The band rendered several selections in the Auditorium at 11:30 this morning and was enthusiastically applauded. "We didn't have any special reason for organizing a band," said one of the musicians, "but we got to talking about it and after the talk began it was only a short time until we organized, in January. I don't know whether there are any other ladies' bands in the state

"It doesn't seem a bit strange to us now to play before crowds. At first we were somewhat scared, but we all passed that long ago."

Saloon men are jubilant over the result and confident that the prohibition interests will not again attempt to close up the county for some years.
