PORTLAND CHARMS WIN CONDUCTORS

Will Spread Story of City's Beauties and Hospitality in the East.

ORDER REELECTS MANY CAPABLE OFFICERS

Closing Meeting of the Great Biennial Session Will Be Held Tonight.

With today's session the thirtieth convention of the grand division of the Order of Railway Conductors will be concluded. Delegates at the Armory this afternoon are deciding where the 1907 session is to be held. Memphis is said to be the most likely candidate.

The session that closes today has been devoted largely to matters of routine that are of interest only to members of the order. Resolutions indorsing the attitude of President Roosevelt with reference to rate legislation, but opposing the placing of such powers in the hands of a commission, were adopted.

Resolutions were also adopted severely condemning the alleged apathy and indifference of Powell Clayton, American ambassador to Mexico, to the afflictions of railway conductors in that country. The president and congress were asked to take action to prevent the mistreatment of conductors in the southern republic.

At yesterday's session officers of the grand division were reelected. Other officers and the various committees are to be elected today. Grand officers were reelected as follows:

Officers of the Order.

E. E. Clark, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, grand chief conductor.

A. B. Garretson, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, assistant grand chief conductor.

W. J. Maxwell, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, grand secretary and treasurer.

C. H. Wilkins, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, grand senior conductor.

L. E. Sheppard, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, grand junior conductor.

While the session will conclude with tonight's meeting, the delegates will not all return at once. Many are preparing to depart soon, but others declare that they intend to spend several days visiting points of interest in the northwest that they have been unable to see up to this time.

"Portland will receive the best advertising it ever had when the conductors return to their homes," said one of the delegates. "Conductors are in close touch with the public, and have the public's confidence. And I believe that every one who attended this session will take it on himself to say not only a good word for this city, but to tell conditions here. If people actually knew what this city offers, you would have a hard time keeping them away.

No "Hot Air" Needed.

"There has been so much 'hot air' peddled in the east about certain western cities that many have begun to believe it is all talk. But we will dispel any such ideas with reference to Portland."

Frank C. Simkins of Camden, New Jersey, has decided on a novel way to advertise Portland. He was so favorably impressed with the city that he will take it on himself personally to advertise the story of Portland's hospitality, the beauties of the city, the advantages of the northwest, and particularly of Oregon.

Mr. Simkins in the summer comes into contact with many people. He has charge of one of the fast flying express trains on the Atlantic city railroad, between Philadelphia and Atlantic City. The season at the seashore resorts is just opening, and in a few weeks Atlantic City will have grown from a little place of 20,000 inhabitants to a city containing nearly 500,000. On Saturdays alone, during the summer, more than 20,000 people are carried between Philadelphia and Atlantic City, and Mr. Simkins has a plan to advertise Portland and Oregon among these many thousands.

Atlantic City division No. 446, which Mr. Simkins represents, numbers among its members all the conductors who run between Philadelphia and Atlantic City on both the Pennsylvania and Reading railroads. Mr. Simkins when he returns east will deliver a lecture to this lodge, telling them of the advantages of Portland, and what the fair is to be and urge each conductor to spread the news among this great pleasure-loving crowd, who are always on the outlook for something new to see. He believes many persons will learn of Portland and become visitors to this city before the fair closes.

E. E. Clark, Reelected Grand Chief Conductor, O. R. C.

REFUSED LICENSE FOR SALOON NEAR FAIR

W. L. Schue was refused a license to conduct a saloon at 875 Upshur street yesterday afternoon by the liquor license committee of the city council. The location of the proposed drinking shop is within a short distance of the fair grounds.

L. M. Palinbaum was granted a license to conduct a saloon at 514 Washington street. An investigation of the application of Fred P. Reed to conduct a saloon at 171 Third street will be made by the committee. M. Sachetta was granted a grocer's license at 641 Fourth street. A. Liswig was granted a permit to transfer his saloon from 284 North Seventeenth to 676 Thurman street.

LUMBER COMBINE DELAYS TRAFFIC

Contractors Repairing Burnside Street Bridge Say Dealers Will Not Sell Material.

WORK WOULD HAVE BEEN FINISHED BUT FOR THIS

Structure May Not Be Ready for Use Within a Week at Earliest.

The inability of the contractors to obtain lumber for redecking the Burnside street bridge has delayed work on that structure and the bridge will not be reopened for railway and wagon traffic until next Friday at the earliest. Through W. S. Chapman, the engineer in charge of the work, the county court has daily importuned the contractors to hasten the repairs, but yesterday afternoon was the first time that they could be induced to make any sort of a promise. Even that was conditional on the delivery of the lumber. If the planks were received today or tomorrow, cars could pass over the bridge Friday and teams Friday afternoon or Saturday morning; if the lumber was not received until later, the bridge could not be got into shape before Monday.

