ECHO'S SECOND ANNUAL PICNIC

Thousands Attend and Many Prominent Citizens of Oregon Make Speeches.

WILL DRIVE THROUGH IRRIGATED SECTIONS

Portland and Pendleton Contribute Large Delegations to the Meeting.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Echo, Or., May 6.—Echo's second annual picnic was pronounced by all a most complete success. Between 3,000 and 4,000 persons participated in the exercises and spent a most enjoyable day.

The parade, headed by Grand Marshal Asa B. Thompson with his 100 mounted aides, was an imposing affair, with at least 2,000 in line. Mayor Estab and the city council rode in carriages as did the invited guests and visitors. The exercises were opened by a concert of the Latter Day Saints band of La Grande, followed by an invocation by Rev. I. H. Gobbel. The opening chorus was sung by the Echo choir. Mayor L. A. Estab welcomed the guests and extended the hospitality of the city.

Governor Chamberlain responded to the mayor's welcome, thanking the people of Echo for their hospitality. He was followed by Judge Lowell of Pendleton who spoke on Umatilla county and its resources and of what irrigation had done and would do for eastern Oregon.

Senator C. W. Fulton spoke on "Echo as I see it," paying tribute to the prosperity of a country and its future as one rarely afforded in any land by irrigation.

B. A. Worthington, general manager of the Harriman lines, spoke on the railroad as a civilizer, giving facts and figures showing the enormous increase of population and valuation following the advent of the railroad.

Jefferson Meyers spoke on the Lewis and Clark fair, told why it was given, described its organization and the benefits it would confer upon the state.

Tom Richardson of the Portland Commercial club spoke on the value of the press. He said that all progress must have promoters and praised legitimate article and personal effort as essential to secure success and stated that the example of the parents would be followed by the children, that every one should work with a common aim.

Farming from a professional man's view was the subject of W. M. Colton of the O. R. & N. Co. He stated that experiment had proved the value of alfalfa as superior to grain for young or milk stock and that there was more money in the latter than there was in raising grain, for they could be sold at any time that prices suited.

T. H. Hailey of Pendleton talked on the open ditch. Walter M. Pierce discussed why I am a rancher, stating that farming was the most agreeable profession in the world and better than the law practice. James H. Raley spoke on the nation's wheat crop and said that Umatilla county produced 1 per cent of all the wheat raised in the United States, as well as other wealth in large proportion. Dr. N. G. Blalock of Walla Walla discussed irrigation, of which a practical demonstration will be seen by the Portland party present in the drive through the irrigated sections tomorrow.

The delegation from Pendleton and Portland numbered at least 400. The band and quartet from La Grande helped that from Echo gave frequent musical selections between addresses. The distinguished visitors will return Sunday night.

This afternoon a baseball game took place between the Pendleton high school and the Echo teams, resulting in a score of 3 to 2 in favor of Echo.

LA GRANDE MAN IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

La Grande, Or., May 6.—Joseph Palmer, aged 67 years, president of the Farmers & Traders' National bank at this place, while working on a flume this afternoon, used in running cordwood from the mountains to the electric light plant, fell to the ground, a distance of 14 feet, breaking his hip and several ribs. He was in the act of breaking a jam in the flume. While lying in a helpless condition wood from the flume fell on him, cutting his head and face in terrible manner. He is supposed to have lain in the water about an hour and when found was unconscious. He is in a critical condition tonight.

MARRIAGE UNITES NORTH AND SOUTH

Hobson's Engagement to Miss Hull Is Culmination of Interesting Romance.

BRIDE RELATED TO BEST NEW ENGLAND FAMILIES

Both Parties Have Blood of Leading Southerners Coursing Through Their Veins.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal.)

New York, May 6.—The announcement today by Mr. and Mrs. George Hull of Tuxedo park, New York, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Grizilda Houston Hull, to Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, is the culmination of an interesting romance and marks an alliance which joins some of the best blood in the country. The marriage will be solemnized May 25 in the home of the bride's parents in Tuxedo. Only relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties will be present, the recent death of Judge James M. Hobson, father of Captain Hobson, making it advisable to have the ceremony as quiet as possible.

Although Miss Hull is on her father's side related to the Hulls, Strongs, Farnhams and Doolittles of New England, she is, through her mother, who was Miss Lucia Houston of Kentucky, related to some of the finest families of the south. She is the grandniece of Governor Houston of Alabama, who was recognized as one of the greatest executives who ever presided over the destinies of that state. She, therefore, has in her veins the blood of the Polks, the famous president; Sam Houston of Texas, the Longs, the Joneses, the Eatons and other noted families of Georgia, Alabama, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Hobson's Family Tree.

