Despite Wittenberg Block Ad-Joining Hawthorne School Is Chosen by Board.

CHARGES OF FAVORITISM BRANDED AS MALICIOUS

Director Fails to Push Through Motion-Small Consolation in Denunciation of Bayer,

After months of delay a site for Portland's new $100,000 high school building was selected at a meeting of the city board of school directors last night. It will be located on the block adjoining the Hawthorne school at East Aider and East Fourteenth streets.

The members of the board, except Henry Wittenberg, were anxious to have the site selected. When J. V. Beach proposed to settle the question, moved to adjourn. There was no second to his motion but R. K. Warren remarked that it was late, and that if there was to be any long discussion over the selection of a site he desired the matter postponed.

"There will be no long discussion," replied Mr. Beach. "I believe a majority has decided where the school should be located."

"I object to the selection of a site at this time," said Mr. Wittenberg. "There should be no hurry. Delay will be for the best interests of the district and the children. We have no plans adopted for the building, and as for criticism, let's get all we can. Those who were urging us to settle this matter are all personally interested. Why should we in haste make this decision now and be sorry for it afterwards?"

specifications for this building very soon. It is good weather now, and we are losing time."

When the motion was put on the selection of a site, Wittenberg called for the ayes and nays. All voted in the affirmative until his name was called when he replied:

"I vote no, most emphatically, no. Please put me on record, Mr. Clerk, as saying that this is a very grave mistake."

saying that this is a very grave mistake."

A discussion of the accusations against the board recently made by J. C. Bayer, a furnace centractor, to the effect that favoritism had been shown in the past to centractors; that the heating plants in the schools were deflective and did not give satisfaction, and that old heating apparatus taken from the school buildings was given to the contractors, occupied a large part of the evening. D. J. Phillips, superintendent of furnaces, presented a lengthy document showing that the furnaces were giving far better service than the old ones and at a less cost.

"I believe this letter of Mr. Phillips should be published, and make a motion to that effect,' said Wittenberg.

"I do not favor such a proposition," replied Richard Williams. "This man was not asked for an opinion. He was formerly employed by Contractor Mc-Pherson, who put in these new furnaces, and of course he would defend them."

"Mr. Phillips is here; what has he to say to that?" inquired Mr. Warren.

Mr. Phillips arose and stated that he had never been employed by Mr. Mc-Pherson, but worked for the Portland General Electric company.

"Those furnaces are not giving as good satisfaction as the old ones, at any rate," said Williams.

"I defy you to prove that," retorted any rate," said Williams.

"I defy you to prove that," retorted Wittenberg. "The heating does not cost more than half as much as formerly. When the year is over you will find that the district will have wood to sell. I believe the board should make some reply to clear itself of the stigma which has been placed on it by the false statements of Bayer. He has accused us of jobbery and of giving away the old heating plants, all of which is false. I am able to defend myself, but the board would be justified in making a protest, and in branding Bayer's statements as false."

"Respectful silence is the best," added Mrs. Sitton.

"I think so myself, only I desire to brand these statements as malicious, villainous lies," added Wittenberg.

BENEFACTOR

Dr. C. W. Harris is Instruct-ing Others That They May Become Benefactors of the

The remarks about the wonderful ork of Dr. C. W. Harris, which have consionally appeared in The Journal om time to time produced so many equiries from people who wished to will themselves of his knowledge that appeared to be his manifest duty to such this wonderful system of treating-Hirsch building, where Prof. Harris will explain the principles of his treatment.

The work has appealed to many people as little short of miraculous, but Prof. Harris discourages any such notion. The person who comes under his care soon learns that the system which he practices is entirely rational and hased on simple scientific facts. It is soon so thoroughly comprehended by the patient that he is able to maintain himself in a state of perfect health, which the treatment establishes.

This is one of the most wonderful features of the work—Dr. Harris not only cures disease of every nature, but makes it impossible for disease to exist in the patient thereafter. To make such a statement is easy, but to prove the statement time after time as he has done during the last few months, establishes it as a fact. All physicians and scientists, every man who understands the physiology of the human race, knows that if the organs of circulation, secretion and excretion are in perfect order, a condition of health exists. Healing by the use of the methods as practiced by Dr. Harris, restores the organs involved to the proper performance of their normal functions and disease is eliminated from the system by the natural workings of the body itself. In other words, nature effects the cure after being set to work by Dr. Harris. This control over nature's actions is exercised until the patient is permanently cured and so strengthened physically that the system is fortified against renswed attacks of disease, Moreover, the patient is instructed in the methods used, as to be able afterwards to exercise this same control over the functions of his body. So you see that every detail of the plan is perfectly sensible, and for that reason it has appealed to thinking, reasoning men and women. There is no attempt at that every detail of the plan is perfectly sensible, and for that reason it has appealed to thinking, reasoning men and women. There is no attempt at mysticism, no desire to appeal to superstition or any of the lower or more sordid impulses of man. Commencing tomorrow, Dr. Harris will consult and advise patients relative to their discases free of charge; provided, however, they bring this article to his office at 3854. Washington street. Mail. communications are promptly attended to, and calls will be made in any part of the city at reasonable rates if one does not care to come to the office, or is physically unable to do so.
