

JEALOUSY AIMED GUN AT VAN DRAN

Joe Young Shoots Four Times at Fellow Saloon Man With Two Hits.

WOUNDED MAN HAS VERY LITTLE CHANCE FOR LIFE

Murderous Assault at Ex-Pendletonian's Bar Said to Be Due to Family Quarrels.

At Good Samaritan hospital, Kasper Van Dran, one of the proprietors of the Washington cafe, 429 Washington street, is in a critical condition as the result of pistol wounds inflicted at an early hour this morning by Joseph Young, proprietor of an adjoining saloon. It is feared that the wounds may result fatally.

Joseph Young.

Police officers who investigated the affair declare that Van Dran's interest in Young's family affairs was the cause of the shooting. Others assert that it was business jealousy that prompted the crime.

Several months ago Young is said to have become infatuated with a beautiful Spanish girl, who is now in the Philippines. He is said to have abandoned his wife during that time, and Van Dran, it is stated, expressed himself freely regarding the affair. His continued opposition to the wife's alleged mistreatment are believed to have caused Young to decide upon the crime that may take him to the gallows.

Shortly after 1 o'clock Young went to Van Dran's place and asked to speak with him. They left the saloon and talked on the sidewalk for 10 minutes. Those in the saloon heard Young telling the other that he was not bluffing, and that he meant what he was saying. He entered the saloon soon after, and Van Dran, who was sitting near the counter, when Young opened fire.

Four shots hit Van Dran. Two shots passed over the intended victim and smashed into the glasses behind the bar. Van Dran rose and started to run toward the end of the bar. Young fired again, the ball striking the victim in the left arm. Van Dran slipped near the end of the bar and was behind the counter when the first shot fired. The ball entered Van Dran's body directly above the right hip, ranging upward and penetrating the body. With a groan he fell upon the floor.

A bullet started toward Young, who drew another revolver, and made as if to fire. Then he placed the weapons on the counter and said he was willing to surrender. Police officers arrived soon after. They declare Young's wife was greatly affected by the affair. The weapons were old revolvers. "As we were taking Van Dran to the hospital he told me that he went to Chief Hunt two days ago and asked him for protection against Young," said Officer Lillis. "He said he told the chief that Young had threatened to kill him. He declared that Young mistreated and abused his family, and that he had helped them. Young resented his interest in his family affairs. Van Dran said, and threatened to kill him if he did not desist."

Van Dran lived with his wife at the Scott hotel, Seventh and Burnside streets. Six months ago he purchased the Stein saloon, which he afterward called the Washington Cafe.

Held Without Bonds. Young appeared before Municipal Judge Hogue this morning for arraignment. He is represented by Attorneys Dan Matarkey and John F. Logan. The case was continued until Thursday. Young refused to discuss the motive that prompted him to commit the crime. He expressed the hope, however, that his victim would recover.

When visited early this morning in his cell by one of his most intimate friends, Young inquired why he was in jail. When informed that he had shot Van Dran and that the latter was in a very serious condition, Young expressed great surprise and regret that he had got into trouble. He stated that he knew nothing of the matter until he had been told.

LOOK TO PORTLAND FOR NEEDED ASSISTANCE

Transcontinental Lines Have Compact Which Means Hands Off Lewiston Country.

Dispatches from New York indicate that the old-time truce has again been patched up between the Union Pacific and Northern Pacific-Great Northern interests, which is interpreted in Portland to mean that there is little hope that an independent building policy will be pursued by either system.

The report is that the Harriman group on Wall street has disposed of its balance of $60,000,000 of Northern Securities stock to a syndicate headed by the First National bank of New York at $150 a share. A short time ago, Harriman sold $20,000,000 of this stock, while prices were falling high, and the sale now being consummated, it is claimed, will clean up all the Harriman holdings of stock in the big merger company.

If this report is true, the truce formed will have a bearing on the various branch line projects that have been asked for by sections now bottled up and denied transportation facilities.

It has been hoped that the transcontinental lines were about to enter the field in open competition for traffic in territory which has been left untouched—namely the country tributary to Lewiston, Idaho, whose people have been presenting to Portland business men the advantages to be derived from building an electric road from Lewiston to Grangeville with a branch to Nez Perce City.

Road Will Be Built.

E. H. Libbey, R. C. Beach and O. A. Kjos, the Lewiston delegation that came to interview the chamber of commerce, left for home last night, prepared to secure data setting forth more in detail the features of the enterprise. Before leaving Mr. Libbey said: "We are going ahead with this project. As soon as we have procured accurate estimates of the cost of the road we will again hold a conference with the Portland chamber, and put the plan for the formation of the proposed company on a definite footing."