Captain Hobson, too, comes of a family of famous ancestry, both north and south. Through his mother, who was Miss Sarah Croom-Fearson, daughter of Chief Justice Richmond Fearson, he is related to the Saltonstalls and Brewsters of Massachusetts, and on his father's side is related to the Moreheads, Whites, Williams and others who did much toward the foundation of North Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama. It is interesting in view of the approaching marriage to know that the father of Captain Hobson received his appointment to the judgeship of Alabama from the great uncle of the young woman who soon will be his bride.

After a somewhat extensive bridal tour the young couple will make their home on the one old southern homestead of the Hobson family, "The Magnolias," in Greensboro, Alabama.

General Wheeler Delighted.

Although the fact of the engagement has been kept quiet, already the prospective groom has received many congratulations from friends. Some of them come from his old companions in arms in the United States navy and others from men who have known him for a long time. Those who know Miss Hull are particularly sincere in their congratulations. She is a most charming woman. Gen. Joseph Wheeler, who is a warm friend of Captain Hobson, is among those who congratulated him most heartily. In speaking of the approaching wedding, General Wheeler said:

"If anything was considered to bind the north and south more closely, such weddings as these would do it. My native state is to be congratulated, as well as Captain Hobson, in securing so fair an addition to her citizenship."

CUBANS CONGRATULATE.

Hobson the Great Hero of the Spanish-American War in Eyes of Islanders.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal.)

Havana, May 6.—The news which reached here today of the approaching marriage of Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson to Miss Hull of New York was received with a good deal of interest by the many Cuban friends of the hero of the Merrimac.

Captain Hobson has always been, for the Cubans, the most interesting figure in the naval operations against Spain. Without detracting from the merits of Schley, Sampson and the others, the spectacular nature of Captain Hobson's feat appealed to the imaginations of the Cubans. A banquet was given this week here in honor of the American navy by the Cuban veterans of the war of independence. In commenting on the banquet and its occasion, one of the leading Cuban papers said:

"To vanquish the fleets of Spain was far less glorious than to run the Merrimac right under the heavy guns of the Moro and La Socapa and blow her up. Feats like that of Lieutenant Hobson make one think of John Paul Jones, Lawrence and Farragut."

Many of Captain Hobson's Cuban friends have cabled him congratulations and all of them wish him and his young bride all the happiness in the world.

MORE SPACE WILL BE MADE FOR MINERALS

The Oregon state commission to the Lewis and Clark exposition held a meeting last night at the Imperial hotel, at which money was appropriated for an addition to the mining building in order to accommodate the innumerable displays of fine ores that are daily reaching the Oregon building. Hundreds of tons of ore are on hand that cannot possibly be shown in the main building, and the samples have all been tested and found worthy of exhibit. Hence the decision to build an annex. The addition will not be large, but it will be expensive enough to show the minerals of Oregon in first-class style.

The commission also decided in favor of the publication of a book on Oregon and its resources, the material for which will be furnished by Wallace Nash. The edition will consist of 100,000 copies, and will be printed by the state printer.

DIME ADMIS... ATTRACTS CROWD

Last Day at Low Price Sees Vast Numbers at the Fair Grounds.

OVER FOUR THOUSAND PASS THE TURNSTILES

Nearly Two Hundred Carloads of Exhibits Have Already Been Received.

Taking advantage of the last day of the 10 cent admission, thousands of people thronged the Lewis and Clark exposition grounds yesterday afternoon, women and children predominating in the ratio of at least 25 to 1.

The day was ideal for sight-seeing. Early in the morning the crowds began to come, and the ticket sellers and turnstile operators were constantly at work. But in the afternoon there was a rush that had not been equaled on a week day, and it lasted until the guards were called on last night to clear the grounds. As early as 4 o'clock in the afternoon there had been 1,852 admissions, and Chief Davidson of the admissions department estimated off-hand that before evening at least 4,000 people would pass through the gates at 10 cents a head. This expectation was fully realized; the stiles showed a number, in advance of the estimate.

Worth the Price.

This morning, and from now on, it will cost 25 cents to enter the grounds. It is not expected, however, that there will be any marked falling off in the attendance, for the very good reason that the view of the grounds even now is worth twice that sum. The main group of buildings, of course, were completed long ago, and the landscaping is practically finished.

But beyond this the government buildings rise imposingly, finished except for the scaffolding which is yet to be torn away from a height of about 75 feet. To the right of the main building is a group of totem poles from Alaska that attracted much attention yesterday.

Coming near the main entrance the buildings on the Trail are springing up at the rate of two a day. One cafe is in full operation on the unique highway and sight-seers are able to obtain there almost anything they wanted in the way of refreshment. It was noticeable that beer was sold there yesterday, despite the election.

As to the number of exhibits on hands, it is hardly necessary to say more than that Traffic Manager J. H. Kern has received and checked off 195 carloads of material for the fair, besides about 12 carloads in less than car lots for different consignees. The following table will give an interesting idea of what these mammoth shipments have consisted:

Grounds in Fine Condition.

