Magnates Alarmed at Wave of Public Opinion in Favor of Government Control.

ORGANIZE CAMPAIGN OF SELF PRESERVATION

Traffic Systems Open Press Bureaus and Try to Convince Shippers.

(Journal Special Service.) Chicago, April 23.—Alarmed at the wave of public opinion which is sweeping over the country in favor of government rail control, railroad presidents are organizing for defense. A campaign of education is being carried on through the medium of a bureau of publicity. These bureaus are expected to feed the press throughout the country with literature which shall portray the railroad side of the rate controversy. In addition the railroad officials everywhere are expected to seize every opportunity and every means to sow the gospel of non-interference by the government with their rate-making power. Steps will be taken to convince shippers that their interests lie with the railroad management's representatives rather than with commissions clothed with powers to say what is a fair rate and compel its adoption. One western railroad president declared "the railroads are in a life and death struggle. We are going to do everything in our power, individually and collectively to defend ourselves and our rights."

GATES' WHEAT CORNER ONLY A POKER GAME

Steel Magnate Reported to Have Only Been Running a Stiff Bluff on Armour.

(Journal Special Service.) New York, April 23.—There is serious doubt in Wall street as to whether John W. Gates really had a corner in May wheat or was merely playing poker with the Armour. Gates prides himself on his ability as a poker player, and cards are only one of the things which he plays the game. It is rumored that Gates was only bluffing with his alleged 30,000,000 bushels, and that when he forced Armour to throw down his cards, the great poker player showed his own hand, which was so empty that a collapse in prices came as a matter of course. At any rate, Gates did not look like a loser of $3,000,000 when he turned up his nose in Wall street today. He looked almost joyful. "You don't look like a man who has been buried under 30,000,000 bushels of wheat," was the suggestion of a friend. "I don't feel like it," he said.

It is Just as Easy to Be Well as to Be Sick!

And it is much more comfortable for everybody concerned. Do you want to be well? If you do, come up and see me. I promise you you'll not be disappointed. I am curing people every day who are just as sick as you are, and I teach them how to keep well after they are cured. I have been in Portland something over eighteen months, and during that time I have treated and cured a great many people. I am well and favorably known here. You can find some one in almost any part of the city who has been under my treatment. The testimonials below are from people who were sick. They got well under my treatment.

One of Many Testimonials

Stomach Trouble Cured in Six Weeks. Portland, Ore., Dec. 1.—To whom it may concern: I suffered two and one half years from nervous disease, and my stomach was so badly affected that I was sick almost all the time. My digestion was so badly impaired that there was no food in my condition of all internal action. I was so weak that all work was a burden to me, and I could scarcely sleep. I tried several physicians without beneficial results. Then I heard of Dr. Fulton, and after taking a few treatments was able to sleep nights, and after five weeks treatment I was cured and my strength gradually returning. MRS. J. N. ## AT THE THEATRES.

"Auld Lang Syne."

The Columbia stock company will sing "Auld Lang Syne" as the final curtain scene of "The Blue Bird" tonight, and after that will pass into history as the greatest stock company that has ever played in Portland. The comedy, "Pink Dominoes," has made a decided hit all week, and one of the largest houses of the season will be present tonight to bid adieu to the favorites a last "Auld Lang Syne."

At the Grand.

Murphy and Andrew, Patsy Doyle and the Fredericks proved themselves the magnetic features of the bill at the Grand this week, and as a result capacity business prevailed. Miss Andrew's "Larynx" continues to please, and Murphy is an original comedian. Patsy Doyle is seen in a light character, but is from the same school as Billy Van. The Fredericks continue to evoke hearty applause, and the "Life of a New York Policeman" by the grandioscope is among the best pictures ever seen here.

Sunday at the Star.

Tomorrow will be the last opportunity to see the big bill which has made such a hit at the Star this week. Dunbar's trained goats should not be overlooked for the evening. "The Marble Heart" continues to please, and please young and old. Daisy Harcourt is a great stage-hand performer, and the rest of the bill is sprinkled with the best of vaudeville talent.

