New Duty Suggested That Would Make Life Much Happier to All.

Dr. E. L. House preached yesterday morning at the Taylor street Methodist church on "The Duty of Pleasing." The speaker said, in part:

"Let every one please his neighbor for his good," is a startling sentence. It seems to break every bone in our body, it roasts us before a slow fire, to help everybody, especially those who are not of our kind; we don't intend to do it. And yet this is the command of our text. And when we stop and get our breath and think about it, it has the right sort of ring in it, and has the help of the world needs.

"We all know how much depends upon pleasing men if we would make them of the best possible service to us, or set them forward in the work of their own self improvement. As to where God would have us begin this blessed mission of pleasing others, we might say in the last place we should choose, namely at home. Our nearest neighbor is there. What a change would come over householders if every member endeavored to please every other member. You have read of nitro-glycerine factories out in the woods, where men go tiptoeing about for fear some noise or jar will cause an explosion. In how many families do mothers and children go tiptoeing around for fear of arousing or crossing a tired or a quick-tempered father. One of the most beautiful features about the Kings Daughters organization is the emphasis laid upon the ministry at home. Whenever a girl asks Margarette Bottoms what she should do in the way of particular work, her question is: 'Have you a mother, and have you asked her what more you can do to help her?'

The parent who fails to practice the art of pleasing and to cultivate a cheerful temper loses or loses one of the strongest bonds to hold his child at home, and this work of pleasing should be carried into our places of business. Business men have here a rare chance of exemplifying an interest in their employes.

"How it would change life if this principle were inculcated. Here is a chance for doing something more than making a living; one can make a life. And this duty of pleasing must be extended to all classes. Such an atmosphere will bridge the chasm between the rich and the poor, between the capitalist and the laboring man."

SOCIAL SYSTEM WRONG, SAYS DR. CHAPMAN

At the People's Forum last night Dr. C. H. Chapman declared that all public utilities should be controlled by the government.

"The present social system is all wrong," said he. "Men should be governed in their every day life by a higher power than their own will, namely, government. Public ownership of public utilities is only proper. Business even should be under direct control of the government."

"Men should not be discharged without permission. The supreme court does wrong in declaring that a law limiting the hours of labor is unconstitutional. Strikes are the only weapons in the hands of the laboring men. Strike breakers are truly scabs and are doing a great wrong."

"We have an undue fear of socialism. We even fear the public ownership of public utilities. But the countries that hate socialism most are the strongest for this very thing. The growth of civilization makes valuable the public utilities—the street railways, railroads, gas and electricity. Moreover, the things in which the whole public is interested should be well cared for."

In concluding his address, Dr. Chapman stated that the only way to do away with the slavery of wages would be to place the whole matter in the hands of the government, so that the workingman would contract like soldiers, and all personal feeling would be absent, and the old feeling of feudal predominance would be lost.

FREE METHODISTS OFFER ASSISTANCE

Would Give Money to Prosecute the Men Who Tared and Feathered Cawood.

At the 10th annual session of the Oregon conference of the Free Methodist church at Springfield from May 2 to May 7 the following resolution was passed:

"That it is the sense of this conference that in the event the Washington conference undertakes the matter of prosecuting the parties who committed the outrage upon Dr. E. E. ### EXPERT BAREBACK RIDERS WITH CIRCUS

Until the present season, Norris & Rowe's greater circus made no attempt to make a special feature of riding acts. Their contention was that until they could secure the very highest class equestrians they would not offer inferior acts. However, continued offers of unusually large salaries finally won, and the young circus owners take pride in introducing such celebrities of the arena as Miss Rose Dockrill, of the celebrated Dockrill family; George Holland and Frank Miller, the acknowledged leaders of horsemanship; Austin King, champion jockey and hurdle rider; Billy Miller, William Sutton, Joseph Haines, Mlle. Julien-Julien and Estelle Setzer, all expert bareback riders.

The Norris & Rowe's greater circus exhibits in Portland under the enormous water-proof tent located at Multnomah Field, May 12 and 13.

"HEART OF MARYLAND" THE OPENING PLAY

As was announced several days ago, Belasco and Mayer have engaged Eugene Ormonde to be leading man with the Belasco Stock company. The deal with Lillian Kemble fell through, and Mr. Belasco announces the engagement of Lucia Moore, a New York woman, for leading roles.

Mr. Ormonde has been leading man with Blanche Bates for several seasons, and was seen here at Kora last January in "The Darling of the Gods." Others in the company, which will open on June 1, in "The Heart of Maryland," will be John Sainpola, Virginia Brisbane, The Belasco, Clarence, Montaigne, Jack Harpe, Eric Williams, Charles Mason, John Bradley, William Wallace, Eleanor Gordon, Laura Adams, Christie McLain and Eleanor Haber.

