POLICE DISGUISE AS STUDENTS FOR RAID

Youthful Patrolmen Rig Up as College Boys to Seize Law-Breakers.

New York, Feb. 20.—An unusual experiment was resorted to by the police at an early hour this morning in an endeavor to apprehend law breakers. A crowd of youthful patrolmen new on the force, rigged up as "college boys" and started out. All wore sweaters, broad brimmed, slouch hats with gay bands, and each carried a new broom. They had been supplied with alleged fraternity pins, borrowed from a Sixth avenue pawnbroker.

The gang made for Seventh avenue. As they rounded the corner they saw "Boola Boola" and marched arm in arm down the middle of the street, "Old Nassau," "Fair Harvard," "Far Above Cayuga Water," "For God, for Country and for Yale" all rent the early morning air.

As the bunch turned into Twenty-ninth street and headed east, they struck up "Here to Good, Old Yale, Drink Her Down."

An unsuspecting person opened the door of her house and cried, "Oh, look at the college boys."

The gang turned right and shouted "Zip, Bing, Bah" as they went through the door. The house was raided from top to bottom and nine persons taken to the police station.

RETIRING PASTOR SCORES CHURCHES

Rev. C. M. Smythe Says They Are Not Close to the People.

NO CHRISTIAN HELPED PARIS HOUSE RESIDENTS

"Trained Choirs Sing Anthems for Cash and Nobody Can Understand a Word."

Rev. C. M. Smythe, who retired as pastor of the Mississippi Avenue Congregational church, is so full of criticism of the churches, especially the larger ones. He says they are not accomplishing the work for which they were intended and are getting farther and farther away from the altruistic idea.

"How many of the members of these big churches on the west side with their highly salaried pastors and choirs were present when 20 friendless girls were turned out of the Paris house and taken to jail?" asked he.

"Was there one present from the W. C. T. U. or from any of those church organizations to say a kind word or give assistance to these poor unfortunates? No, there was not one.

"The churches are not practical, and do not reach the humble. It takes $150,000 a year to keep the churches on the west side. There are some big churches, and many of them have trained choirs which sing anthems for cash, and no man can understand a single word they say."

"The small churches on the east side are being absorbed by these big churches. The members care so much for show that they fall in their duty toward the fallen. Why do not these big churches vote a portion of the $150,000 they use every year to help unfortunate girls, such as were arrested in the Paris house the other night? If much real good might be done if money was used in this way."

WANT LEGACY LEFT BY MRS. AMANDA W. REED

The Portland Women's union, by Fred V. Holman, attorney, today filed a demurrer to the contest of the will of the late Amanda W. Reed. The demurrer is on the ground that the petition for a contest does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action or entitle the petitioners to the relief prayed for in the petition.

The Portland Women's union, which maintains a boarding-house for girls at Fifteenth and Flanders streets, was given $1,000 in the will of Mrs. Reed, and the heirs have filed notice of contest, alleging that Mrs. Reed was a resident of Pasadena, Cal., and that the will was not filed in accordance with California's statutes nor drawn in compliance with the law of that state.

(Continued from Page One.) prosecution never before equaled in the history of Russia. These men must be found if Russian autocracy is to be maintained, and there is strong suspicion that the arch-conspirators are of the highest nobility of the empire.

THE BREWER FOR 1923.

According to Frank D. Smith, hat manager at Ben Sellings, the 1923 hat styles will not show so many extreme shapes or perhaps better known as freak shapes, but will make the best showing of styles ever exhibited to the public. "Hatsmakers," said Mr. Smith, "vie with one another this season in haberdashery, as it were. The Brewer has the better competition in many important particulars. We are showing not only the greatest number of shapes in stiff and soft hats, but have all the colors, such as tan, light brown, with contrast trimmings and trimmings to match."

A beautiful half page color advertisement in yesterday's Journal announced the Brewer's spring opening.

Behind the 25 feet of plate-glass of the Morrison street window is shown the most complete display of Brewer hats ever made in this city. A distinct feature is made of the Brewer hat, although the firm carries other standard makes. The Brewer is carried exclusively by Ben Sellings, and is widely advertised as the best $3 hat in the world. The firm is to be congratulated that at each recurring season something original is shown, not only in the design of the opening announcement, but in the window display as well.

SEVENTY-FIFTH YEAR OF ARCHBISHOP RYAN

Anniversary of Catholic Prelate is Quietly Observed in Philadelphia. Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 20.—Archbishop Ryan entered his seventy-fifth year today. In accordance with the expressed wish of the archbishop there was no public demonstration; but all day long congratulations in person or by messenger deluged the beloved head of the Pennsylvania diocese.

Few persons outside of those in clerical circles are aware of Archbishop Ryan's age, as he is hale and hearty and has a gray hair in his head. He was born in 1851 near Thurles, Tipperary county, Ireland, and attended a private school at Dublin until 16 years old. He then entered Carlow college, where he received his ecclesiastical training and was ordained sub-deacon. In 1857 he left Ireland for America and became connected with the archdiocese of St. Louis. At the age of 31 he was appointed professor of English literature at the Carondelet (Mo.) seminary and ordained deacon with the privilege of preaching in the St. Louis cathedral.

On September 4, 1863, he was ordained priest and made assistant pastor of the cathedral, which position he filled until 1866, when he became its rector. In 1860 he was transferred to the Annunciation church, St. Louis, where he remained for 12 years, acting also during the Civil war as chaplain of a military hospital and prison. He was consecrated coadjutor bishop of St. Louis in 1872, and while visiting Rome in 1884 was given the honorary title of Archbishop of Salamina by Pope Leo XIII. On June 3, 1884, Archbishop Ryan was removed from St. Louis to Philadelphia as successor of the late Archbishop Wood.

The archbishop enjoys splendid health and spirit, and continues to give his personal attention to all the details of his high office. He is an early riser. His first duty of the day is the celebration of mass, which usually takes place in the little chapel adjoining the cathedral. The first few hours are set aside for the reception of priests and pastors. Two hours following this are accorded to general visitors. Dinner as a rule is served at 1 o'clock. If the weather is fine in the afternoon the prelate generally takes a long walk.

Although a great orator, Archbishop Ryan has but very few of his thoughts on paper. He has written a number of books and pamphlets. He is a member of the Society of the Holy Sepulchre, the Society of the Holy Family, and the Society of the Holy Trinity.

CANARY BIRD TAUGHT TO TALK LIKE PARROT

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 20.—A canary that talks is attracting attention of the ornithologists of this city. Miss May Somers is the owner of the remarkable bird and had little trouble in teaching it to enunciate as distinctly as an educated parrot. The canary's vocabulary is limited, but it shows a disposition to learn to say other things besides "Pretty bird," "Such beauty," "Pretty beauty," its present repertoire. These he pipes and chirps with a squeaky turn of his pretty head.
