

EXPERTS PLAIN WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE

National Association for the Study of Tuberculosis and its Prevention in Session.

DISEASES EVERY PHASE IS TREATED BY EXPERTS

Working Program for National, State and Local Associations Drawn Up.

(Journal Special Service.)

Washington, D. C., May 18.—In view of the estimate that 400 persons die from consumption every day in the United States, it is not to be wondered that the public as well as scientific interest attaches to the meeting begun here today by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. It is regarded as the most important meeting of lung specialists ever held in this country.

The initial session was held in the assembly room of the New Willard hotel this morning. Surgeon General Wyman of the United States marine hospital service presiding. Homer Folks of New York discussed tuberculosis from a layman's point of view, and Edward T. Devine of the same city presented a working program for national, state and local associations for the prevention of the disease. This afternoon sessions will treat of every phase of the disease. Climate and its relation to the cure of tuberculosis will most likely provoke a lively discussion. Efforts to arrive at a uniform nomenclature are also sure to be followed by much talk. The present use of different classifications of the various stages of the disease, and in some instances the different interpretation of the same classification render any comparison of results obtained a difficult matter.

In organizing the campaign against tuberculosis suggestions along these lines will be discussed and action taken upon them. An early and accurate diagnosis, compulsory notification of all cases, the formation of anti-tuberculosis societies in every city and village in the United States, if possible, to cooperate with national associations, more hospitals and sanitariums for both incipient and advanced cases, an educational campaign by means of pamphlets, newspaper articles, and also by having district nurses visit patients at their homes, disinfection of all rooms vacated by consumptives, more free dispensaries where the poor may obtain not only medical advice and medicines but also suitable food, the strict enforcement of ordinances prohibiting spitting in public places, the whitening of the facades of insanitary streets and blocks.

He expects to be collecting spawn within a few days, as large schools of salmon are near the hatchery. The hatchery is being repaired, and the buildings are being numbered, and an effort will be made to secure free mail delivery there, as Fairmount is within Eugene's city limits. When the numbers are placed on the houses all the requirements necessary for free mail delivery will have been completed with.

COMMITTEES WILL MAKE INSPECTION

Congressional Excursion Leaves Kansas City June First on Its Tour.

TO PERSONALLY INSPECT IRRIGATION PROJECTS

Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Colorado Among States in Which Stops Be Made.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)

Washington, D. C., May 18.—The congressional excursion, composed of members of both legislative committees of congress, and others, will leave Kansas City on June 1, and will make a large inspection of a number of the irrigation projects which the government is constructing in several of the western states and territories. The first stop will be made at El Paso, where a visit will be paid to the Engle dam site on the Rio Grande. The party will also take a 50-mile drive into the mountains of Arizona to examine the construction work now well under way on the Roosevelt dam. A careful study will be made of conditions on the Colorado river, the visit extending into the famous Imperial valley, portions of which are several hundred feet below sea-level. In California stops will be made at Riverside, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Redding and Sacramento.

On June 17, the third anniversary of the reclamation act, the congressional excursion party will be at Hailey, Nevada, at which time the waters will be turned upon 50,000 acres of land under the Truckee-Carson project, constructed by the government, and the first of the large irrigation projects to be put into operation. Leaving Nevada, short stops will be made in Ogden, Salt Lake, at various points in Idaho, Oregon, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. The party will break up July 4, at Denver, Colorado.

Included in the party are the following: Messrs. and Madeline Newlands, Fulton, Mondell, Cooper, Reeder, Marshall, Smith, Jones, Hitchcock; Senators Simmons, Dubois, Warren; Judge J. I. Parker, representing the secretary of the Interior, and his wife; C. J. Blanchard, representing the Idaho reclamation service, and his wife; W. H. MONTANA MURDER CASE NOW IN HANDS OF JURY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Butte, Mont., May 18.—The case of James Fuller, charged with the murder of Henry J. Gallahan, will go to the jury sometime today and the general sentiment prevails that a first degree verdict will be returned, which means punishment by death. The taking of testimony was concluded yesterday afternoon, when the defense introduced several witnesses for the purpose of impeaching the testimony of witnesses for the prosecution, who declared that they had seen Fuller shoot Gallahan after leaving a saloon returning and finding life still existed, draw a knife and stab the man's throat.

Fuller was not placed on the stand, the defense then raising its opening statement. The case has attracted much attention. Fuller is over 70 years of age and is a prospector. Last night he expressed himself as confident of acquittal, speaking in a childish vein, though he declared, if he could not have that, he hoped the jury would hang him, as he did not want a prison sentence.

ROGUE RIVER KING LOSES THREE SUITS

Circuit Court Decides Against R. D. Hume in Actions Against Burns.

ONE DECISION SETTLES THE FISHING QUESTION

May Carry to Supreme Tribunal—Cause of Controversy in Last Legislature.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Coeville, May 18.—Judge Hamilton has handed down three decisions from the circuit court in which R. D. Hume's fishing interests on Rogue river are involved. The first case is Hume against Burns, in which Hume claims exclusive right to fish in front of his tide lands extending from the mouth of Rogue river 16 miles up river on one side and eight miles on the other. In this case the law is held unconstitutional and Hume's claim of exclusive right is denied, the injunction dissolved and the bill dismissed.

The second case is Hume against Burns in which Hume sought to enjoin Burns from building a parking house on certain lands at Gold Beach, Hume claiming the land.

The other case was Burns against Hume, in which Burns asked to have a deed to Hume set aside as fraudulent. Burns held the land under contract to purchase from a third party; Burns allowed Hume's counsel to take the contract (which had not been recorded) for the purpose of examining it. The contract was returned to the grantor who then executed a deed to the land to Hume. Hume immediately brought an action of ejectment and dispossessed Burns before an injunction could be obtained. The court held that Hume's deed was obtained through fraud and put Burns in possession of the land.

The first of these cases settles the Hume fishery question which was the cause of so much controversy and one libel suit during the recent session of the legislature. E. B. Burns, the adverse party to Hume in these suits, is an uncle of Robert Burns, joint representative from Coos and Curry, and the issue of the campaign last year was virtually on this same question—Burns Democrat, carrying by a plurality of 45 a district which usually goes 800 Republican majority. It is understood that Hume will appeal to the supreme court.

BLOWS HIS BRAINS OUT AT BAKER CITY

Rancher of Wingville Takes His Life Because of Family Trouble.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Baker City, Or., May 18.—Charles Haskell, a miner and farmer, whose farm is situated at Wingville, in this valley, committed suicide at 1:30 o'clock this morning in the business office of the Helmer C. & C. company's store at this place. The cause of the act was family trouble. He was aged 35 years and leaves a widow and four children. Haskell walked into the store and addressing himself to Nelson McCord, an employe of the Helmer company, denounced him in vile terms as being the cause of his (Haskell's) trouble with his wife. He then covered McCord with a pistol and threatened to shoot him if he moved. Someone called to McCord from the store, and Haskell raised the gun to his own head and blew out his brains. He lived about an hour. An inquest was held and the jury's verdict was that the deceased came to his death by his own hand.