SUBURBS QUARREL OVER STRAY COWS

Mt. Tabor Impounds Montavilla Wanderers and Collects Good Fees Through Enterprise.

PROFITABLE BUSINESS FOR THE ENTERPRISING

Charge Is Made That the Unsuspecting Animals Are Lured Into Private Corrals.

The east side office of The Journal is in the store of Mrs. F. W. McKinney, 200 East Morrison street. Telephone East 275.

Mount Tabor and Montavilla, though neighboring suburbs and facing much the same problems, are not on speaking terms and the patient cow caused it all. Mount Tabor has agitated this question, acted on it and finally made it so uncomfortable for the man who turned loose his beast that few home cows were at large. Montavilla has no special interest in the cow question and no attempt is made to keep the animals confined except by a few gardeners. Consequently when the Mount Tabor cows were kept off the commons, Montavilla cows came and browsed where the grass was long and tender.

Mount Tabor retaliated by impounding the visiting cattle and charging $1 a head when the owners came for them. Montavilla did not object seriously to this, but when a few enterprising Mount Tabor citizens were accused of having started individual pounds and made a business of herding loose cows into their front yards and collecting damages, then a protest went up. It has been openly charged by irate Montavilla residents that several yards in Mount Tabor are used as a trap to lure the passing cow, and that often stray animals are driven into private corrals for the pound fees. There is no denial in Mount Tabor of this individual charge, but in reply it is charged that Montavilla cows have no business at large in the streets or elsewhere, and that even were they only browsing on the commons they are liable to impounding. It is further stated that all strays will be shut up and fees collected until Montavilla cows choose some other pasturage.

STONE CLAIM PAID.

Multnomah camp, Woodmen of the World, collectively and individually, met with better treatment at the hands of the general convention recently held in Los Angeles than any other lodge. The claim of Mrs. E. A. Stone against the order was an example. Mr. Stone held a policy of $1,000 and was a member of Multnomah camp. At the time of his death the last payment was six days' delinquent and the local officers were unable to pay the claim presented by the widow. The matter was taken to the grand officers and they, too, turned it down, holding that the law was plain on this question. Mrs. Stone at Los Angeles presented her case to the entire convention, and Multnomah members told how great her need was for the money. After much discussion the claim was allowed in full, and of the several hundred that came before the convention this was the only delinquent policy paid.

ADOPTS SEPTIC TANKS.

Mount Tabor fears that it may not be included in the city limits by the Portland voters in June, and in seeking some relief from the present unsanitary sewerage conditions that exist there the septic tank has met with approval. Though these have been used by only a few institutions in the suburb they have given satisfaction under adverse conditions and many families are preparing to adopt the system. The Portland sanitarium has a single tank that has cared for all the refuse of the institution at a very slight cost, and it is estimated that the entire suburb can be provided with septic tanks for less than half the cost of even the most inefficient sewer. Should the place be able to secure adequate water service its needs would be for the time supplied without admission to the city.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH OPEN.

The new Central Baptist church was opened to the public yesterday. This edifice has been erected at a cost of $12,000, at East Twentieth and East Ankeny streets. Rev. William E. Randall preached yesterday, his morning sermon being "Present Day Truth," and the evening theme "A Twentieth Century Church." The pews and the pipe organ will not arrive for some weeks and all these who endeavor to secure some winter for the sanitarium service each Sunday afternoon. Some difficulty has been experienced in inducing ministers to visit the place.

CONSUMPTIVES HOLD SERVICE.

The first religious services held at the open air sanitarium for consumptives near Milwaukie was that of yesterday afternoon when Rev. A. S. Poth of Patton Methodist church preached. It had been planned to hold the meeting in the open air, but the thunder shower made it necessary to seek shelter, and the first was used, many of the invalids listening to the service, though unable to leave their tents. A number of church workers from the city attended and these who endeavor to secure some winter for the sanitarium service each Sunday afternoon. Some difficulty has been experienced in inducing ministers to visit the place.

EAST SIDE NOTES.

Rev. Father L. A. Brosseau yesterday confirmed a class of eight adults at the Church of the Precious Blood in Mount Tabor. Rev. William Hogan preached the baptismal sermon.

The Piedmont Presbyterian church was dedicated yesterday afternoon. Rev. W. E. Holt officiating. Misses Helen, Francis and Catherine Dekum presented a costly bell, and money was also received to purchase a pulpit set.

St. Johns will soon have a large brickyard in operation. Mayor W. H. King has completed his plant, and this week a 20,000 capacity machine will be installed.

ANOTHER HIGHLAND VICTORY.

The Carabana ball team of Highland added another victory to its score yesterday when the Sunnyside team was defeated on its home grounds. The ninth inning closed with the score of 13 to 4 in the visitors' favor, and now the Highland team is ready for all amateur challenges.
