

PORTLAND WINS IN SIXTH INNING

Locals Become Familiar With Charlie's Curves and Win in a Canter.

MASCOT KENO STARTS THE BATTING RALLY

Jones Had No Trouble in Keeping Hits Scattered, and Victory Was Easy.

Portland 5, Seattle 2.
Batteries—Jones and McLean; Shields and Frary.

When big Jack McLean let loose Keno, the canine mascot, yesterday, and that worthy puppy trotted toward Bert Jones as he stood at bat in the sixth inning, the 4,800 fans present felt morally certain that something was going to happen. And something did happen in that very inning. Up until that time Charlie "Deacon" Shields had denied the locals even the smallest kind of a hit, while the visitors were fortunate enough to garner two runs on as many bad throws by McCredie and Atz. Portland had waited just long enough and Keno barked as the signal for the fireworks. Shields was doing splendidly, and his old-time friends in the stand, those who had often applauded him in the days when he wore a Portland uniform and did the entire callathetic code before pitching the ball, gave him a friendly welcome and hearty credit for his work. It was very cruel indeed to do it, but it had to be done, and Bert Jones tore off the first safe one of the day. Jacobus Atz followed suit and Van Buren's attempted sacrifice was hurried to the fence by Kemmer, who didn't see any other place to throw it. Householder, who had been honestly struck out, but Indicator thought otherwise, and old "House" embarrassed "Charlie" by putting one among the mountains and valleys in left field. Of course "Charlie" didn't touch one safely, and with two down Michael Angelo Mitchell got friendly with "Charlie" and skinned one over second into the slough of Gault's lake in center field. The tragedy was done and the crowd sat up and noticed things.

It was a perfect day for baseball and no one cared anything about the exhibition. The national and exhibition flags hung smilingly and sweetly over the adjacent buildings, the distant din of the Trall and its accessories could be heard between spasms of joy when a good play was recorded, and the entire scene was typical of the first day of June and the occasion represented. Those in the front pews could see the condensors at work in the outfield, those in the middle section appreciated the duck shooting in left field, while the fans in the back rows could see nothing but mud battles in many parts of the infield. The field was in poor condition and that more errors were not made may be attributed more to good luck than to good play. The condition of Recreation park yesterday was a reflection upon the athletic commission of the fair, who have promised many times to have the field in playing form.

The general work of the locals was very good, being in keeping with their perfect work during the past 11 games.

Detail of Game.

Kane, the speedy little Slivash third baseman, led off in the first inning with a long drive to right, which McCredie fielded but threw wild to second, allowing Kane to take third. Dusty Miller attempted to advance Kane, but his effort was a pop fly to Atz. Lefty Houts smashed a hard one at Runkle, who slipped to the ground on the treacherous footing, but threw nicely to first while off his balance and Houts was out, but Kane had scored. Kemmer went out at first.

Shields pitched in grand form at the start and easily had the locals guessing during the early part of the engagement, and Charlie seems to know that he was invincible and went through many supposedly graceful evolutions for the benefit of the ladies. But pride usually goes before a fall and in this instance the former Portlander fell with the proverbial dull, sickening thud.

Before Shields met his Waterloo, or Mukden, Seattle had acquired another ace, which went on record when Jakey Atz heaved Lefty Houts' hit to the bleachers and the former McCloskeyite went to second in the fourth inning instead of to the bench. Big Bill Schiaffly and Ralph Frary pasted one to deep left center for two bases, scoring Houts. That was all for Seattle, for Harry Schiaffly took care of Jimmy McHale and Rushnessa Hall.

The grand entrance of the local invincibles into the run column came in the sixth inning. "Doctor Levy's" troubles were started by "Crooked Arm" Adelbert, whose safe hit to left gathered some of the locals' luck and sundry evolutions in the routing line which are common to only fans of the thirty-third degree.

Jakey Atz followed Jones with another beauty, and Gus Moser had another spasm, and Harry Howland vied with Fred Olsen in vocal exercise. Bill Kemmer sent the tried and true into the seventh heaven of delight when he heaved Van Buren's perfect hunt into the right field bleachers, allowing Jones to score. Atz to take third and Van to perch on second. Eddie Householder carelessly Keno, the mascot, who responded with a yelp of delight and Eddy drove one past Kane, scoring Jake and Van. Schiaffly poked a Texas back of second and two were on bases with no one out, and three runs in the hit. The judge put down a neat sacrifice, which he might have beat out had he hurried. Then big "Lajole" McLean ambled to the plate and drove out two long fouls, but on the third swing Mac missed connections and was out. Then Mike Mitchell effectually clinched the game with a corking drive to center field, which scored Householder and Schiaffly. Runkle ended the inning with a chance to Fenney.

