

OPENING PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR FAIR

Exercise That Will Inform the World June First Exposition
Doors Are Ajar.

JAMES A. TAWNEY WILL REPRESENT CONGRESS

It is Expected That Fifty Thousand People Will Witness Ceremonies.

The program for the opening services of the Lewis and Clark exposition at noon on June 1 is practically completed. James A. Tawney will represent Congress. It is expected that fifty thousand people will witness the ceremonies.

Archbishop A. Christie of the Roman Catholic church will pronounce the benediction. It is not yet decided who, if any one, will speak for the United States senate. It may be that Congressman Tawney's speech will embrace both houses of the national legislature.

It is expected that fully 50,000 people will attend the opening. This at once precludes the possibility of the ceremonies taking place in the Auditorium. A platform will be located between the number gardens and the band stand.

CHIEF DOG BATTERS VISIT FAIR GROUNDS

Tomeley and Democnut, Representing Head Hunting Igorrotes Hens.

STILL ASTONISHED AT SIGHTS IN AMERICA

Main Body Remains at Seattle in Close Proximity to Kennel Club Exhibition.

Two Igorrotes, known as Tomeley and Democnut, the former chief of the band, arrived from Seattle this morning with Dr. T. S. Hunt, manager, and C. E. Moody, financial agent of the Igorrotes Exhibit company. They were in the fair grounds this morning at the Igorrotes village.

There are 51 natives in the company, of which 22 are females. A man aged 51 years walked 200 miles from the wild, mountainous country to join the band bound for America. He withstood this ordeal nicely, but the temperature aboard ship was too much for him, and he is now laid up in a hospital at Seattle with rheumatism.

Mr. Felder, who has been in Portland for some time, arranging for the exhibit, was the executive commissioner of the Philippine commission to St. Louis. There, he states, no other educational exhibit was visited by nearly as many people as was the Igorrotes village, and he promises that a similar record will be made here if satisfactory arrangements are made.

The men who accompanied Dr. Hunt to Portland are distinctly representative of the community of Iorotte province, P. I. They are rather stout, all appear to be under 40 years old. They have not yet recovered from their astonishment at the sights in this country; they have been in America about five days now.

LOSS OF MAIL SACK ANNOYS OFFICIALS

Postal Inspector Butler today endeavored to discover some trace of the registered mail sack which was presumably sent from Woodburn to Portland a week ago, but which never arrived. Postmaster Minto said this morning that he was of the opinion that the Woodburn postmaster probably placed the sack by mistake with some other mail, and that the missing pouch might not be discovered for weeks, as it would be easy for it to make the journey to New York before the mistake was noted.

WOODBURNERS MEET

WILL HAVE DOG FEAST.

Igorrotes Demand Banquet in Celebration of Safe Arrival Here.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, April 22.—In order to keep peace in the family, Chief Tomeley says there must be a dog feast for the Igorrotes to celebrate the safe arrival of the band after a long voyage from the Philippines. C. E. Moody, press agent of the party, has agreed that the banquet shall be given just as soon as he can find a good, fat dog without a master.

ORIGINS CHANGING THE BAR.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Astoria, April 22.—Steamer Oregon arrived down early this morning and left for the bar at noon.

DOG POLISONERS HAVE BEEN BUSY

Two dog-polisoners have been busy for three days in Brooklyn addition, and so far nine valuable animals have been killed. Three days ago two dogs died, and yesterday half a dozen more were found dead by their outraged owners. Among the nine dead animals was Don Caesar, the $200 blood hound belonging to W. F. Spencer. Don achieved fame a year ago by tracking a burglar and aiding in his capture, and he was a pet of the east side, where he was probably the best-known dog of the entire district.

FIVE MORE IN THE EAST.

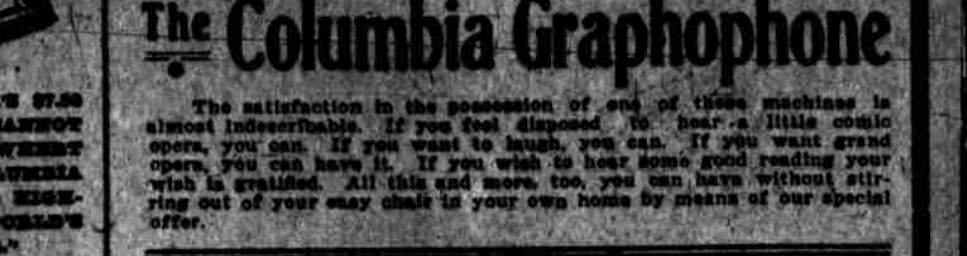

C. J. Schaefer, formerly deputy United States district attorney, has gone east on a trip, combining business with pleasure. He spent a week at Charles City, Iowa, engaged in settling an estate in which Oregon heirs are interested, and then proceeded to the Atlantic coast. He has written to the local passenger agent of the New York Central a very flattering letter concerning the "Knickerbocker Special," the fast train operated by the company between Chicago and New York.

THE PICTURE SHOWS LITTLE MARGARET CARNEGIE

The picture shows little Margaret Carnegie, the great ironmaster's little daughter, and the magnificent home in New York, where she celebrated her eighth birthday, by giving a magnificent party to her little friends, all children of wealthy parents, which was more lavish in its appointments than any that has been given there for grown people.

SOME DOUBTS AS TO NUMBER OF KICKS
Witnesses Disagree Regarding Policeman's Treatment of Edelman in Plaza Block.

JUDGE GIVES PRISONER MAXIMUM SENTENCE
Defendant Thought Effort to "Knock His Block Off" in Keeping With Offense.

Fred Bruns, who has spent his time mainly in "discussing economics and religion" since coming to Portland from Seattle, swore that Patrolman Carlson kicked William Edelman once as he lay prostrate on the grass at the Plaza block.

Paul Graf, who wears long football socks and has a languid air, swore just as positively that the patrolman kicked Edelman twice.

R. Bach, who admitted stating at the time that he was "agin" anybody wearing a blue coat, and refused to deny the question by Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald, swore that his vision was unobstructed and that Carlson "kicked a man snatched a revolver at him, he would have knocked his block off."

Judge Hogue thereupon found the defendant "guilty of disorderly conduct, and assault and imposed the extreme penalty—imprisonment for 90 days and a fine of $200, amounting practically to 240 days in jail.

All this happened in the police court this morning. The hearing of Edelman was exciting throughout. Attorney E. J. McAllister appeared for the defendant and excited the ire of Judge Hogue to a pitch where he ordered the attorney to sit down.

George Wickland of Fremont, Ohio, was denounced by Mr. Fitzgerald as a man who stood by an invoked a crowd to "down an officer in the discharge of his duty, but never thought of assisting him."

It was shown by Carlson and other witnesses that he swears Edelman by tapping him on the soles of his shoes with his "billy." Arising and assuming a bellicose attitude, Wickland drew a revolver which was afterward found to be unloaded, and holding it against the officer snatched it twice. Then he was clubbed. A crowd closed in on Carlson and would have done him violence had it not been for the arrival of Sheriff Wood.

Edelman said he had been drinking, but could remember nothing of what happened until the policeman struck him. Then he appended to the crowd asking "Haven't I a single friend here?" He remembered that the policeman showed him his left hand, which was out and bleeding from being twisted in the guard of the revolver. The defendant said he never carried a revolver, and couldn't explain how he happened to have one in his pocket.

A state charge of carrying a concealed weapon was placed against Edelman, of which he was found guilty, but sentence was suspended. Judge Hogue informed him that a felony charge could be placed against him, and that he had escaped lightly.
