

THE OREGON DAILY JOURNAL

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

C. S. JACKSON PUBLISHED BY JOURNAL PUBLISHING CO.

Published every evening (except Sunday) and every Sunday morning at The Journal Building, Fifth and Yamhill streets, Portland, Oregon.

SMALL CHANGE

Don't forget to wear a rose. The Trail is a great place to hit. Last evening for campaign speeches...

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR TOMORROW

By E. D. Jenkins, D. D. June 4, 1906. Topic: The Resurrection. John xv: 20-26. Gen. Text: "But now hath Christ been raised from the dead, the first fruits of them that are asleep..."

LEWIS AND CLARK

En route up the Missouri river from Fort Mandan, near the site of Minnack, North Dakota. The party is now near the Rocky mountains.

A QUESTION WHICH THEY HAVE ANSWERED.

IN A MODEST little paragraph concerning the present campaign the Oregonian arises to assert and inquire: "A Democrat is running as a Democrat against a Republican. Why should any Republican vote for a Democrat to be mayor of Portland?"

tion, from reservoirs of stored water or artesian wells, even the desert can be made to blossom as the rose. All this vast western portion of the continent needs and calls for more men—and women—and children later.

ELECTRICITY IN LOCAL TRAFFIC.

MUCH HAS BEEN SAID from time to time about the experimental or definitive adoption by the railroads of the country of electricity as their principal motive power.

It isn't a dove that will carry peace to the czar. Rojevstevsky was knocked out while trying to steal a base. Pienickers should take umbrellas; we have a lot of rain due yet.

The Salem Statesman suggests initiating the recall on the referendum. Keep politics out of the exposition, and the exposition out of politics.

Philadelphia feels so happy it is talking of celebrating the Fourth of July. It will take a good many visits to the fair to see it all as one ought to.

This is also a great day for Oregon—the portage road will be formally opened.

Behind the Republican party mask in the Liquor Dealers' association, that seeks to ruin Portland.

The value of those ships will not count as an offset in the amount of indemnity Japan will claim.

Chicago Record-Herald: The liberty bell is not to be taken out to the Portland fair. "Is well. They need it every minute right in Philadelphia.

People in famine-stricken districts of Spain are demanding bread or work. In this country the people that demand bread will take no substitute in the shape of work.

Portland and Oregon are greatly obliged to President Roosevelt and Vice-President Fairbanks, and Representative Tawney and the rest, and wish they could have the pleasure of staying in Oregon longer.

The Republican newspapers persist in misrepresenting Mr. Bryan in a jersey coat for $10, and all the Republican papers in the county accused him of buying a $500 heifer—adding a cipher to the amount and changing the sex of the animal. But he has nailed the lie in the Commoner.

Woodburn is proud of its iron foundry. Pendleton is to have an open-air theatre. Wasco county votes on prohibition Monday.

New M. E. Church South in the Calipoolia region. Home-raised new potatoes plentiful in Marshfield. Hubbard's importance as a trading point is increasing.

Hood River flouring mill grinding night and day to fill orders. Berry and other crops greater than ever in Hood River valley.

A sawmill in the Blue mountains, 10 miles from Weston, employs 50 men. Only four to seven pupils in the Spray school, yet a newspaper is published there.

Hopgrowers will pay for picking by weight this year, 50 pounds being a legal box. A Wheeler county locality is named Six Shoters. Everybody is supposed to carry one.

A Marshfield man while carrying an ax slipped and fell, and it cut the back of his head open. Gervais Star: The first new potatoes of the season were brought in by Mrs. Louis Gehlman. The Star was favored beyond measure.

Many houses, business and residence, are contemplated in Woodburn, while the city is industriously engaged in improving the thoroughfares. Tillamook city is defendant in a water suit, and has contracted to pay lawyers $200 to defend it, while another lawyer offered to do so for nothing.

Preparations are being made on a large scale for the spring roundup of horses on the Umatilla county ranges. The Indians will run in every horse on this range and branding will flourish for a short time.

A Junction City bank changed a $20 bill for a "hobo" who had offered it in payment for a pair of shoes, and later the cashier discovered that it was a $1 bill raised to $20 by means of figures from a tobacco stamp.

Tillamook Herald: Dairy ranches are to be had in Tillamook that are now growing back to brush, from which they were reclaimed. Prospective immigrants should be made aware of the inducements awaiting them in this county.

