Wool MAKES SHEEPMEN HAPPY

Advance of Three or Four Cents Inevitable Over Prices of Last Year.

MUCH OF THE CLIP HAS BEEN CONTRACTED FOR Better Methods on Ranges Have Made Flock Owners Rich in Short Time.

"Eastern Oregon wool, not already contracted for, will bring 20 to 21 cents a pound for the lighter mountain grades, before the selling season is fairly opened. This will be an advance of three to four cents over the market of last year for the same grades. The Pendleton and common territory will be able to sell for 20, and at The Dalles and Shaniko the price will be slightly higher, owing to the better freight rates allowed The Dalles region because of the water competition."

The foregoing statement was made today by a heavy dealer in wool from eastern Oregon, who went on to say: "Last year the choicer grades of wool brought 16 to 17 cents at Pendleton, and correspondingly more at Shaniko. The crop was rather heavy, taken up, and the buyers apparently believed the market this year would be strong. At any rate, they came into the market last winter and this spring, and wrote contracts for the clip at lower than 10, and a portion of the inland empire clip was taken in this manner."

"It leaves comparatively little that is not contracted for, and that which has not been pledged will bring a high price in response to the sharp demand that is inevitable. This situation will operate to the advantage of the eastern Oregon wool growers in two respects—the price will be high, and the local supply will be large, for the clip this year is bound to total even above the average. A few years ago sheepmen in the interior were chagrined in their methods. They seldom provided against severe winters, and there was no protection to sheep if lambing came at a time when storms prevailed."

"Now they have learned better ways, and everyone who pretends to be up to date in the business has sheds sufficient to protect the sheep while lambing, and the possession of an abundance of hay is regarded as the pre-requisite to every winter. Lots of money has been made of late years in the sheep business in eastern Oregon, and in spite of short range the growers have prospered."

The world's supply as reflected in the London sales is short of the demand, and the value of the product wherever wool is produced is reasonably certain to be high, according to authorities on the situation.

SAY SEWER COST TOWN A FACTORY

Loss of Scouring Mill to St. Johns Caused by Council's Action.

OWNERS OF CONCERN SAID TO BE ANGRY

Those Advocating the Drain Deny Any Motive But Public Health.

The east side office of The Journal is in the store of Mrs. F. W. McKinney, 350 East Morrison street. Telephone East 274.

St. Johns is stirred up over the location of the big wool scouring mill that was regarded as a certain thing for the town, but which was suddenly located at Sellwood. What is causing the controversy is not alone the change of the mill site, but the belief held by leading members of the Commercial club that this change was caused by the action of the council in forcing the woolen mill management to build a sewer to the river.

At a meeting of the club Wednesday night it was openly charged that personal feeling had caused the circulation of the petition to force the mill management to build the sewer at once, and that the management had promptly decided to locate the scouring mill, or at least had advised that the plant be located elsewhere.

E. L. Thompson, secretary of the Portland Woolen mill, stated before the St. Johns council passed the resolution on the sewer that the company was going immediately to build a sewer to the river for the sanitary benefit of the workers there, and it is alleged that after this statement direct action by the council was taken to force the mill management to build a sewer to the river.

Councilmen and those who signed the petition reply that the sanitary conditions were bad and that it was not generally known that any change was contemplated, those interested in the petition merely desiring to avoid the risk of an epidemic this summer.

CHARTER NOT SO BAD.
State Printer Ousted Most of the Critics in St. Johns' Instrument.
Some of the questions which have been troubling the St. Johns council regarding its power under the new charter were cleared away by the visit of City Attorney Greene to Salem, where he made an inspection of the charter as passed by the legislature. It was discovered that the things which had been troubling the St. Johns citizens were caused by the plentiful mistakes of the state printer, who had apparently changed the charter at will and omitted various important sections. The charter as amended by the legislature was apparently not altered after it left the clerk of the house, and the mysterious charges made to that effect are proven groundless.

Among other things, it was discovered that the omitted sections give the St. Johns council the right to issue liquor licenses as well as to restrict the saloon business. And the provisions made to allow the bonding of the town are found in the original document, on file in the secretary of state's office, to be regular, so that no trouble will be experienced in selling such bonds as are needed to secure needed improvements and clear up present indebtedness. These two problems have been the chief ones which troubled the council, and their solution will greatly aid the new administration in its work of securing fire protection, paying its officers and building a public dock.

past by the rumors regarding the park, and it is determined that this reputation shall no longer be deserved, if it ever was.

GIVES AWAY AUSTRIAN'S LUMBER

A peculiar case was heard in the east side justice court this morning and the judge was asked to determine whether a man who takes lumber when it is given by a person not the owner of it can be held liable. J. K. Haverly was the defendant in the case, J. C. Fuyks charging him with unlawfully taking $250 worth of lumber which was stored on the property of J. A. Strowbridge. From the evidence it appeared that Strowbridge grew tired of seeing the lumber on his land and placed a sign, "Free Wood," over the pile. Haverly passed with a team, noted the sign and inquired, "Help yourself, it's free," said Strowbridge. Haverly did, and when Burke came to haul his lumber away he discovered he had been saved the trouble.

SEEK KID-FOOTED SUSPECT

St. Johns had an experience with a "snipper" man Wednesday night and the local officers were busy yesterday looking for a man with large feet. The residence of R. Hurlburt was entered Wednesday night, the intruder turning the key from the outside and opening the door with a skeleton key. The trousers of Mr. Hurlburt were taken and the pockets rifled, the garment being left in the back yard minus a $20 gold piece, which Hurlburt had received that afternoon by cashing a pension voucher. The only clue left was the imprint of a No. 11 shoe in the soil by the door.

O. R. & N. WILL EXTEND

The Oregon Railroad & Navigation company has purchased a right of way for an extension of its east side line now ending at the St. Johns woolen mill, to the tract recently purchased by the Weyerhaeuser Lumber company. Surveyors have been at work laying out the line of the extension and work will be commenced early in the summer.

IRRIGATION WORKS WILL BE CLOSELY INSPECTED

In June Portland will be visited by a party of interior department officials who have charge of irrigation affairs, accompanied by members of the senate and house committees on irrigation. The delegation is coming to the Pacific northwest to inspect irrigation works begun by the government, and a visit to the Lewis and Clark fair will be incidental to the trip.

Ho, for Seaside.

Commencing Sunday, April 25, and each succeeding Sunday until the end of May, the A. C. R. R. will sell special round trip excursion tickets from Portland to Seaside and return for $1.25, good going Sunday morning and returning Sunday evening.

DECISION REVERSED.

(Special Dispatches to The Journal.)
Olympia, Wash., April 21.—The supreme court today decided, in the case of the Washington Liquor company against Lisale Shaw of Spokane county, that because goods bought are to be used for an unlawful purpose is no defense to an action for the recovery of the purchase price. The decision reverses the lower court.