"We have tried our best to get the work done on time," said a representative of Paquet & Giebisch, the contractors, to Mr. Chapman. "When we started out we bought lumber from Inman, Poulsen & Co. They are now away behind in their orders, and we have to wait our turn. We have asked the other mills to give us lumber, but they have said that they cannot spare it, as they, too, are behind in their orders."

"It looks to me as if all the mills were in a combine," said Mr. Chapman. "I called at the mills and all refused to give me any lumber for the bridge. The intimation was that as the contractors had begun buying from Inman, Poulsen & Co., the other mills would not furnish them any material. So the contractors must wait upon Inman, Poulsen & Co., and people on both sides of the river must suffer. I have heard that business on East Burnside street has suffered considerably since the bridge was closed."

If the bridge is not open by Friday the penalty clause of the contract may be enforced against the contractors. J. B. Tillotson, who had the contract for the pile work, was eight days behind in his work, and is subject to a fine of $50 a day. Paquet & Giebisch are not yet delinquent, but they have not many days to spare.

WOULD SELL GRAVES TO PAY THE TAXES

Lowly Beds of Long-Gone Pioneers in Lone Fir Cemetery May Be Disturbed.

ASSOCIATION REFUSES TO PAY ASSESSMENT

Contractor Anderson Demands That Corporation Reimburse Him for Building Sewer.

Somebody may be given an opportunity to purchase a portion of the Lone Fir cemetery and all that the land contains unless the Lone Fir Cemetery association consents to pay an assessment of $253 for the construction of the East Twenty-sixth street sewer between East Stark and Belmont streets.

Over a year ago the sewer was built by G. A. Anderson, and all the assessments of costs of the drain have been collected except that levied against the association, which refused to pay its share of the costs on the ground that the cemetery was exempt from taxation.

The city authorities did not agree with the association, and some time ago steps were taken to sell the property to satisfy the assessment. The property consists of a strip five blocks long and 100 feet wide adjacent to East Twenty-sixth street, and is dotted by many graves. When the time came for the property to be sold no bidders appeared, as evidently nobody desired to purchase such realty.

Mr. Anderson appeared before the judiciary and elections committee of the city council yesterday and asked that he be paid what is due him on the contract. City Attorney McNary informed the committee that the assessment against the cemetery association was just, and that it should be paid. The committee will notify people owning burial lots in the property affected that their land will be sold to satisfy the assessment lien, for the purpose of bringing pressure to bear on the members of the association to compel them to pay the amount of the assessment.

Members of the committee were of the opinion that as the Lone Fir Cemetery association was a business corporation it should be made to pay the assessment.

The association alleged that the assessment should be collected from the persons owning burial lots, but on investigation it was found that no deeds for any of the lots had ever been recorded, and that the property was legally held by the association.

SCHOOL EXHIBIT WILL PROVE INTERESTING

The exhibit of the Portland public schools, which will be the most attractive feature of the Oregon educational exhibit, at the Lewis and Clark exposition, is being rapidly installed.

Each elementary school has prepared a cabinet containing 33 pages of display matter and bound volumes containing specimens of the work of the pupils in the different grades. The compositions will be illustrated with drawings and pictures.

The High school students have prepared six cabinets showing specimens of academic work, and two cabinets for drawing. There will also be six cabinets devoted to drawing from the elementary schools, and a display from the manual training department.

The city board of school directors will appoint a keeper of the exhibit, whose duty it shall be to explain each feature to interested fair visitors.

Material for the educational exhibit is arriving from all parts of the state, and R. F. Robinson, the superintendent, is engaged in putting it in place. Not only are the public schools represented, but several private schools and colleges will make exhibits.

ORGANIZE TO CONSTRUCT BELCHER MOUNTAIN ROAD

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Rosalia, Wash., May 16.—The Belcher Mountain Railway company was incorporated Saturday for $100,000. Following are the directors: D. F. Anderson, Rosalia; E. R. Fraser, Spokane; J. L. Harper, Republic; C. H. McHaughton, Winnipeg, Manitoba; Ralston McCrais, Rosalia. The road is to be built from Lambert on the main line of the Washington & Great Northern railway, in Ferry county, to the Belcher mine, 10 miles away.

NEW ERA BEGUN FOR EAST SIDE

Central District to Have as Good Mail Service as the Most Busy West Side Section.

RUSH OF BUSINESS OPENS NEW OFFICE

Station A the First Independent Unit in System That Will Put Suburbs on Par With City.

The east side office of The Journal is in the store of Mrs. F. W. McKinney, 390 East Morrison street. Telephone East 275.

"Our object will be to give east side business men as good a delivery service as the west side now has, and to this end we will work," said W. S. Halvor, superintendent of Station A yesterday.

The new station at Union avenue and East Alder was opened for business yesterday and it was a busy day for clerks, carriers and superintendent and all branches of the office showed they were filling a long felt want. From early morning until the closing hour people who wanted money orders, those who wished to register packages, those who desired postage stamps and those who had instructions to give concerning the delivery of their mail crowded the office, and though the location of the station is not generally known still the first day's business was surprisingly large.