Cook's Bay News: The prospect is favorable that the $43,000 left over from the jerry work will be diverted to dredging inside the harbor, when congress meets next winter. It is estimated that this amount will remove the shoals between Marshfield and Empire, assuring a depth of 18 feet at low water between here and the bar.

boycott, because they have no argument to stand upon. Some of those who stand in the forefront of the crusade against vice must suffer at first, but ere long the people will come to their senses and wonder how they could have been frightened at the threats of this cowardly cohort, as it flings its last defiance at civilization, before passing into oblivion and utter dishonor.

Let the friends of decency take the blows. The world will understand and appreciate their work as long as they stand back to the departing forces of evil that have struck in the darkness and fled.

In the fell clutches of circumstance I have not winced nor cried aloud: In my bloodnings of chance and fate, my head is bloody but unbowed!

Although the fourth gospel gives us a very full and complete account of our Lord's career, John dwells upon the resurrection with as much fullness as either of the other evangelists.

Verse 19: Upon the day of his resurrection Jesus was seen of Mary Magdalene (v: 14), by Peter (I Cor. v: 5), by the two disciples on the way to Emmaus (Luke xxiv: 15), and then he was seen of the eleven who were shut in an upper chamber waiting to see what would be the next blow from their enemies.

Verse 20: Not yet had his body assumed its celestial condition. It was needful to exhibit it as it had been known to them in order that they might be convinced of the reality of the event.

Verse 21-23: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 24: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 25: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 26: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 27: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 28: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 29: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 30: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 31: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 32: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 33: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 34: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 35: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 36: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 37: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 38: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 39: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 40: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 41: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 42: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 43: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 44: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 45: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 46: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 47: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 48: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 19: Upon the day of his resurrection Jesus was seen of Mary Magdalene (v: 14), by Peter (I Cor. v: 5), by the two disciples on the way to Emmaus (Luke xxiv: 15), and then he was seen of the eleven who were shut in an upper chamber waiting to see what would be the next blow from their enemies.

Verse 20: Not yet had his body assumed its celestial condition. It was needful to exhibit it as it had been known to them in order that they might be convinced of the reality of the event.

Verse 21-23: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 24: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 25: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 26: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 27: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 28: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 29: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 30: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 31: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 32: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 33: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 34: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 35: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 36: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 37: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 38: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 39: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 40: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 41: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 42: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 43: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 44: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 45: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 46: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 47: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 48: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

Verse 49: Jesus by a tender and significant act reassures them. They shall go with them. The one great offering for sin has now been made and they are to proclaim forgiveness to all who will believe.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Is It Patentable? Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

Portland, June 7.—To the Editor of The Journal.—I have long wondered why the doctrines of philanthropy, universal peace, and brotherhood, which are the basis of our civilization, have not been established as a universal law, a desideratum devoutly to be hoped for...

En route up the Missouri river from Fort Mandan, near the site of Minnack, North Dakota. The party is now near the Rocky mountains. June 8.—At an early hour we crossed and fixed our camp in the point formed by the junction of the river with the Missouri. It now became an interesting question which of these two streams was what the Minnatares called the Columbia, or the Missouri, which they described as approaching very near to the Columbia. On the right decision much of the fate of the expedition depended, since if after descending the Rocky mountains and passing the bend where we found that the river we were following did not come near the Columbia, and be obliged to return, we should not only lose the traveling season, two months which had been wasted, but probably dishearten the men so much as to either induce them to abandon the enterprise or yield us a cold obedience instead of the warm and zealous support which they had hitherto afforded us.

While they were gone we ascended together the high grounds in the fork of the river, whence we had a very extensive prospect of the surrounding country. On every side it was spread into one vast plain covered with verdure, in which innumerable herds of buffaloes were grazing, attended by their families.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.

On our return we continued our examination. The width of the north branch is 200 yards, the south fork 175. The river, though narrower, and with a gentler current, is deeper than the south; its waters, too, are of the same whitish brown color, thickness and turbidness; they run in the same channel, and rolling masses of water, uniform in character, the Missouri, and its bed is composed of some gravel, but principally mud. The south fork is deeper, but its waters are perfectly transparent; its current is rapid, and the surface is characterized by a succession of rapids and falls.