COMPANY FORMS TO NAVIGATE UPPER RIVER Local Men Head Corporation That Will Build Boats and Operate Them.

The portage railway engineer's report of work done the last week shows considerable difficulty encountered as a result of sand storms along the route between Celilo and Big Eddy. Much time of the workmen has been taken in cleaning out sand that blew into the cuts, and requiring embankments that were partially blown away.

An additional force of 25 tracklayers has been put on the work. The pile-driver has been started at bridge No. 4. Carpenters are putting finishing touches on bridge No. 4. The new locomotive has been at work since Tuesday, and gives entire satisfaction to the chief engineer. At Big Eddy the washhouse, foundation posts and sills are in place, and the structure will be rushed to completion the coming week.

PIONEER'S LIFE ENDS IN THE HOSPITAL

An attack of paralysis on Friday ended the life of Thomas M. Richardson yesterday afternoon, at St. Vincent's hospital. He was a pioneer contractor, and among the older monuments to his industry are the Snake, Columbia and Willamette rivers and their tributaries.

Mr. Richardson was president of the Industrial exposition held in Portland in 1891, on West Washington street. He served on the Port of Portland commission, the water commission, the first executive committee of the chamber of commerce, and other public bodies. He was a member of the Scottish Rite Masons.

He was a native of Ireland, and when very young came to America, landing at Montreal, and four years later he moved to Vermont. He was afterward a resident of Bloomington, Illinois, and St. Joseph, Missouri, and in 1863 he crossed the plains to Oregon, settling in Portland. He was married in 1874 to Julia E. Trewinger. He was survived by two sons—Frank J. Richardson, a member of the law firm of McGarry & Richardson, and Thomas H. Richardson, a civil engineer.

WOULD HAVE WHOLE CITY PAY FOR BRIDGES

Residents of South Portland met in Weber's hall last evening to continue their protest against the city's taxation plan of payment of the cost of the city's bridges. W. T. Burney was chairman and D. L. McLeod acted as secretary.

Thomas Ashton Will Judge the Dogs.

Thomas Ashton, the well known English all round judge of dogs, has been engaged by the Portland Kennel club to officiate as judge at the coming show. Mr. Ashton has the reputation of being an excellent and impartial judge, plays no favorites and gives honor to whom honor is due. Exhibitors will undoubtedly be pleased with the club's selection of a man of international ability.

ALBEE'S PETITION IS LAST ONE FILED

Candidate for Mayor Almost Loses Chance to Go on Ballot for Nomination.

LONG LIST OF NAMES FILED BY ASPIRANTS

Nearly Eight Hundred Voters Ask Devlin to Run Again for City Auditor.

H. R. Albee, candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor, was almost too late in filing his petition with the city auditor yesterday. He appeared at the city hall just two minutes before the auditor's office closed. Had he not been on time his petition would not have been accepted, and his name could not have been on the nominating ballot at the primaries.

Several other candidates were also very late in filing their petitions. Among others was A. F. Fiegel, Democratic candidate for councilman at large. He came to the city hall with Mr. Albee. Between 3 and 4 o'clock 80 candidates filed their petitions. For a time it looked as if a large number had forgotten that yesterday was the last day for filing the petitions, but all appeared before the office closed at 6 o'clock.

Judging from the numbers of signatures to the petitions the candidates for the chief offices have about an equal chance of nomination. City Auditor Devlin, who is a candidate for re-election, has the names of 776 voters on his petition, the largest on any petition filed. No candidate opposes him. J. E. Worlein, candidate for re-election to the office of city treasurer, has the next largest petition with 739 signatures. His opponent, J. W. Beveridge, has 277.

Of the candidates for Mayor W. B. Glafke has the largest number of voters signed. The list follows: Republican, W. B. Glafke, 296; Fred T. Merrill, 235; H. R. Albee, 211; George H. Williams, 207; H. B. Boye, 219; Spencer H. Cooper, 222; Democrat, Harry Lane, 197; George H. Thomas, 132.

For the office of city attorney L. A. McNary has 428 signatures to his petition and E. T. Taggart, 184. For municipal judge Otto J. Kraemer has 873 signatures; Albert Ferrara, 432; George J. Cameron, 299; T. B. McDevitt, 277; Gustav Anderson, 211. A. C. Peterson, Democrat, has 125.

Several of the candidates for councilman at large have long lists of names. Thomas Gray, Republican, 685 Raleigh street, declared himself a candidate for councilman at large yesterday afternoon, and C. R. Debus, 185 East Seventh street, and W. E. McGregor, 851 Belmont street, declared themselves Republican candidates for the nomination for councilman from the Eighth ward.

LEGAL HOLIDAY ON OPENING OF FAIR

Governor Mead of Washington Pays Especial Honor to Lewis and Clark.

OTHER WESTERN STATES MAY DO LIKEWISE

Commissioner Fairbank of Massachusetts Says New England is Taking Interest in Fair.

Wilson H. Fairbank, executive commissioner from Massachusetts to the Lewis and Clark exposition, returned from a trip to Boston this morning, bringing with him Mrs. Fairbank. They will remain in Portland from now until the close of the exposition.

According to Mr. Fairbank, the people of New England are widely interested in the fair, and from his own state there will be a very large representation of visitors. The Massachusetts building is almost ready for the decorators, and it will be one of the most handsome of state structures.

Governor Mead of Washington today proclaimed the opening day of the exposition a legal holiday in his state and issuing other proclamations for the special days of Idaho cities. Montana has also expressed this intention, while Lieutenant-Governor Sir Henry Joy DeLatholpe of British Columbia chief officer has about an equal chance of nomination.

The plans for an emergency hospital at the fair grounds, which have been in preparation for several months, are practically complete. Dr. K. A. G. Mackenzie will be the medical director of the establishment, and it will be thoroughly and modernly equipped for the preliminary treatment of any and all sick or injured on the grounds. Adjutant-General Finzer has been requested to name a detachment from the hospital corps of the Oregon guard for service in the hospital department.

Dr. E. E. Sherwood, who was an important attaché of statistical headquarters at St. Louis, has been appointed chief clerk of the admissions department, under Director Davidson.

Governor Pardee of California, president of the National Irrigation congress, has fixed the dates of the annual session in Portland August 21 to 24, inclusive. The Trans-Mississippi congress meets August 18 to 19.

Leander Martin of Portland, formerly a resident of Watonga, Oklahoma, is promoting an excursion of Oklahoma people to the Lewis and Clark Fair in July. He is planning through the Portland Commercial club to call a meeting of former Oklahomans now living in Oregon.

The National Editorial Association, which holds its convention at Guthrie, Oklahoma, in June, will leave that city in a special train for Portland immediately on adjournment of the convention, and Governor Ferguson will accompany the editors. The entire party will spend several days seeing the exposition and the Pacific northwest.

Officer L. C. Fones reported to Captain of Police Bailey last night that two additions to the force had arrived. Twins, a boy and girl.