Roscoe Miller attempted to swipe some of the locals' luck, and grabbing Keno from the Portland bench took the mascot over to the Seattle bench and rubbed the dog's feet over the Siwash sticks.

Kane got a hit in the eighth, when Runkle, Jones and McLean allowed his pop up to drop safe, and Charlie Hall baited for Fenney in the ninth, securing a safe hit, but Jones refused to allow any more binges and the visitors were closed out without any more runs registering.

SPORTING GOSSIP.

Secretary Ely is going to operate a gondola service in the great lakes on Recreation park. The boats will run all day and during the evening.

Skel Roach refused to play with Portland this season, claiming that he preferred to perform on a winning team. Wonder how old "Skel" likes the position of the Seattle team.

Charles Shields is the handsomest man in the Pacific Coast league. He is perfectly built and can pose in a more modest manner than any other of his ilk in Christendom. Every honest Portlander regretted to see Shields lose his game yesterday. Well, that will be about all.

Every well-regulated ball club should possess an intelligent mascot. The importance of such a respectable asset was apparent in yesterday's game.

Portland is playing good ball these days and the fans thoroughly appreciate the victories. Good work cannot help but produce satisfactory results.

The race for the pennant in the Pacific Coast league is an interesting one in every respect, as every club has a chance for honors. The closeness of the race is evidenced by the fact that should Portland, Tacoma and Los Angeles win today, four clubs will be tied for second place with a percentage of .500, viz.: Portland, Oakland, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR HYOMEI

Far Easier to Cure Catarrh Now Than at Any Other Season.

Now is the time to use Hyomei when the early summer days make it so easy to cure catarrhal troubles. The Hyomei treatment, breathed for a few minutes three or four times a day in May or June will do good twice as quickly as it did in January, and nearly everyone knows that used faithfully then, it completely rids the system of catarrh.

Hyomei is a purely vegetable preparation whose active curative properties are given off when it is breathed by the aid of the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit. It destroys all germ life in the air passages, purifies the blood by supplying additional ozone, and its healing, volatile, antiseptic fragrance reaches every corner of the respiratory tract as no medicine taken through the stomach can possibly do.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar, and consists of a neat inhaler that can be carried in the purse or vest-pocket and will last a lifetime, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hyomei. Extra bottles of Hyomei can be procured, if desired, for fifty cents.

At this season of the year when catarrhal troubles can be so quickly and readily cured, the merits of the Hyomei treatment should be carefully investigated by everyone and a complete outfit should be in every home. Woodard, Clarke & Co. give their personal guarantee with every Hyomei outfit they sell to refund the money if it does not give satisfaction. There is no risk whatever to the purchaser of Hyomei.

OREGON TRACK SQUAD TRAINING EXTRA HARD

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Eugene, Or., June 2.—Since its defeat by Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis, May 27, the track squad of Oregon university has been training extra hard for the state meet day at Salem, June 16. Henderson is not able to compete, because he is obliged to leave college to go to work. Henderson will have completed his examinations before this meet, but will return to enter the contest if he can arrange it with his employers. Henderson means seven points for the varsity.

Trainer Hayward figures the result of the meet, providing Henderson takes part, thus: Oregon 45 points out of a possible 148; Corvallis 55; Pacific university 25 and Willamette university 7.

HANLON AND CORBETT TO MEET TONIGHT

(Journal Special Service.)

San Francisco, June 2.—Interest in the Eddie Hanlon-John Corbett contest has lived to a noticeable degree as the date for the encounter approached and Woodward's pavilion promises to be comfortably filled tonight with ring enthusiasts anxious to see the two little fellows again battle for supremacy. Both have been training faithfully since the articles were signed, with the result that each appears to be in the best of condition. It is slated to be a 20-round affair.

This will be their third meeting in the ring. The first took place more than two years ago and after 20 rounds of fast and interesting milling was declared a draw, although the consensus of opinion was that Hanlon's margin at the final gong was large enough to entitle him to the verdict. Their second fight took place December 29, 1923, Corbett winning handily in 18 rounds. Ned Homer will referee the contest.

CHERRY LASS THE WINNER

CALIFORNIA CREW KEEPS.

The University of California rowing four arrived in Portland yesterday from Seattle, where they defeated the crews of the Washington and Stanford universities in a three-cornered regatta on May 31. The University of California boys are scheduled to meet the junior four of the Portland Rowing club on Saturday afternoon, over a mile and a half course, the finish of which is at the Morrison street bridge. The crews are as follows:

University of California—Jones stroke, Bannister 1, Ed Dodge 2, Evans bow. Portland Rowing club—Harlow stroke, Smid 2, Duncan 3, Smith bow.