The people of the Lewiston-Clarkston country have awaited for years the proper recognition by the railroads of our region. We have endured the delay and from time to time have been deluged with hopes raised by false reports sent from New York.

"Now, we are going to build that road. We will place it on an independent basis, and see that the control remains in the hands of the northwest people who are vitally interested in the project. As we see it, every section that wants a branch line of road should assist us to carry our plans to consummation. For, if we succeed, it will stimulate all other similar projects and forward the development of the northwest in all its phases."

People Must Build.

"It is apparent that the people of the northwest must take matters in their own hands and secure transportation facilities that will in a measure at least make them independent of the larger systems. The Lewiston-Clarkston line proposed to be built to Grangeville would, in connection with the river boats from our town to Cello, the portage road there and the boats on the lower river to Portland, constitute the backbone of a system that would be able to dictate lower rates in an immense region of marvelous productiveness."

Such a line would penetrate the inland empire, and every locality on the road would enjoy the benefits. It should not be difficult for business men to see the force of this. It simply means that an empire of possibilities would be transformed into an empire of reality. It would reap the fruits of the portage road and the government canal at Cascades, which now serve only the country between Portland and the Dalles. Van Dran is confident that the completion of the government canal at Cello, Portland should help.

"Once rates have been lowered because of the success of our project—and they would be lowered at once—they would never rise to their present level. The way for the northwest to win freedom from domination of Wall street railway magnates is to provide independent lines which would force freight rates down, and keep them down."

As long as we await the pleasure of those who control the great transcontinental systems, so long will we lack adequate facilities to develop our resources. We want Portland's moral support even more than its financial help, although the latter should be given, for the plan, if carried through, will bring to this city a volume of trade that will materially swell her revenues.

ly most liberally. He returned some weeks ago from the springs feeling in good health and spirits. The story that Mrs. Young was near the scene of the shooting at the time of the trouble is denied, but Young's mother is said to have called on him an hour or two before the trouble.

Van Dran came to Portland from Pendleton several months ago. In the district of development, he was manager of the Hotel Pendleton for number of years. This hotel is owned by Fred W. Waite, who is lying at the point of death at the same hospital where Van Dran is fighting for his life. The Good Samaritan. Prior to his going to Pendleton, Van Dran was manager of the railroad company's hotel at Albany.

CITY MAY DECLARE ITS FRANCHISE FORFEITED

Corporation Must Submit Plans to City for Approval, Says McNary.

The Portland Consolidated Railway company will have to give service in both directions on its Second street line or forfeit its franchise, according to an opinion of City Attorney McNary, filed with Mayor Williams today. The mayor received a communication from a large number of property owners in Lane county, who were protesting against the plan of the company to put in a single track on the thoroughfare and use it in the nature of a switch. All the cars crossing the Burnside street and steel bridges were to run south on Third street and, returning, run north on Second street, giving service in one direction only. They claimed that the intent of the franchise was that service should be given in both directions at least every 20 minutes. Mayor Williams referred the matter to the city attorney.

COLD NIGHTS CAUSE CATARRH

Everyone Should Use Hyomei and Kill the Germs.

No other season of the year is responsible for as many cases of catarrh as the spring. The warm days and cold nights, with their frequent and sudden changes in temperature, bring the catarrhal "snuffles" to nearly everyone.

The best physicians long ago saw the folly of taking medicine into the stomach to kill catarrhal germs in the head and throat. Air alone can reach these germs, and today the most successful physicians prescribe Hyomei for all catarrhal troubles.

The germ-killing and health-giving Hyomei, when breathed through the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, penetrates to the most remote cells of the air passages and respiratory organs. It searches out and kills catarrhal germs in the head, throat, and lungs, soothes and heals the irritated mucous membrane, and absolutely drives catarrh from the system.

Thousands of testimonials like this of Captain Cameron, in charge of the Salvation Army at Berkeley, Cal., attest to the speedy relief given by Hyomei. Captain Cameron writes: "I have been a sufferer from catarrh of the throat for a number of years, so bad that I could not speak so as to be heard at any distance. The first use of Hyomei relieved me, and I believe that it has given back to me the good voice I had in years gone by."

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar, and includes an inhaler and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks treatment. You take no risk in buying Hyomei. Woodard, Clarke & Co. absolutely agree to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.