In the general work of improving the grounds Director of Works Huber is to be congratulated on having made the thoroughfares what they are at this early date. Usually visitors are compelled to traverse board planks, flanked by seas and ruts of mud, after a fifth a few days of the opening. Instead of this the fine gravel leading in from the main entrance is laid and packed solid, making the walks even and comfortable enough to satisfy the most exacting good-roads crank that breathes.

Spencer Clawson, general manager of Utah's affairs at the exposition, returned from Salt Lake yesterday, which showed his friends that a good man cannot be kept down. Mr. Clawson had barely let the contract for the Utah building when he was stricken with rheumatism in the left foot. For three days he was laid up in the Portland hotel, and on the advice of Dr. Rockey he went to Salt Lake to remain until he had fully recovered. In that dry climate the recovery was rapid, and yesterday Mr. Clawson returned, as full of life, vigor and enthusiasm as ever. The Utah building is about ready for the roof. While in Salt Lake, Manager Clawson made arrangements for interesting Brigham Young relics for exhibition purposes.

Director Wakefield has granted a concession to Esther A. Shapiro, of Portland, for the exhibition of the celebrated painting, "The White Slave; or, A Glimpse of the Harem." It is one of the wonders of art, and will have a special building on the Trail.

RUBBER

If suspended side by side on a fence, the hot water bags sold by Woodard, Clarke & Co. in one year would encircle Lewis and Clark grounds. Think comfort by all these ... month.

If spliced in one length, the rubber hose which arrived in one recent shipment to Woodard, Clarke & Co. would reach from the reservoir at Mount Tabor to the Lewis and Clark exposition.

Traveling salesmen for the big Eastern rubber goods manufacturers say that this one store handles a greater variety of rubber sundries than any wholesale rubber establishment on the Coast, and that the quantity it handles compares favorably with what the big wholesalers handle in the same line.

Nearly 40 tons of rubber sundries were sold by Woodard, Clarke & Co. during the last year, and the indications are that this record will be exceeded this year.

Study this list of some of the rubber sundries carried by Woodard, Clarke & Co. It will amaze you to see that so many things are made of rubber.

Quality in Rubber

Pure rubber of fine texture is expensive. Shoddy rubber, that has to be treated chemically, is cheap.

GOES INSANE FROM BETTING ON RACES

Bookmaker Who Lost Several Thousand Dollars Becomes Suddenly Demented.

TAKES THREE POLICEMEN TO HANDCUFF LUNATIC

Jumps Up in Car and Yells at Top of Voice for Horse He Went Broke on.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal)

New York, May 6.—James J. Quinn, who lost several thousand dollars backing Colonial Girl to win the Metropolitan handicap, went suddenly insane today in an Eighth avenue car. Three policemen who tried to arrest him were knocked down, and only after he had been handcuffed and sat upon could he be moved to a station.

Quinn, who lives with his wife and two children at No. 271 West One Hundred and Nineteenth street, left the house early, after telling his wife that he was going to cash his bet. He boarded a north-bound Eighth avenue car at One Hundred and Twenty-third street, suddenly pulled out three racing programs of the Belmont Park races, pinned them on his coat, and, jumping on a seat, shouted at the top of his voice: "Come on, Colonial Girl, come on! Ride, boy, ride! Hooray, hooray! She wins by a neck!"

Policeman Bautelberg, who happened to be passing, grabbed Quinn just as he got off the car. The bookmaker shook himself free, and, turning on the blue-coat, knocked him into the gutter with a single blow. Bautelberg made another jump, and for several minutes the two men, surrounded by a big crowd, rolled and fought all over the street.

Two policemen went to Bautelberg's assistance and summoned a patrol wagon. When the wagon arrived the three men were sitting on Quinn, who had been handcuffed after a fierce fight. He was placed in the police vehicle and closely guarded by the three men was driven to the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station.

Dr. Dinmerick, of the Harlem hospital, examined Quinn and said he thought him insane.

Mrs. Quinn, who was sent for, said her husband had acted queerly for several days. He was taken to Bellevue.

WOMEN LAUGH AS THEY BREAK LAWS

Make Saloons Their Headquarters Day and Night in Violation of Ordinances.

SO NOTORIOUS IS THIS EVEN POLICE KNOW IT

In Plain Sight From Street and Attract the Notice of Passers.

In open violation of the ordinance several saloons on Sixth street, near Couch and Davis streets, are conducted as places where women may be found at all hours of the day and night. The infraction of the law is flagrant in one or two of these saloons women are allowed to sit in plain sight of the street.

Pianos are employed to attract passers-by into these resorts, and around the rear entrances women may be seen hovering at night. Appearances indicate that what is known as the north end district is rapidly extending westward; Sixth street at present is its boundary.