"We will make deliveries as far north as Holladay avenue and east to Twentieth street," said Mr. Halvor, "and this big district will be given better service as rapidly as possible. We can now make three deliveries to the business district a day and two to the residence section. This is an additional business delivery and is nearly as good service as the west side has, but it is our aim to give the residents three deliveries and the business four and to this end we are working."

The office has been located with the idea of expansion in mind. Though the present quarters are ample, still when the time comes for additional carriers an arch can be cut into the large room on the north and the present space doubled. The equipment of the office is complete and new desks, sack racks, tables, carrier stands and the department fixtures are shining with varnish and are of the latest design. Each carrier has ample floor space and a desk of his own and the plan has been to give enough room to permit of unhampered work.

Station A marks the beginning of an entirely new era in east side postal service, for hitherto all stations on that side of the river have depended more or less on the west side office. Station A, however, is a unit and is the independent nucleus around which will be built up an east side delivery service which will eventually be as complete and efficient as that of the business district on the west side.

SAVES CHILDREN.

Nervy Janitor Turns Maddened Horse From Crowd of Pupils.

Only the bravery of the janitor at the Mount Tabor school saved several children from serious injury one day last week. Just as the rooms were being dismissed for the noon hour and the pupils were crowding on the playground a horse dashed up the road and veered across the lot, the light buggy he was pulling bouncing and swaying behind him. The frightened horse was heading for the children at full speed, and the warning of the teachers was too late for many of the smaller pupils to escape.

At this moment the janitor jumped in front of the horse and tried to stop it. He discovered the animal had no bridle so he seized the mane of the beast and hung on. The horse veered away from the school yard and dashed across the road where it turned, with a jerk flung the janitor several feet away, and raced up the road, leaving the frightened children untouched.

SANATORIUM IS CROWDED.

Dr. W. R. Simmons, superintendent of the Portland sanatorium at Mount Tabor, is in Washington, District of Columbia, attending the annual conference of the Adventists. Dr. Simmons has general supervision over the northwest district and will present the needs of the territory to the general body. The sanatorium at Mount Tabor is filled with patients most of the time and often the institution is taxed to accommodate the applicants for treatment. The place has a large number of transient patients who come one week and go the next and the demands of this class are growing each month until the management sees the time in the near future when enlargements must be made, though it was not expected that the sanatorium would be crowded for years.

BALL GAME A RECORD ONE.

The Russellville and South Mount Tabor ball teams played a record game at Russellville Sunday. The game went for 10 innings and the final score was 19 to 20 with Mount Tabor one behind. The game resembled a horse race, one team gaining a lap in one inning and losing its lead in the next. The contest was witnessed by the population of the district and the umpire escaped with his life by an oversight.

WORK MORE, TALK LESS.

Despite the frequent announcement made concerning the final location of the new Woodmen hall at Mount Tabor, no definite plans have been made, according to the committee. The real plans are somewhat veiled as the members deny they have even chosen a site as yet. That a new hall will be built is generally affirmed by the lodge members but when, where and at what cost is not known, though these various questions have been presumably settled half a dozen times. No further announcement of the lodge's plans will be made until the contract is let, the site chosen and the corner stone in place, the members being pledged to secrecy and hard work.

DISPUTE OVER SHOP.

Blacksmith McBride of Montavilla after some delay has moved his shop to the middle of the street, and is guarding the same until he can establish it on his own property. The lot on which the shop stood was sold recently and the new owner of the land claimed the shop as a part of the bargain. McBride informed him that the shop belonged to him and not to the man who had sold the lot. A dispute arose and the blacksmith was ordered not to take off his shop. With the aid of a strong team he pulled the building into the street and invited interference but was not favored.

GRANGE WILL BE BUSY.

The Milwaukie grange will meet at its hall next Saturday and will devote the session to hearing papers and discussions on strawberry culture, and the culture of garden vegetables. June 3 the grange will hold an institute and will be addressed by professors and scientists from the Oregon Agricultural school. Milwaukie and Pomona granges will hold a joint meeting June 21, which will be in the nature of a social reunion.

MASS OF SORES

Awful Suffering of Little Boy from an Itching Humour

CURED BY CUTICURA

Not One Square Inch of Skin on His Whole Body Unaffected

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages used to stick to his skin and in removing them it used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. His skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy you never saw than he is to-day." ROBERT WATTAM, 4922 Center Ave., Chicago, Ill., Dec. 30, 1897.

SIX YEARS LATER

Mr. Wattam writes

"Your letter of the 21st in regard to the case of my little boy at hand. I am truly thankful to say that the cure effected by the Cuticura Remedies has been a most thorough and successful cure to date." Chicago, Feb. 23, 1903.