"Marble Heart" Tomorrow.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening there should be large crowds at the Empire to see the opening performance of the great five-act drama "The Marble Heart." This is the first Portland production of the play, but its fame has preceded it, and the Grand stock company has promised to present it on a scale that will be a surprise to those who consider the price as a criterion.

The Lilliputians.

Tonight and tomorrow will be the last opportunity to see the Lilliputians who have made such a hit at the Baker this week. The bill is one of the best of the season, and includes Bassett and Dunbar, Schooner, the Holcomb, Byron and Blinn, Jessi Wilson, James Cooper, and the Bakerograph moving pictures. Commences tomorrow from 2:30 until 10:30 o'clock.

Last of "East Lynne."

Only one more opportunity to see "East Lynne" at the Empire. The new stock company have given excellent production. The well-known play will be a large house. It is an attraction worth many times the price of admission, and the public have been quick to appreciate the fact.

The Oregon Importing Company, the Big Family Liquor Store.

Much comment has been made of late by patrons of the Oregon Importing company as to the excellence of their products. But few people realize that this company represents one of the oldest, if not the oldest, distillers in the United States. The "Edgewood," Registered No. 74, Lincoln county, Kentucky, has been in business for more than 150 years and has employed practically the same formulae, we refused the adoption of using modern methods and up-to-date appliances, for a century and a half. This formulae of distillation is considered among distillers the very best. "Edgewood" undergoes a process of 84 hours and is made in half-barrel vats which produces complete fermentation of each grain of cereal. These whiskies are never sent out under eight years old unless they leave the government bonded warehouses until it is shipped to its agents. The Oregon Importing company a few weeks ago offered its customers a line of 1451 "Edgewood" whiskies which has absolutely no superior, if equal, on the market, and as a medicinal and remedial agent is highly recommended as a tonic and invigorator. The O. I. C. Still, Rye, made by this firm, in point of quality, cannot be excelled and retails for $2.25 for four full quarts, shipped free to any part of Oregon or Washington, and the money will be refunded if the goods are not as represented. The Oregon Importing company is catering especially to the family trade and is building up a large clientele among the best people of Portland and its suburbs. This large establishment is located at 155 Third street. Phone Main 550. Orders, large or small, for whiskies, cognacs, wines or malt, cigars or mineral waters, will receive the immediate attention of the Oregon Importing company.

LOCAL OPTION LAW IS BEING VIOLATED

Prosecuting Attorney at Corvallis Investigating Alleged Breaching of Law.

SEVERAL CHARGES OF GAMBLING TO BE TRIED

Citizens' League to Hold Meeting and Discuss Many Important Matters.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Corvallis, Or., April 23.—Alleged violations of the local option law in this city are being investigated today before Prosecuting Attorney Bryson, and sensational developments are expected within a day or two. A number of suspects and it is expected that complaints will be filed at once. The police have known for some time that liquor was being dealt out about town, but efforts to locate the "boozing wagon," as it has been termed, have proven futile.

Night Watchman Osburn and Chief of Police Lane ran on to a card game in full blast Wednesday night. The affair was not noticed about town until the preliminary hearing before Judge Coffey this morning. The players caught in the act were E. W. Strong, Brown and Mike Cline. Each player held cards, and there were cards on the table, besides $3 in money and a quantity of chips. Complaints charging the trio with violation of the law prohibiting gambling have been filed, and the trial is set for May 11.

Claude Starr, who has been for some time employed as bookkeeper in the Hodes grocery store, has gone into partnership with Mr. Anderson and purchased a grocery store in Albany. Mr. Starr leaves for Albany with his family in a few days to reside. The place in the Hodes grocery will be filled by Lindsay Sharp.

SALEM'S POLL TAX ORDINANCE UPHOLD

Law Provides That No Person May Vote at City Election Unless Tax Paid.

DATE OF WRIGHT AND MONTE TRIALS NAMED

Body of Boy Who Disappeared From Reform School Found in the River.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., April 23.—Salem's poll tax ordinance was upheld by Judge Burnett yesterday. This ordinance provides that no person can vote in a city election unless he has paid his poll tax. It has produced a great deal of discussion and dissent ever since its operation was attempted, and during the last election its provisions were disregarded in some wards of the city. This is the first test case that has been made to establish the validity of the ordinance.