The most open and notorious violation of the law is at the St. Louis saloon, on Sixth and Couch streets, which is conducted by W. Martin. In the rear of this saloon is a balcony, which may be observed from Sixth street. A curtain hangs from the ceiling to the balcony, with spaces about four feet wide left uncovered near the north and south walls.

In front of this curtain is a piano, which was industriously thumped last night. On the left of the hard-working man sat a violinist, extracting doleful inharmony from his instrument. For several minutes a woman sat near the violinist in one of the pathways left uncovered by the curtain.

This balcony is reached by a bar and a side entrance. It is cut up into boxes. The entrance on Couch street is screened from the bar by a curtain.

Diagonally across the street is the Richlieu saloon, conducted by Ellis & Mace. Above the saloon is a lodging house, reached by a stairway from Couch street. A sign notifies the public that there transients may secure rooms. To the left of this stairway is a hallway leading into boxes in the rear of the saloon, and another door, near the foot of the stairway, is marked "family entrance."

Women may be seen going into this saloon through the hallway and "family entrance" every night. Last night a woman stood in the doorway for some time, endeavoring to attract passers-by.

A piano in the saloon is given no peace. The San Francisco saloon, at the corner of Sixth and Couch streets, is also conducted by Martin. Boxes in the rear are reached by a side entrance on Davis street. The music box was dumb last night.

In a number of saloons on Fourth street no attention whatever is paid the ordinance prohibiting women from frequenting such places. The most conspicuous violation of the law was witnessed at the notorious Badger saloon, Fourth and Davis streets. An ill-treated piano announced itself loudly and male and female habitues of the place could be heard trying to sing "Annie Moore." A woman, minus her hat, leaned through a small window opening into the barroom, in conversation with a drunken man, and at times shouted to the men in front of the bar.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS MEET AT LA GRANDE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

La Grande, Or., May 6.—The district convention of the Knights of Pythias met in the county courthouse tonight. The district comprises Union and Wallowa counties. A very appropriate program was rendered, after which a competitive drill in ritualistic work took place, which was very beautifully and ably disposed of by each team. Two hundred and fifty visiting knights were present. The convention closed with a grand banquet given under the auspices of the Rathbone Sisters at the Commercial club rooms.

POLICE AND STRIKERS IN BLOODY AFFRAY

(Copyright, Hearst News Service, by Leased Wire to The Journal.)

Hamburg, May 6.—A state of disorder, the like of which has never been known in this city, has existed here since May 1, and bloody encounters are daily taking place between the strikers and the police. Last night a pitched battle was fought near the Klosterther and another at St. Pauli. In both places the strikers first attacked the police with a shower of bricks and stones, whereupon the policemen drew their swords and wounded many persons, among them several women and children.

BODY OF MISSING MONTANA MAN FOUND

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Miles City, Mont., May 6.—The body of Fred Croslen who has been missing for some time was today discovered buried under a coal bank on Frozen Dog creek a few miles from this place.

Croslen was sent by his employer, Maurice Howard, for a load of coal and this was the last seen of him alive. As he did not return a searching party was sent out and it was found that the bank had caved in on him completely covering his body.

SCIENTIFIC MEN COMING TO FAIR

Date of Congress Changed, to Meet Wishes of President, Dr. Howard.

SEPTEMBER IS CHOSEN INSTEAD OF EARLY JUNE

Effort Will Be Made to Get Some Leading European Thinkers Here.

The dates for the Lewis and Clark Scientific congress have been changed from June 6-7 to September 11-14 to accommodate Dr. L. O. Howard, who was recently elected president of the congress, and other eastern scientists who could not come to Portland so early in the season.

Edmund P. Sheldon, the corresponding secretary of the congress, recently received a telegram from Dr. Howard thanking the committee for conferring on him the office of president, but stating that he could not accept the position unless the congress were held sometime in September, as he had to go to Europe in the summer. Another telegram was received from Dr. David T. Day, as follows:

"After a careful conference with Dr. Howard I feel certain that the congress will be a failure if not delayed until September. Dr. Howard will at once accept the presidency and plan a magnificent organization, which will assure a large attendance and great success if the congress is postponed to a time when he can attend. I strongly urge this action."

As soon as these telegrams were received Mr. Sheldon called the local committee together, and after consideration the congress was postponed. They felt that with Dr. Howard at the head of the congress the meeting would be given greater attention by scientific men throughout the country.

Dr. Howard and Dr. Day will now begin their plans for the meeting and will endeavor to enlist many eminent scientists in the gathering. Dr. Day has already taken steps toward organizing an excursion of at least 300 professors and students from eastern universities and colleges, who will leave New York for Portland about a week before the congress opens. In all probability Dr. Howard will try to induce several European scientists to come to the exposition and deliver lectures before the congress.