In December, 1924, Charles Lively sued G. P. Litchfield and David Steiner in Justice of the Peace Turner's court for $100 damages. Litchfield and Steiner were judges in the city election and refused to let Lively vote for refusing to pay his poll tax of $3 for that year.

Lively admitted that he had not paid the tax, but asserted that the judges of the election had permitted others to vote who had not paid their tax, and claimed that they showed unjust discrimination and strong partisanship in qualifying him. The decision of the justice court was in his favor, but this was reversed by Burnett, who held that Lively was not entitled to vote in the election, neither was the damaged and refused to let Lively vote for refusing to pay his poll tax of $3 for that year.

Date of Trial Set.

The trial of Harry Wright and Charles Monte, who are accused of furnishing the guns to Tracy and Merrill, will be produced this morning for May 22. This was the date desired by District Attorney McNary, but the attorneys for Wright and Monte both made strong pleas for maintaining action over to the July term.

Both of these men will try to prove that they were not in or near Salem for several days prior to the break. Wright will produce two witnesses, Van Horn and Cavanaugh, both of whom reside within three miles of Seattle, who, he says, will testify to the fact that he was near Seattle at the time of the break and on several days previous.

Monte, for the present, at least, does not have such a definite line of defense. The state seems to be confident that it can secure the conviction of both these men.

Game Warden Reports.

Game Warden J. W. Baker, in his report for March and April, states that arrests and fines have been made as follows: William Havin, killing elk, $25; J. R. Tucker, killing deer, $25.50; Peter Tenell, killing deer, $20.00; C. Haight, killing selling trout, $20; C. Haight, killing W. Frost, having an untaged wild in his possession, $25. Two other arrests have been made, but the cases are still pending.

Finds Body in River.

While taking near the reform school late yesterday afternoon, Tom R. Willson, bookkeeper at the penitentiary, found the remains of Arthur Bailey, a 14-year-old boy, who has been missing from the school since December 9, 1924. On that day he was sent to the pumping station, on Mill creek, to oil the machinery. When he did not return it was concluded by the officers of the school that he had run away, and a diligent search was instituted, but in vain.

It seems now that while he was out over the water he must have lost his balance and fell into the creek. The balance and fell into the creek. The body, when found, was in such a bad state of decomposition that recognition was impossible, and it was only identified by the clothing.

Bailey was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, of Williams, Yamhill county, and was committed to the reform school on October 3, 1924.

ALBANY CITIZENS HOLD BIG MEETING

Purpose to Devise Means to Secure Rebuilding of Woolen Mills Recently Burned.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO MEET DIRECTORS

Attorney J. K. Weatherford Leaves for Pendleton to Defend in Murder Trial.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Albany, April 23.—A mass meeting of the citizens held last evening in response to a call of President M. H. Ellis of the Commercial club, was well attended. The purpose of the meeting was to devise some means to secure the rebuilding of the woolen mills recently destroyed by fire here. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and after several of the leading men had made brief addresses on the value of an industrial institution like the woolen mills in a city, three men offered subscriptions of stock toward securing the rebuilding of the mill. Hon. J. K. Weatherford spoke on the woolen mills as an investment and showed the business community and the woolen community, had always paid better dividends than any other investments could possibly do.

Fred Dawson spoke on the value of a payroll to the business community and his argument went far toward raising the enthusiasm of the business men and starting the ball rolling.

Several others spoke briefly, and F. J. Miller of the Salem Iron works, in a concluding short address, offered to take $1,000 in stock provided $10,000 had been subscribed. J. K. Weatherford, for two institutions he represented, subscribed $750.

At this point a committee was appointed to meet with the directors of the woolen mills and ascertain what would be required from the citizens of Albany to secure the rebuilding of the factory, and amid the greatest enthusiasm, the meeting adjourned. There is not a doubt that the citizens will raise $10,000 in stock subscriptions in a short time if that will have the required result.

J. K. Weatherford leaves this evening for Pendleton where the supreme court meets Monday. Mr. Weatherford is attorney for George S. Miller, the Harney county rapist, who is under conviction of murder, and whose appeal case comes up at the Pendleton term of the court.
